Editorial Correspondence

San Francisco, May 28—There ARE delegates here who fear war will soon break out again in Europe. And we don't mean 25 years from now,—nearer 25 days. And this is not a Russianophobic, or a dipso-maniac, or a psychopathic case. Our informer, we feel sure, is seeing things under the bed, but he doesn't think so. Here is the slant:

(1) Winston Churchill will win the election in England.

(2) This will be the tip-off to Stalin, who distrusts Churchill, that a bird in the hand is worth more than two in the bush, and the time to wring that bird's neck is now, when Joe has a dozen armies in expert fighting trim, and any possible opposition of an effective nature is non-existent. So he will strike,—just as Hitler struck.

Ergo, World War No. 3 will start.

It is a terrifying speculation.

And of course it MAY happen,—just as anything may in this war-shocked and crazy world.

But this department is as confident as it can be of ANYTHING, that it won't.

In the first place we are inclined to doubt the re-election of Mr. Churchill.

We talked with some of the British labor representatives here, and they were confident, the British conservatives would go out with the surrender of Germany. They didn't, at the time, worry about the former; only the latter, which had not been confirmed when the convention took place.

In the second place as has been stated before, while we have no illusions about Comrade Stalin; we do believe the last thing he WANTS is more war. And he is a shrewd old boy. He doesn't know much about protocol, or democracy, or conditions anywhere in the world but his own bailiwick, but he DOES know Churchill,—he must—and he must know also something about Truman and the set-up in Washington, D. C., as far as appeasement is concerned and how far it will go.

True he has a marvelous army, in fighting shape; but how about the Anglo-American armies and—far more important,—the Anglo-American navies and air forces!!

No, the score for war—as we see it,—any such war on a world-wide scale for a decade at least, just DOESN'T add up!

We grant it is interesting to note, however, there are delegates here, entirely sane and reasonably fair-minded, who detest war as much as the next man, who do honestly believe war with Russia in the very near future can't be avoided. They don't want it—Heaven forbid,—but they don't see how to prevent it.

This fear undoubtedly is a part of the over-all picture, and should be borne in mind, when at the close of the meeting here, one views the net results.

But as far as hostilities ACTUALLY breaking out between Soviet Russia and the Anglo-Americans are concerned, over Poland, Trieste or any other issue is concerned,—we can't see it.

And if that DOES happen—well—GOOD NIGHT! There won't be enough common sense and sanity left in THIS world to justify its continued existence!

In fact this is a sort of "Blue Monday" with gloom and discouragement all over the place.

It is certainly an ironical twist of fate that with everything at a low ebb here, the news from Syria, Algeria, Poland, India and way-stations should emphasize in a hundred ways, the crying need for such an organization as the United Nations are trying to construct here,—and one that will WORK.

But no organization for peace WILL work without good-will, cooperation, a prevailing willingness to subordinate selfishness and fear, to faith and devotion to the common good.

Ho hum,—tomorrow is another day, and no doubt will be a better one!—R.W.R.

Many Buildings Being Remodeled In Jacksonville

Jacksonville, June 2—A wave of reconstruction is now taking place in this historic mining town. Many of the business buildings are being rebuilt or remodeled and many homes are under construction.

Some of the buildings being rebuilt or remodeled are the real estate office which is operated by G. A. Kimbel and W. A. Childers, the Marble Corner has been made into an electric supply store, owned by Bob Lee and the Old Redmen building is being rebuilt for the Tautwre Company. Also Kimbel is constructing a new building to be used as a dress shop. The old post office building is being rebuilt for an amusement place.

Closing time for Sunday Too Late to Classify 3:30 Saturday afternoon—Please remember.

NOW FOR A LITTLE COLIC

I confess I'm not conversant with the present views of Grand-ma Gadabout, Ben Told, Sairy Gamp and the eminent specialist who has written the latest baby book, in respect to infantile colic. All I know about it is what you will find in the chapter "Colic is a Quaint Concept" in the Brady Baby Book. This is a little fifty-page syllabus, if I may so call it, setting forth the fundamental facts of the baby business—knowledge every boy and girl should receive in grade school, if our Yankee educational system were not so backward and prudish. The only way you can procure the Brady Book is by asking me for it in writing, and inclosing with your request sixteen-fifty and a lock of your—

I mean inclosing a dime (U. S.) folded in a bit of paper and not all messy or inextricably bound with glue, tape, gum, staples, etc., and a stamped envelope bearing your address.

I'm certain "cutting teeth" never makes a baby ill. I know as well as I know anything in health or medicine that growing never causes "growing pains." And you can order me out of your wretched hovel and forbid me ever to brighten your door again, if you choose to remain steeped in ignorance and superstition, but I insist that "colic" never made a baby cry outside of the almanac and the comic supplement.

If that is not clear to you, maybe you can understand it in other words. I maintain, and I wasn't born yesterday and I didn't arrive at this opinion by divination but by years of hospital, country and city practice—I maintain that "colic" in infancy is any little thing that irritates, annoys or upsets the baby, and the name "colic" is applied to conceal the unfitness, incompetence, ignorance, cruelty and neglect of the parents, nurse, by-standers or the doctor if the quack acquiesces in the charge.

I use the epithet "quack" advisedly there, no matter whether Doctor Dope-dispenser or the author of the famous book on How to Feed the Baby approves of "colic."

To young parents whose education has been sadly neglected—in the public schools of Yankee-land—I make this plea in behalf of the baby. Every healthy young infant is entitled to at least one good vigorous crying spell a day. Give the baby a fair deal: Don't feed the poor tike any medicine and don't take anything in the way of food away from the unhappy baby just because he or she cries hard for a while, draws up knees, grows red in the face—all that is perfectly normal.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS
 While ago you told a reader you could find no record of a woman giving birth to babies of both sexes after one of her ovaries had been removed. My wife had one ovary removed at age of 27. Two years later we married. Today she is the mother of a girl 3 years old and a boy four months old.

Answer—Thank you — and more than sixty other readers who kindly reported similar experiences. That dispels the notion that one sex comes from one ovary, the other sex from the other ovary.

 For many years my mother was a slave to physic — she thought she had to have a daily dose of reguline. However, I sent for your booklet and convinced her she should try — she found it was just as you said, and she has never had to resort to anything since. She eats her daily handful of plain wheat and likes it (Mrs. H. W., Jr.)

Answer—That alone, eating a handful of plain raw wheat daily—would probably correct the constipation habit in most instances—if the poor gullible customers only had an elementary knowledge of physiology. People who think they require some artificial "regulation" will learn something to their advantage—if they are not too stupid to learn—by sending ten cents and stamped self addressed envelope for booklet: "The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene" (Copyright 1943 by John F. Dille Co.)

Leo Miksche Now First Lieutenant

Leo Miksche, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Miksche, 813 Minnesota avenue, and stationed in England with the Eighth air force, has been promoted to first lieutenant, information received by his parents states. The young man was also recently awarded an air medal.

Lt. Miksche is now piloting planes which are transporting former prisoners-of-war from Germany to England. He has been overseas since February and had completed 26 combat missions before the end of the war in Europe.

His brother, Norbert, is stationed in Seattle with the navy.

SUICIDE PLANES BAD AS U-BOATS M'NUTT ASSERTS

Washington, June 2—(U.P.)—Japanese suicide plane attacks on U. S. warships have brought this country up against a situation so critical that, Manpower Chief Paul V. McNutt said tonight, "the end of the war may be seriously delayed."

Naval observers believed success of the suicide attacks off Okinawa might force the Pacific high command to make changes in ship equipment and perhaps in tactical methods to meet a threat as serious as the German submarine offensive of 1942.

Meanwhile, there were indications that the whole strategy of the long and costly Okinawa campaign is being reviewed in the hope of profiting by past mistakes in future and even more hazardous campaigns closer to the heart of Japan.

McNutt referred specially to the lag in ship damage repair caused by failure of the hiring rate in West Coast government yards to keep "pace with enemy attacks on naval vessels in the Pacific."

President Truman and Secretary of Navy James V. Forrestal also have called the country's attention to this state of affairs and have urged ship repair workers to stay on the job.

In his message to Congress yesterday, Mr. Truman disclosed that navy and coast guard casualties off Okinawa up to May 29 had reached the unprecedented total of 4,729 killed and 4,640 wounded.

Adm. Raymond A. Spruance, commander of the Fifth fleet, said the Okinawa operation "has resulted in the greatest naval casualties encountered in any of our operations."

When it is considered that these casualties were inflicted aboard ship, it becomes apparent that damage to the ships themselves has been more than severe.

And, as President Truman pointed out to Congress, in the future there will be more damage and casualties rather than less.

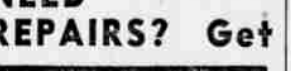

SNELL CHALLENGE SENT WALLGREN

Salem, Ore., June 2—(U.P.)—Gov. Earl Snell of Oregon sent a challenge to Gov. Mon C. Wallgren of Washington today — he said Oregon's state employees will buy more war bonds than Washington's.

Gov. Snell offered a "personally conducted tour" of an Oregon shipyard and banquet of "Oregon's unsurpassed products" to Gov. Wallgren if Washington state employees "unexpectedly" buy more bonds than do Oregon's during the seventh war loan.

LABOR PROTESTS MEXICAN IMPORT

Portland, Ore., June 2—(U.P.)—The Oregon State Federation of Labor executive board objects to the importation of Mexican labor and to use of German prisoners, in agriculture and industry.

J. T. Marr, secretary, was instructed in a meeting yesterday to request government officials to return German prisoners to their own country at the earliest practical time, since hostilities with that country are ended and use of the PWs "borders on enslavement," according to the board.

Lt. Earl Sorenson Dies on Okinawa

First Lt. Earl C. Sorenson, 29, was killed in action on Okinawa, according to a message from the War department received yesterday by Mrs. Sorenson, 1110 1/2 West Tenth street. He was with the 96th Infantry Division, stationed for several months at Camp White, and had been on Okinawa since early in April. The officer's parents reside in Omaha, Neb. Mrs. Sorenson, who came to Medford to reside about two years ago, has an infant son born in April. Her sister, Mrs. Ross F. Swall, resides at 19 Barneburg road.

Ye Smudge Pot

By Arthur Perry

Most of this year's crop of his school graduates heretofore received their sheepskins the past week, along with more advice than they will ever be able to follow, if they do anything else.

The rains of May left the valley waterlogged. The City Planning commission is thinking some of launching a project for the construction of a civic ark, but it is too late to vote on same at the June 12 special election.

Dewey Hill, the Prospect hired man and athlete, has signed up with the Central Point ball team. He will catch and sass the umpire.

Mothers were kept busy Thurs. and Fri. explaining to their darlings, the bright, round thing in the sky was the sun. They had not seen the main member of the solar system for 21 days, which is a long time in this vicinity. It is 92,000,000 mile away.

The Shorty Miles boy was trimmed by the Bates Boys Fri. He has the making of a good second baseman.

One of the Older Girls reports she and her better-half have the hay fever, and are going to the coast to fight it out.

A news item from Canyon City, in the heart of the cow country, reads: "Though there are thousands of cattle in the hills of Grant county, there is an acute shortage of beef here." Add that up and see if it makes sense.

The Dick Phair boy Dick is now an archer. He pulls a mean bow & arrow, but as yet has hit nothing that jumps and squeals when wounded.

June brides, June bugs, and June budgets have started showing up. On June 12 and 22, voters will line up at the polls, and on the river banks, for two special elections.

Fishing continues poor. Piscatorial enthusiasts are catching the limit of catfish and when they get home.

Predictions on when the war with Japan will end, run all the way from two weeks to seven years.

White robins showed up the past week on two local lawns. Outside of being blondes they are no different than the run of the mill robins.

Oregon Democrats met in Portland last week, and made plans for taking up a collection for the 1946 campaign. No opposition was expressed to the White House incumbent talking to former Republican ex-presidents and presidential candidates, on problems of the nation and the world. No member of the Democratic press was horrified.

The Hale Wheeler boy Gall will soon have his first year behind him.
