12th Army Group Headquarters, Germany, June 13—(U.P.)—A Nazi radio operating in the Weissenburg area of southern Germany was revealed today to be broadcasting to the German people:

"Hitler will return! Germany will save herself! American military intelligence agents were endeavoring to trace the clandestine station. Weissenburg lies north of Augsburg."

The Germans have reported that Adolf Hitler was killed in Berlin, but Marshal Gregory K. Zhukov, commander of Russian occupation forces, said the Soviets have been unable to identify any body definitely as that of Hitler.

PARKS UNCHANGED DURING WAR TIME LEAVITT DECLARES

Superintendent Tells of Effort to Preserve Scenic Spots During Emergency

Grants Pass, June 13—In the main, the war time problem of those in the national park service has been to keep the 15 million acres of national parks as they were before the war, so that the hundreds of thousands of service men and women can return to unchanged parks after the war is over, E. P. Leavitt, superintendent of Crater Lake National park and the Oregon caves national monument, told members of the Chamber of Commerce at their luncheon meeting in the Redwoods hotel, Monday noon.

Mr. Leavitt has been 35 years with the national parks both on the continent and in Hawaii. He spoke briefly of his years of service and of how the picture has changed in the Department of the Interior's park service since the beginning of the war. National parks are in class five in priority lists, he said, except for the service's forest fire fighting status, in which they are in class three.

In spite of the fact that Crater Lake has been closed by necessity since the war, Leavitt pointed out, the number of annual visitors to the lake itself has increased from 27,000 during the first year of the war to 42,000 last year. The service man and woman thinks of the enjoyments of outdoor recreation, fishing, hunting, almost as much as they think of home, Leavitt said.

The speaker told of the more direct contributions made in several cases of the war effort. He spoke of the spruce that was taken out of the Olympic national park forest until another source could be found, and of the lava fields in Hawaii used for practice bombing areas. The service has successfully withstood pressure to take out mature timber in the areas of the parks, so that the naturalness of the parks will not be destroyed. Even highways in the parks have been made as much a part of the natural picture as possible, with grass covering on the graded sides and scars cut by the passage of the highway.

In anticipation of new modes of travel after the war, the park service has given thought to airplane landing facilities, Leavitt said. There is no desire on the part of the service to open the parks to commercial planes. The service anticipates landing fields built near the park boundaries, but not within them.

Mr. Leavitt, in introducing his talk, told of the high regard he has for the "gateway cities" of the national parks and of the great service the Chambers of Commerce have been in advertising the parks. Grants Pass, he said, is a gateway city to both the Crater Lake national park and the Oregon Caves.

Da's na fijn, zunne!...Have a Coca-Cola

... an American custom lands in Brussels
In Flemish, it's vriendelijkheid. In American, it's the plain, everyday word friendliness. Everywhere your Yankee doughboy goes, it comes from his heart in a good old home-town phrase, Have a Coke. Friendliness is bred in his bone and it bubbles out—like the bubbling goodness of Coca-Cola itself. Yes, the pause that refreshes with ice-cold Coke becomes an ambassador of good will... the old home spirit carried across the seas.
