

Cops Required To Quell Fray On Ladies' Day At Charter Hearing

By Frederick C. Othman (United Press Correspondent)
Washington, July 13—(U.P.)—It was ladies' day at the senatorial hearing on peace; yep, it took two cops to quell the fray.
"Keep your dirty hands off of me," screamed Mrs. Agnes Waters at the blue coats, while Chairman Tom Connally of the Foreign Relations committee banged his silver-bound gavel and shouted: "I'll see if I can't make as much noise as you do."

Peace. It must be wonderful.

Everybody Sore
In the senate caucus room nearly everybody was sore at everybody else. The plumpish, blondish Mrs. Waters tangled with the police because she wouldn't stop when her time was up. She subsided finally after looking the red-faced Connally in the eye and shrilling: "I'm not afraid of all the devils in hell."

Came then a parade of ladies of indefinite ages, who peered at the senators through their lorgnettes, pinc nez and horn rims and announced with appropriate table-pounding that the San Francisco charter was a phony. There were some men, too, but let's be gallant and consider next the testimony of Mrs. Florence H. Griesel, a Chicago blond with blue ear bangles matching the gleam in her eye.

She told Sen. Joseph F. Guffey of Pennsylvania that she couldn't speak if he persisted in whispering. That quieted him; Mrs. Griesel took a deep breath and a long look at the committee. Then she said:

"I can remember when it was a thrill to be an American. Shame on you senators. Look what you've done. Why didn't you work to keep this country out of war? If you men who voted for a war had to fight it, there'd be an armistice."

Will Run For Congress
The senators sat there silently. Mrs. Griesel said it was time they were replaced; she said she intended to run for congress herself.

"Thank you very much," said Connally. Things went on from there with ladies of all sizes denouncing the peace charter, the senate, communists, Great Britain and probably some other things I don't remember.

Connally, who never knew what was up when he set aside a day for opponents of the charter, called a new one every 15 minutes and eventually reached Mrs. H. V. Somers of Philadelphia, who said she represented herself, the government and the American people.

"That's a very good representation," Connally commented, while Mrs. Somers shuffled her notes and had such trouble deciphering her own writing that the microphone boomed her words:

"Oh, darn it!" She said, when the laughter subsided, that the charter was a scheme to return America to the British and she cried: "Gentlemen, please do not be just plain dupes."

Culbertson Too
"Please, Mrs. Somers," the chairman interrupted. "Talk in to the microphone. Some of the senators do not hear well."

And so on, from 10 a. m. yesterday until 5:30 p. m., and I better get in a mention now of the men, including Ely Culbertson, the bridge playing expert, and David Darrin, president (and only member) of the United Nations of Earth association.

Culbertson said in a thick Russian accent that the peace assembly would consist of mice, presided over by a few cats; Darrin, a tall, spare Washingtonian, said his private United Nations consisted of himself, but that he would get some more members later. He said he would leave for the Record, if Connally promised to print it, the book he'd spent the last 20 years writing. Connally wouldn't promise.

"Then I won't leave it," Darrin snapped.
He didn't, either. As for me, I'm all worn out; its wearying listening to angry people battle about peace.

DANIEL WALLAND DIES OF WOUNDS AT PACIFIC BASE

Wounded on March 27 in a B-24 raid over Okinawa before occupation of the island by American forces, Daniel Bertel Walland, 19, naval aviation radioman third class, died in a hospital on Guam June 16, according to information received here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bertel Walland, Route 2, box 205.

Details of his death reached Mr. and Mrs. Walland yesterday, after earlier notification of the navy man's wounds and brief word of his death. At the time of the raid, a softening-up operation over the Jap-held island, Walland was stationed in the Mariana Islands. Returned to his base in the plane, the wounded radioman was evacuated to Tinian Island and then to the hospital on Guam.

Walland was graduated from Medford high school with the class of 1943, and entered the service in November of that year.

Besides his parents, Walland is survived by a younger brother, Leroy.

17,000 NIP PLANES LISTED DESTROYED

Washington, July 13—(U.P.)—Naval airmen have destroyed more than 17,000 Japanese planes and, teaming with army fliers, soon will eliminate the enemy's air force "as an effective weapon," Under-secretary of Navy Artemus L. Gates said today.

Gates, recently promoted from assistant navy secretary for air, reported to Secretary of Navy James Forrestal that:
"The first job of naval aviation, and of our army air forces, is the elimination of the Japanese air force as an effective weapon. This, I believe, will be accomplished shortly."

WHELOCK NAMES BOMBER FOR CITY

The airplane commander who named his B-29 "City of Medford" is Lt. Earl C. Wheelock, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Wheelock, 616 West Jackson boulevard, it was learned today. Identification was made difficult since an army dispatch from Guam erred in giving the commander's name as Ralph C. Wheelock.

Lt. Wheelock was graduated from Medford high school in 1939 and attended Southern Oregon College of Education in Ashland. He received his civilian pilot's license under instruction of Tommy Culbertson at Medford airport. The B-29 commander, now engaged in bombing of Japanese war centers, has been in the air corps since Dec. 29, 1941.

His wife, the former Shirley Ebnother of Ashland, is now living in Glendale, Calif., with a sister.

Ray Hale Promises Mother Letter From Tokyo Before Long

T/S Ray L. Hale promises his mother a letter from Tokyo before long "unless those slant-eyed playmates of ours throw in the towel." Hale made the promise in a recent letter to Mrs. Stella Hale, 708 South Peach street, written from Mindanao, Philippine Islands.

Overseas since last September, he has been on Leyte and Mindoro besides other Pacific islands. He has been in the service for the past year and a half.

Mindanao is the coolest place he has been in since leaving United States, according to his letter. The temperature has not been below 75 degrees and it has been necessary to sleep under two blankets because of the change in temperature from other islands where he has been, Hale wrote.

He attended local schools and was employed in Los Angeles at the time of his induction.

Red Cross Honors Stanton Griffis, Former President

Honolulu, July 13—(U.P.)—Stanton Griffis, retiring American Red Cross commissioner in the Pacific, has been presented an award of merit "for exceptional and meritorious service in the war against Japan."

The New York Red Cross official received the award yesterday from Lt. Gen. Robert C.

Richardson, head of the mid-Pacific command.

He was the tenth person to receive the award, instituted by Richardson to honor civilians for their contributions to the war effort in this theater.

Stanton Griffis was a resident of Medford for several years being manager of the F. Corning Kenly ranch south of the city, and after his marriage residing on South Oakdale. He left for New York about 30 years ago where he has been very prominent in Wall Street circles and for a time was president of Paramount Pictures.

PENDLETON LINEN GOING UNWASHED

Pendleton, July 13—Pendleton laundries have closed down except that the Troy laundry is attempting to take care of the hotel laundry, pending word from the regional OPA offices in San Francisco.

McDannell Brown, district OPA director, Portland, notified the local rationing board that the laundries' plea for increased price ceilings had been forwarded to the San Francisco office with the recommendation that the increase be granted. Laundries here also are seeking an increased wage ceiling from WLB.

Both the Troy and Domestic expect to resume regular operations if both price and wage relief is granted them. Both stated they have lost in the neighborhood of $30,000 in the last three years of operation under wartime ceilings and conditions.

One always stands out

*"RHAPSODY IN BLUE" is a modern symphony which has played itself into the hearts of Americans throughout the land. First performed at Aeolian Hall in New York, February 12, 1924, it fast became recognized as a symphonic jazz classic. Other musical interpretations of life in these United States have since been written, but among them all, the "Rhapsody" stands out.
