DERANGEMENT OF THE KNEE

In most cases of derangement of the knee joint (floating or loose cartilage, joint "mice", painful locking of the joint) the disability is the result of some injury. In some cases it is the result of former inflammation of the lining of the knee joint and consequent thickening of fringes of the synovial (lining) membrane.

Dr. Brady

Although young persons who are athletic often develop this disability they are little if any more subject to internal derangement of the knee than are young persons who never indulge in even the mildest play. The primary injury, wrench or mishap responsible for the derangement may be as simple as turning over in bed or nudging or kicking something with the side of the foot. This tears a cartilage partly from its attachment so that the loosened portion is left unanchored and therefore likely to slip out of place and get pinched. Once this derangement has developed the victim is likely to have repeated painful experiences from sudden pinching of the loose body in a careless movement of the knee, with perhaps locking of the joint—which may require general anesthesia for unlocking—and a week or so of swelling and lameness after each such incident.

What to do? That depends on the value of the knee. If it is not essential that full use of the knee be recovered or retained, one can drift along, half crippled, fooling with liniments, diets, manipulation, nostrums, trick healers—there are so many diversions of that sort available nowadays. On the other hand, if one can't afford to be so handicapped there are two alternatives, namely, keeping the knee always supported with an elastic bandage and elastic splints, or submitting to surgical removal or anchoring of the loose body. This operation is by no means so formidable as it may seem to the uninitiated—it was pretty serious to open the knee joint in the days before aseptic surgery, but not now. (To be continued)

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
The Four Kids
Ever since you said children should wear, or leave off, whatever they wish, at any season and in any weather—provided they are not imbeciles—our six kids have lived the life of Riley, and they have never been healthier or happier. I know our neighbors think I'm irresponsible and they look upon us as scarcely human, because my husband is 34 and I am 28 years old. But we are entirely happy with our six fine children and we don't mind missing the night club life some of our childless or one-child friends seem to crave. (Mrs. U. S. W.)
Answer—Too many children or one-child "families" in America. Your kids, Ma'am, are lucky to have all those brothers or sisters. America needs more families like yours.

The debate team gave a demonstration of types of speeches to the Rotary club, May 15. Bill Moffat demonstrated the after-dinner speech, and Jerry Igo gave the oration.

According to Mr. John C. Tucker, the following Hi-Y officers for next year were elected at a meeting on Monday, May 14: President, LeRoy House; vice president, Glen Tingley; secretary, Bob Butler, and treasurer, Don Waldron.

Marjorie Thompson leads the list for speed in the five-minute typing tests with a rate of 88 words; Joan Smith is second with 55 words, and Charmaine Brault is third with 53 words. Also, Marjorie Thompson is ahead in the perfect one-minute tests with 65 words a minute, and Helen Robertson, the second highest, 58 words a minute.

The Girls' league cotton and cord dance will be held in the girls' gym, Saturday night, May 19. Dance chairman is Barbara Sands and decoration chairman is Phyllis Whitlock. The theme of the dance is "See You in the Movies"; and music will be furnished by Carl Winklebleck's band. Refreshments will be served.

Next year's officers for the Home Economics club were installed at a meeting on May 15. Also the following girls were awarded Betty Lamp pins for their active participation in club activities: Barbara Casad, Darlene C. Jk, Joyce Clares, Beverly Daily, Shirley De Moss, Jean French, Dorothy Garris, Betty Jean Gaster, Zaida Gay, Astrid Hansen, Dorothy Henagin, Jean Hickman, Beulah Kanopsek, Adrienne Leach, Bette Mullin.

Long Uninterred Healer Known to Medford Woman

Mrs. A. L. Beach, Route 2, Box 181, yesterday brought a clipping from a recent issue of the Mail Tribune to the office regarding discovery of the body of Francis Schlatter, who had been dead 20 years, in the basement of a St. Louis undertaking parlor.

Mrs. Beach said she was acquainted with Schlatter in Pueblo, Colo., 40 years ago when he was practicing faith healing there. She also brought to the Mail Tribune office a picture she said was of Schlatter and a handkerchief he blessed for her sick child.

15,000 Combat GIs Heading Home Soon

Paris, May 18 — (U.P.) — More than 15,000 soldiers with critical scores above 85 points will be released from the European theater and headed for home by June 1, headquarters announced last night.

The group will be made up almost entirely of combat soldiers with officers constituting less than two per cent. It will include about 12,000 from the 12th army group, 3,000 from the 6th army group and 500 from the air forces.
