Ye Smudge Pot
By Arthur Perry
Grant county, Oregon, with more steers than people, has a meat shortage.

Grant county, Oregon, with more steers than people, has a meat shortage. It must make the natives wonder why they once cussed former President Hoover, so heatedly for inflicting "meatless Tuesdays" on them, in 1918.

The weather is now talked about more than Herr Hitler, suspected of being swallowed by the earth, or Argentina. The weather is always wrong. It tries to make the valley a suburb of the Florida swamps, or the Great American Desert. Things are always right for it to float away, or dry up and blow away.

The Japanese war is approaching what is known as "the climax." The more cheerful experts figure by the last of June the Nipps will be waving kimonos from windows as valiantly as the self-admitted German "master race" waved sheets the last week of May. When the jig was up for the Teutons they became Russians or Poles. The "sons of Heaven" will either be Chinamen or Koreans.

HE DOES, DOES HE? (Oregonian)
General Grant, 4485 N.W. 44th court, reported to police Sunday that $86 had been stolen from his pocket.

The cigarette tax, on the special election ballot June 22, is rated as an "easy way to get taxes," for there are enough people with prejudices against them to give the measure a good start. They should light up their pipes, or take a chew, and hit out for the polling places.

"Carmen is a magnet who draws people to her like flies"—(L.A. Examiner.) A complimentary swat.

Premier Churchill in his campaign for election at home, is not doing so well, reports from London indicate. The British feel, it is feared, this is a fine time to get the horse out of the middle of the stream.

STATE OF THE UNION (SF. Chronicle)
The result is little sense, and less of it all the time, but all the time more childish nonsense compounded of booming big markets, mystery, rumor, irascible lament, sophistry, cover-up and downright lying to the people.

The allies agree to whittle Germany back to its 1937 size, and under the control of the Big 4, for an indefinite period. Russia will govern the east portion, including Prussia, which insures a rush of the self-confessed "master race" to areas under American, British, and French direction. No weapon more potent than a pop-gun will be permitted, but the Germans will be provided with plenty of military orders, they so love to obey with fanatical zeal. Juvenile krauts will not be permitted to drill with broomhandles. The intention is to make them swallow the medicine they planned for the rest of the world. However painful, the Hun will have to behave.

DAVE ROSE DISCHARGED
Hollywood, June 8.—(U.P.)—Sgt. David M. Rose, divorced husband of movie singer Judy Garland, has been given a medical discharge from the army air forces and soon will return to studio work as a composer, his friends disclosed today. The musician suffered a nervous breakdown last November.

Editorial Correspondence

San Francisco, June 4.—Still no sign of when this conference will end. The final curtain with President Truman's appearance was planned for day after tomorrow,—only 48 hours hence. But now when one asks any of the officials when the show will be over they merely shake their heads and hold up their hands and let you draw your own conclusions.

But the efforts of the "outs" to get "in" have not ceased. By the "outs" we refer to the dependent peoples who want this conference to aid them in securing their independence, and yet know—if they know ANYTHING,—that the conference will not consider their problems, and should not consider them.

There was another protest meeting at the Scottish Rite Auditorium last night, with another large and vociferous audience on hand. A new figure appeared,—one Paramhansa Yocananda, founder of the "Golden World City" at Encinitas, California.

Y. Yocananda is the only large and fat East Indian we have ever seen, a striking contrast to the man he claims to worship, Mahatma Gandhi. Also the only East Indian male in our experience who looks and dresses like a woman.

The chairman called upon P.Y. to pronounce the opening prayer, an invitation he accepted with alacrity, cutting quite a figure before the microphone in his flame-colored robe, long flowing black locks, and strange vacant face.

The prayer was not long, but when the chairman,—a serious minded and somewhat dejected appearing young man,—rose to continue the program, the Yogi from Encinitas, proceeded to sit down behind a table on which a small box reposed and started to sing,—playing the box with one hand explaining that it was a form of native organ. The song was monotonous, sing-songy, suggesting a Chinese funeral march crossed with the Klamath Indian burial service.

This WAS long. But it finally ended and again the chairman arose and advanced toward the rostrum hopefully. But Yocananda had other ideas and remarked that he would read a few of his original poems, producing from the folds of his ample covering a heavy roll of manuscript and proceeded to read, what may have been very beautiful verse in Yogi or Sanscrit, but in the back-row as far as your correspondent's auditory reception was concerned,—was completely unintelligible.

The chairman's face during this performance was a study in anxiety and frustration. We are certain he was fearful the founder of the "Golden World" was under the misapprehension that the meeting was his, and not a meeting to advance the fortunes of the "Free India" crusade and was wondering just how a chairman should proceed to inform him of his error, without creating a scene, or having to call in the gendarmes.

However, there is an ending to everything,—or almost everything—the final page of the mss was finally put aside as Paramhansa started to return to his seat, a signal for the chairman who was already on his mark, waiting for the gun, to again arise, but again he was halted in his tracks, as the "Mahatma" returned to announce he would have more to say later on in the program. And he did.

But not until the silver offering had been announced and most of the audience had departed!

This was the only new feature of the program with one exception.

The exception was a demand, that not only the suffering masses of India, Burma, the East and West Indies and So. Africa, but those of Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands be given their INDEPENDENCE.

A certain Dr. Richard Moore (colored) was responsible for this clarion call for liberation from the cruel enslavement of our own Uncle Sam;—this got a big hand, as do all demands for freedom of the oppressed at these East Indian gatherings.

As far as that goes, this department does not oppose the complete independence of any dependent people, who want it and have expressed the desire overwhelmingly in some official and convincing way. And this goes for India, if a plebiscite were held and the popular demand for independence, made clear and certain.

But the question, as before stated, has no proper place on the agenda at this peace conference.

This conference was called to devise ways and means to prevent future wars,—or materially delay them—and anyone who doesn't think this a man's size job, better come down here and attend a few of the sessions!

It is going to be difficult enough to do that. Inject the Indian question and all these other racial questions into the business before the conference, and it will be IMPOSSIBLE!—R.W.R.

forcing him to support the other men's children and furnish them with a name. That law will not protect the fighting man as some one will tell him, usually as soon as his wife starts cheating by going to dances and shows with another man. And certainly the woman in the case deserved no protection, as she knows at the start that no decent or respectable man will help her cheat her husband who is away against his will and in such position he cannot protect his family rights. So she goes with her eyes wide open as to what is expected of her.

It is a disgrace to all America that even one body of law men should pass a law that betrays the fighting man in his family rights.

No one but the cheating wife or the man that abets it, would vote for such a law if it was put to the vote of the people. Now every fighting man that returns to California and finds his wife has adopted a child will doubt her. Even though she shows him the papers he is sure to think she bore the child under another name.

As for "damning and beclouding the future of a helpless infant"—people no longer blame an illegitimate child for being born, but put the blame where it belongs, and treat the child as any other child.

How can the nation successfully combat "juvenile delinquency" if it aids and abets "adult delinquency"? It can't! GRACE KURTZ, Rt. 2, Medford.

Sugar Ruling Irks
To the editor: I for one would like an explanation of why from now on, we are allowed only ten pounds of canned sugar. Why just these six western states? Mr. Truman asks us to can fruit. OPA says no sugar. Something smells and it isn't burnt sugar. My aim is 300 to 600 quarts of fruit. Must be a surplus or a stand-in for sugar at 13 cents per pound. HAZEL EPPERSON, Phoenix, Ore.

News Behind The News
By Paul Mallon

Washington, June 6.—Mr. Hannegan is taking nothing for granted. The political pal of the president actually sent skilled scouts out into various sections of the country to ascertain how the new moves from the White House are regarded. He did not trust polls, even his own, but wished detailed reports.

From all sections the answer was about the same. In effect, they amounted to an enthusiastic go-ahead sign on the line Mr. Truman is hewing with his cabinet changes, legislative suggestions and foreign policy.

Mr. Hannegan evened it up by presenting the unemployment pay maximum of $25 a week which CIO devised and lost at the last session of congress—further by asking the dictatorial government reorgan-zation powers Mr. Roosevelt wanted and failed to get, by having his Mr. Vinson go out for the new deal peace-planning program, by pushing successfully in the house for the Bretton Woods agreement, which the CIO and Mrs. Roosevelt have been promoting as if to put the bankers in their place—and some other steps.

Indeed, there has been nothing for the radicals to complain about. Nothing upon which they could lay their restless fingers in accusation, although a target may be provided shortly when the wage increases fail to measure up to their demands. In bulk, however, Mr. Truman's program is the one they devised. Indeed, while Frankfurter and Mrs. Roosevelt have lost their appointive influence, Mr. Truman has insisted upon keeping their best friends, Treasury Secretary Morgenthau and Judge Rosenman, domestically, while also holding on to Harry Hopkins and Mr. Stettinius internationally.

MR. TRUMAN has simply been doing the same things in a different spirit, following the same line but in a different way and can see it in the reorganization proposal. While Mr. Truman demanded the power Mr. Roosevelt wanted, he did not want to write the bill himself but would leave it to congress. He has sent up no prepared bills on any important subject, but is respecting the position of congress.
