RELAXATION
Relaxation is vitally important to health and to peace of mind. Many do not realize their inability to relax. To relax is to remove all physical and mental tension from bodily tissues. Inability to relax places undue strain upon the vital organs and prevents normal circulation and normal nerve action. A person with normal nerve control can readily relax at will. This is an important secret of health. Those with tense, taut nerves never know the joy of perfect relaxation. Normal nerve function, which will permit normal nerve relaxation is not hard to attain. Learn how to control your nerves and enjoy perfect relaxation and the normal health which results.
