

CAMP WHITE PWS ARE RECAPTURED COLD AND HUNGRY

Two more German prisoners of war from the Camp White stockade have found the "great outdoors" hereabouts much greater than they had anticipated and hungry, cold, disillusioned and docile have been herded back to meditate upon the error of their way.

Hermann Dirr, 21, and Hermann Goebel, 25, latest to flee the camp, were returned Friday after having been apprehended 32 miles east of Crescent City. Departing the night of March 26, with Mexico as their destination, the pair subsisted on peanuts for seven days and had nothing at all to eat for four days, they told their captors.

First making for the Table Rock district, the fugitives had followed Rogue river toward the coast. Keeping off roads during the daytime and sleeping in barns or in the woods at night, their progress was slow. They had planned to subsist on fish from the river but found the matter of catching them beyond their ability.

A. C. Hamilton, of Ashland, notified authorities in Crescent City Friday that he had passed two men wearing army overcoats and acting suspiciously near Idlewild in Del Norte county. Officer F. Plaisted, Sheriff Austin Huffman and Captain Edgar Huffman of the state highway patrol left to investigate and soon found the Germans who seemed relieved that their hardships of the open road were over. Notified of the capture by the California officers, Captain Leopold E. Fritze, director of security and intelligence at Camp White, returned the prisoners to the stockade Friday. Although around half a dozen Germans have attempted escape from Camp White none enjoyed freedom more than a few days. Dirr and Goebel being out the longest and probably covering the greatest distance.

FEDERAL BUILDING EXPANSION NEED EYED IN MEDFORD

A press report last week from Washington, D. C., which quoted Sen. Guy Cordon of Oregon as saying that careful consideration will be given needs for a new federal office building in Medford, has caused considerable speculation here.

Cordon was said to have been informed by the postoffice department that it would make a survey of postwar federal housing requirements in Medford and if it finds new buildings needed they will be included in any postwar building program submitted to congress.

Postmaster Frank DeSouza revealed Saturday that he had received a questionnaire calling for data for consideration in possible plans for a new federal building or for alteration or extension to the present structure.

City and other officials and chamber of commerce heads here have felt for some time that a more centrally located site should be chosen for a new post-office building and that the present building should be used exclusively for federal offices. In this connection it has been pointed out that the structure, although enlarged a few years ago, has again become inadequate for the growing community and that the entire space could well be utilized by government agencies other than the postal service. Just what brought about the renewed interest of the post-office department in the local needs as evidenced in the Cordon dispatch could not be learned through available sources here.

So he means more to you than anything in the World?

What beautiful letters you write! He's a lucky G.I. to have a girl like you.

But can words ever tell him how much you really care? Decds are so much better!

Saying, "Don't worry, soldier—you're okay now" to a frightened Kansas farm boy.

Coaxing that tough top sergeant to button up his lip and give the thermometer a chance.

Trading 150 leisure hours for 150 hospital hours to aid a busy nurse.

Learning how to care for a soldier's new-born son... how to change a bandage... how to lessen the pressure on the home-nursing front.

Ah, yes. That's how to tell him—that's what he wants to hear... for in this war, it's your actions that speak louder than your words! What you do now determines whether he comes back!
