The home folks celebrated Memorial Day Wednesday with the traditional parade and program, the latter at the city park. Those who had managed to save up gasoline enough to travel to Diamond Lake or other recreation spots, tried their fishing luck. The weather was a matter of anxiety, for it had rained nearly every day since the first week of May and storms Monday and Tuesday did some damage to hay and grain. In one 24-hour period it rained 1.21 inches, almost a record for the period.

Major event of this week in town was high school graduation. A number of the 181 members of the class are in service already and unable to be present for the program. Two girls, Afion Guchas and Barbara Maddox who are cadet nurses in Vancouver were able to come home in order to be present. Elaine Walker is valdicatorian and David Chirgwin salutatorian of the class.

Jacksonville also held graduation Thursday night and St. Mary's Academy services are set for June 1. Almost all schools of the valley are closing this week. Over 700 have registered for the Red Cross learn-to-swim program to be held in Ashland.

Thirteen hundred people crowded into the Holly theater Monday night to hear the marine band from Klamath Falls stage a show for the seventh war loan drive and others were turned away. The men are all overseas veterans.

A new grand jury was drawn this week, but no cases were on hand for them to consider. Henry Gale of Ashland was named foreman.

A wire from the Red Cross, followed by a letter, informed relatives this week that Lt. Tommy White was out of prison after having been held by the Germans since Jan. 11, 1944. He had been flown into France and said that he was having trouble getting used to "heavy eating". White expects to be home in about a month.

A visitor here last week was Lt. Harry Stanley, USNR, home on survivor's leave, his second. He has survived two destroyer sinkings and was uninjured both times. Lt. Stanley's father, Lt. Com. Stanley, who is completing 53 years' service in the navy, came north with him and is spending a vacation fishing in the Rogue. Another son, Lt. Don Stanley, navy fighter pilot, was declared missing in action several months ago.

Among the most recently announced casualties were Sgt. Lynn E. Clafin, marine corps, killed in action on Iwo Jima February 28. A brother, Sgt. Cecil Clafin, was recently released from a German prison camp and another brother, Flight Officer Vincent Clafin, is at Lincoln, Neb. Also on the list are Pfc. Holland Bell, army engineer, who died on Kerama Island in the Pacific; S. Sgt. Sean C. Clark, Rogue River, killed in action over Singapore; Alton Carroll Powell, aviation radio-

Bordeaux For Blight Control
In order to obtain first hand information regarding the rumored use of Bordeaux for blight control, Prof. F. C. Reimer, E. S. Degman and I visited the pear growing areas in California. In the Placerville area there were numerous instances of sprayed orchards with blight control and adjoining unsprayed orchards with lots of blight. The material used almost exclusively at Placerville was 2 pounds of freshly prepared single package Bordeaux per 100 gallons of water. The growers aim to apply it as soon as the pink of the blossoms are open. This year a rain in full bloom held up spraying for a few days. In these orchards, good control was obtained where the spray was applied before the rain, but little difference could be seen between the late sprayed and where no spray was applied. It may be that as the season advances, the late spraying by protecting late opening blossoms would show to advantage over the unsprayed areas.

To show the measure of control, a few counts were made of blight infection in sprayed trees and adjoining unsprayed trees (in the same orchard). Infections in the sprayed area were, Orchard No. 1: 8, 15, 17, 17; unsprayed area 50, 53, 52, 82. Orchard No. 2: sprayed, 4, 0, 6, 6; unsprayed, 66, 252, 300, 199.

As the spray must be applied prior to infection which in that area occurs mainly during rainy spells, the county agent there recommends 3 sprays for complete protection. These to be applied when the trees are 30% in bloom, 60% in bloom and in full bloom.

At Marysville the large Earl Fruit Co. orchards use dusts exclusively. They apply a dust composed of 20% monohydrated copper sulphate and 80% lime. The first dust is applied when the buds start to open and an additional application is made every week. This year six applications were made. Since this program has been carried out, blight control has not been a problem. Before that time, blight was a major problem practically every year.

In Lake county, the county agent reports that about 90% of the growers add Bordeaux to the first calyx spray. Two pounds of freshly prepared two package Bordeaux is in most common use although some use only 12 ounces per 100 gallons and figure they get good control. As there was not much blight in the district, clear cut evidence of control was not obtained. The use of Bordeaux for blight control in the Medford area dates back to 1923. At that time Prof. F. C. Reimer made some tests and good blight control was obtained but it was discontinued because of russeting. The California people are now using a very weak Bordeaux. In their areas practically no russeting results on Bartlett and very little on Bosc or Nellis. As russeting is worse where more rain falls, we
