Ye Smudge Pot

By Arthur Perry

A 700-ton German U-boat surrendered to the Argentine naval authorities Tuesday, at the Mar del Plata submarine base. The press dispatch notes: "Where the U-boat has been since Germany surrendered two months ago was not immediately explained."

Cherries are now ripe and going into pies, cans, and robins.

Many of the fair sex are now tanned, shank and shoulder, like a hayhand. They procured the tan in the hayfield section of the drugstores.

The fuel shortage in the northwest the coming winter will be the worst in three years, it is predicted. In flat, treeless prairie country like this, the haunting fear arises the nation will also run out of frost-bite cures.

The weather is still roundly cussed hereabouts, without the cussing getting any rounder.

VELLY MUCH QUICK!

In April, 1944, a Japanese spokesman on the Manila radio broadcast an estimate that at the current rate it would take American forces "100 years to reach Japan. Short century wasn't it?"

The secretary of agriculture reports the American food supply is not sufficient to feed the world. This means there will be no fattening up of Germans for another war world. It also means if the Hottentots get the quart of milk daily, promised them by a former vice president, they will have to keep a cow. The native-born will not have to go to Europe to get a square meal.

The WPB has graciously ruled women may continue to use gay-colored poultry feed bags for dresses, curtains, drapes, and lingerie. That women have been doing this is doubted by the skeptics, who would as soon believe a rumor from Stockholm, Sweden. There have been no signs confirming the report on rural clotheslines of this area.

Thomas (Hungry) Higgins, the efficient wet-nurse of the municipal laws, underwent a birthday last week-end. He celebrated same by watering his own lawn.

OREGON POLISH PROBLEM

"Pick up a map of Oregon and Mill City with 1400 people isn't even on the map. If new capital was interested, if any information was wanted, there is no one to write to. No mayor, no secretary of a boosting commercial club—we don't have them. Should you need a law enforcement officer, you might borrow one from somewhere, but you don't need any, because we haven't a law or an ordinance to break. Mill City is located at odds. The Santiam river runs through the center of town, one half being in Marion county and the other in Linn county, although substantially more homes are in Linn county than in the Marion county part. Still if a letter is addressed to anyone in Mill City it comes to Marion county, as the postoffice is in Marion county and the government calls that "Mill City". Consequently, Mill City must be in Marion county. Then here we are, nearly a thousand strong, living in Linn county. Are we in Mill City? Or are there two Mill Cities? Or do we live adjacent to Mill City?" (Mill City Enterprise.)

Wanted—Feeder Air Lines

Sometime this month the Civil Aeronautics Board will formulate its policies governing the granting of feeder airline franchises. The decision of the Board will be watched with interest, as the Pacific Coast becomes the first area in the entire nation to be considered for this proposed expansion in domestic air transportation.

A liberal policy, we think, should be adopted. The spread of feeder service throughout the country will simply mean that two-thirds of the nation's population now without benefit of direct air operation will have airplane passenger, mail and express service.

MEDFORD has long been served—and served well—by United Air Lines. In turn, people here, with highly unsatisfactory rail facilities, have liberally used United's excellent service. They will use it more than ever when the war is over and military demands are relaxed.

BUT encouragement of feeder airlines will not, in our opinion, reduce support of this trunk line. There seems to be no basic competition between the two systems of air transportation because of their widely different operations. Instead, feeder airlines and trunk airlines complement and supplement each other. The public will therefore benefit by having both.

RADIATING from trade and air centers like spokes of a wheel, feeder airlines will tap new, rich satellite markets and speed the handling of passengers, mail and express. The successful operation of All American Aviation, providing 115 communities of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, New York and Delaware with air mail and express service since 1939, clearly indicates the soundness of the feeder airline plan. Added passenger service makes it even more an appreciated and valuable public service.

THE Jackson County Chamber of Commerce and the City of Medford are decidedly interested in feeder air service for this area. Responsible airlines which can provide fast and flexible air transportation between southern Oregon and northern California communities will receive every encouragement here.—H.G.

For Male Dishwashers Only

Of course we TRY, as all editors do,—to write what will most interest a maximum number of our readers. But now and then we can find no topic of general interest, only something of special concern to comparatively few.

Rather than leave the space blank we usually, however, present what has only a minority appeal.

The following clipped from the current issue of the New Yorker is such an offering,—it will interest only those individuals, of the masculine gender, who under the urgency of a war emergency, are and for some time have been forced to wash the family dishes: We quote:

Business people and newspaper people love nothing better than getting together of an afternoon and opening up a vista. Some of these people assembled the other day by the Patuxent River and opened up a vista of homes with no kitchens, of meals with no trouble at all. It seems that the Maxson Food outfit, which turns out sky food for plane passengers, has been looking ahead to the day when housewives will lean not on the stove but on Maxson's belt line, from which perfectly prepared meals will roll in an unending stream. This is O.K. with us, but we trust that Maxson will follow through and not stop at any halfway measures. Stronger than a housewife's longing for a precooked meal is her dream of an uncluttered aftermath; a sink with no dirty dishes, a table with no residue. It is therefore not enough that the Maxson meal be precooked, it must arrive in an edible container. All plates, all utensils should be made of some humble legume, firm yet palatable, and with a glazed finish. Then when the meal is over and THE LAST DISH HAS BEEN EATEN, there will be no trace of the ugly occasion—just the full people, the empty board, the vacant stare.—R.W.R.

Concerning Quintuplets

The "Argentine quintuplets," celebrating their second birthday on July 15th, have been favored on several counts with a better chance of surviving than the famous Dionnes who were born nearly a decade earlier.

The five Diligenti babies are reported to have been delivered at term, whereas the Canadian girls had to overcome the serious hazard of prematurity. Another biological advantage of the Argentine quintuplets was that only two of the set are "identical," that is, developed from a single ovum, while this was the case for all five of the Dionnes. Statistics show that in plural births, children developed from separate ova have a slightly better chance to be born alive and to survive early life.

The Argentine babies were favored also by the fact that the general infant mortality is considerably lower in Buenos Aires where they were born, than it is in the rural area of Ontario, birthplace of the Dionnes.

However, on at least one point the Dionne babies had an advantage, namely, that all were girls, whereas the Argentine quintuplets were composed of three girls and two boys. The chances of survival are everywhere appreciably greater for girls than for boys.—M.L.S.

CHERRY CANNING TO RUN OVER SCHEDULE

The Rogue River Packing Corporation, due to heavier than expected receipts of cherries from valley growers, will be packing cherries until about July 21, a week longer than expected. Manager A. L. James reports. The plant is now employing close to 100 workers. Price paid growers for Royal Anns is 11c per pound, and 11½ cents per pound for Bings and Lamberts, all No. 1 grade. Manager James further stated as soon as the peaches were ready, canning would start followed by prunes and pears. He expects the plant to operate continuously until November 1.

News Behind The News

By Paul Mallon

Washington, July 12 — The stories about what happened to Hitler and Eva are getting bigger but worse.

PAUL MALLON

The Russians first suppressed then announced the finding of remains of the two who, they said, had been married before the spirit left them. American reporters have followed about the same experience as the first arrivals at the chancellery announcing the bodies were not authentically identified and later ones finding various insignificant proofs that Adolf and Eva died in their officially dug luxurious holes.

Frankly I want to see the bodies before I believe anything. The most eminent authorities here frequently said they believed Hitler dead, but they have never said why or how. An explanatory version generally accepted among military men is that German army leaders (the high command) killed Hitler and his girl friend just as they once are supposed slyly to have slain socialist President Ebert when he refused to leave the government upon their demand to make way for Marshal von Hindenburg.

Ebert was subject to indigestion attacks and was a heavy eater. Following an official dinner and an attack conspirators rushed him to a hospital, where a conspiring surgeon immediately operated and Ebert died on the table. Himmler's story that Hitler died of cerebral hemorrhage is not believed because a Nazi doctor, now our prisoner, examined him in mid-April and found his blood pressure low. But Himmler's concocted story suggests he was a conspirator in Hitler's death in some manner, probably on April 24 or possibly May 1.

IN less authoritative quarters here, a belief prevails that Hitler is alive under circumstances no more fantastic than numerous other Nazi exploits, to wit: The whole Hitler end was stated with long-planned typical attention to details. Hitler called in his Eva, married for no pressing reason except expost facto publicity; also summoned his generals, announced he had reversed his plan of fighting to the end, and intended to die in or about his well-kept hole. They pleaded with him for days on bended knees to save himself but he stood firm, and sent them all away so they could not witness further developments.

Drop the curtain for a minute, then find the bodies, well anyway, some reasonably resembling bodies.

WHAT a story to leave the credulous, romantically inclined world; it would be a particularly nice blanket to cover a decision of the Nazi leaders to go separate ways, and meet months hence to renew their political activity for world conquest, which was their basic, inescapable ideal.

Furthermore, this story holds Hitler not only planned his escape but his future life in obscurity. He had a double, bearing considerable physical resemblance to what he would be when he disguised himself, sans mustache, drooping hairlock, etc. Living a life he intended to take over when he escaped. This selfless patriot he would kill and assume that identity when he desired to take over that life. Submerging his own identity in that one, he would be beyond detection.

All plans for this were made after Stalingrad with money, arrangements for physical disguise, locale carefully chosen and known only to Hitler.

LITTLE Eva may have been disposed of, as her presence would decrease, by double, his chances of avoiding detection—although he may have planned with sufficient security to warrant taking her along.

The other Nazi leaders knew nothing of this detailed arrangement but were under orders to scatter into their variously chosen disguises, to assemble six months from date at a certain place, with the money they had hidden, to start in saving the world again. There was to be no political activity in the intervening time.

Those who believe this doubt the current yarns that Hitler chose his better role in Spain or Latin America. He was not looking for sympathy or sympathizers, but for oblivion. He could prepare and lead the life of a double better in his native surroundings, Austria, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia or even in the southern German hills, they say. Interesting yarns—both of them. Take your pick.
