

VETERANS DISCUSS SERVICE OFFICER PLAN FOR COUNTY

Members of various veterans' organizations of the county met last night at Medford armory in an effort to formulate plans to secure a service officer to handle the increasing volume of work connected with the return of veterans of World War II.

Guy Lang, area supervisor for the War Manpower Commission and United States Employment Service, cited Eugene, Bend, Grants Pass and other cities in the state as having such service.

Lang said the ideal plan would be to have one man to whom the veterans could go to seek explanation on benefits due them and where they could seek employment. Lang said the employment office has one member of its staff here, John Patton, to care for employment needs of returning veterans.

Representative Frank Van Dyke spoke briefly, advising veterans' organizations to get together with one man to serve all interests. He also gave a resume of veterans' legislation passed, at the recent session of the state legislature. Van Dyke is a member of an interim committee working toward co-relation of state and federal legislation for veterans.

It was decided at the meeting that as terms of members of the Allied Veterans Council had expired, those present would return to their respective organizations and recommend that new representatives be appointed to meet and formulate plans under which the county court will be able to appoint a service officer for the county.

SCHOOL MERGER PLANS DISCUSSED BY EPISCOPALIANS

At the annual meeting of the Episcopal diocese of Oregon held in Portland yesterday trustees of St. Helens Hall, girls' school operated by the diocese, were given permission to hold discussion with the trustees of two other Portland schools with the idea of a possible merger, according to Portland news sources.

It was stated that previous discussion with officials of Catlin-Hillsdale school and the Gabel country-day school had resulted in the suggestion that pre-school, primary and secondary departments be continued at St. Helens Hall, transferring there the secondary classes now meeting at Catlin school and that the junior college be transferred to Catlin where an accredited college might be set up. It was further suggested that the church take over the Gabel school and operate it as a boys' school.

Attending the convention from here were the Rev. and Mrs. George R. Turney, Dr. L. D. Inskip and Mrs. J. R. McCulloch of St. Mark's Episcopal church.
