Rogue Valley Chorus Heard In Spring Concert Program

(By Mrs. Rawles Moore)

The real meaning of "amateur" was brought to us Friday evening when the Rogue Valley chorus gave their spring concert at the high school auditorium for certainly one of the outstanding features of the evening was the fact that the musicians so thoroughly enjoyed giving the performance. The program was one which any layman could enjoy and at the same time highly acceptable to the more cultivated ear.

The ensemble effects were good and the blending of voices in modern harmonies carried off with a professional finish, showing the painstaking musicianship of the director.

George Turney, a newcomer in our midst, received quite an ovation as soloist. Other special numbers were a solo given by Joan Reich Clark and an operatic duet sung by Jean McAllister and Almus Pruitt. These musicians are well known to the Medford audience. As accompanists for the choral work Mrs. John Eby and Vera Davis gave adequate support. The soloists were fortunate in securing the services of Aileen C. Maddox, well known pianist, as their accompanist.

This organization is indeed a step in the right direction toward community cooperation in cultural advancement. Miss Nansen deserves the support of all valley musicians in assisting with this project and it is to be hoped that more singers will take advantage of this opportunity when next season's work is in progress.
