

REMOVAL OF 99 BOTTLENECK HAS APPROVAL OF WPB

Wires received Friday by the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce and Ralph Koozer, Ashland, president of the Highway 99 association stated that the War Production Board has approved a project for the completion of re-routing of a section of Highway 99 between Grave Creek and Wolf Creek.

The wires came from Senator Guy Cordon and also stated that an allocation of $684,000 from existing funds had been made to defray the cost of the project and that the Oregon state highway commission will be authorized to proceed on the project immediately.

Koozer explained that the project was started last year, straightening and improvement of certain highways having been considered a military emergency and that sections between Medford and Roseburg and in the vicinity of Eugene were improved. The present allocation will continue the improvement and will remove a "bottleneck" of winding highway from Wolf Creek to a point just south of Grave Creek.

America has literally built tankers by the mile. If lined up end to end on the Hudson River, new American tankers constructed since Pearl Harbor would reach from New York to Peeks-kill, over 40 miles.

FINAL TRIBUTES PAID BY OREGON CITIZENS TO FDR

Portland, Ore., April 14.—(UP)—Tolling bells, memorial services, and a general closing of business in Oregon today marked the observance of Franklin D. Roosevelt's funeral.

War industries, however, continued at full speed with only a three-minute pause during the funeral period.

Downtown stores closed for the day. Food stores were open, except for a two-hour period during the funeral. Banks were open but most of them normally close for Saturday afternoon.

Oregon taverns closed for the two hours of the funeral. Portland's theatres were closed till 6 p. m., a general policy throughout the state. Mayor Earl Riley of Portland asked all dance halls, amusement places and similar concerns to join theatres in closing for the day.

Portland held an outdoor memorial service in Victory Center, with Mayor Riley presiding. Many churches held services during the day.

A tanker was launched at Swan Island shipyard with a ceremony constituting the yard's memorial service.

TVA's new Fontana dam in western North Carolina is the highest dam in eastern America, fourth highest in the world.

The Chicago Public Library has collected and sorted more than 7,000,000 books for servicemen.
