HOW TO SAVE A THOUSAND DOLLARS

Dr. Brady

For a year or more I have been distributing as widely as possible, to dentists who are courteous enough to ask for it, the No. 1 Little Lesson in the Ways of Health, titled "SAVE YOUR TEETH." This is the newly revised edition. Dentists who ask for it on their professional stationery or with professional card and a stamped self addressed envelope will receive it with my compliments. Other readers must inclose 25 cents with stamped self addressed envelope with their request.

I hoped that by putting the booklet into the hands of a good many dentists throughout the United States and Canada I might get some sort of assay of professional opinion or at least an expression of present attitude of practicing dentists in regard to preservation of the teeth. Dentists have been so readily articulate in regard to my animadversions on the trade use of the title "Doctor," that I anticipated a lively and instructive response, indeed I begged many dentists to handle me without gloves, to tell me just between friends where I am wrong, to criticise anything I say in the booklet, in the same confidential way my own dentist does when he finds me going wrong.

The impressive, almost unanimous silence with which these dentists have received the booklet was at first disappointing, and then as it continued unbroken it became perplexing. Were the dentists all so irked by my carryings-on that they would not deign to have further truck with me? After all, I do manage to maintain a speaking acquaintanceship with several dentists and exchange the customary polite mutterings with them when we meet on the bowling green, yet withal—

From now on, be it known, dentists are just people. If a dentist should by any chance feel any curiosity about it he may have a copy of the booklet "Save Your Teeth" on the same terms as those mentioned for other readers.

In closing this chapter I am delighted to report that at last I have received from a dentist a frank and detailed criticism of the teachings in the booklet and some of the teachings concerning preservation of the teeth that I have stressed in this column. I shall pass along to our readers some of the practical suggestions this dentist gives, in talks to follow. Unlike some letters I have received from dentists, there is nothing in this one that my own dentist would hesitate to say, I am sure. Not a hint that the dentist's nose is turned up while he insinuates that I must be a filthy person. Instead, this letter is full of sound observations based on solid scientific knowledge. It practically cancels that ominous silence bestowed upon me by the other dentists.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Interested

I am interested in receiving your pamphlet "How to Lose Weight" without injury to health. (Mrs. I. R.)

Answer—It is available to any one who asks for it and incloses self-addressed stamped envelope.

Long Time No Eat

What harm if any is done by letting five hours elapse between meals when one is working hard—fast walking and climbing stairs. (C. S.)

Answer—None. However, if you feel unduly tired or let down, a glass of milk, or some fruit, or peanuts or a hunk of ice cream or a piece of candy between meals is refreshing.

Shortening

One book says vegetable shortening is easily digested. Another book says it is harder to digest than any animal fat. (Mrs. E. M. C.)

Answer—I believe there is no difference in digestibility or nutritive value.
