DEATH SUMMONS S. VILAS BECKWITH

Word was received from Pasadena, Calif., today of the death of S. Vilas Beckwith in that city early this morning. Mr. Beckwith came to Medford in 1910 from Englewood, N. J., one of the leaders in what has been called the "great red-apple he-gira," bought a fruit ranch in the Central Point district and lived for several years near Medford on King's highway.

Active in civic and social affairs, Mr. Beckwith was one of the charter members and organizers of the Rogue Valley University club and its first president. He was also manager of the Rogue River Fruit and Produce association and as such directed the construction of Medford's first cold storage plant on North Central avenue. He left here with his family at the close of World War I, for Seattle where he was manager of the Pacific Net and Twine company until the death of Mrs. Beckwith and his retirement in 1940.

Deceased was born in Plattsburg, N. Y., in 1875. He leaves two sons, S. Vilas Jr., of San Rafael, Calif., Brainerd Beckwith of Pasadena, and three grandchildren.
