Radar Men Needed For Naval Service

The continued and ever increasing need for more men to be trained as radio technicians (radar) in the navy was stressed today by Chief W. R. Cumley, recruiter-in-charge of the navy recruiting station in Medford.

This program is one of the few remaining opportunities in the armed forces that remain open for a man to be assured of a certain type of military job. Being open to men who are approaching induction, as well as those in the volunteer age groups, it offers an exceptional opportunity to those who can qualify.

OREGON INCREASE IN FARM ACREAGE SHOWN BY CENSUS

Oregon has gained 2,349 farms and 1,838,384 acres in farmlands since 1940, according to preliminary figures for the state compiled in the 1945 census of agriculture, the bureau of commerce, announced today.

The number of farms in the 36 Oregon counties increased by 3.9 percent, from 61,829 in 1940 to 64,208 in 1945; farm acreage increased by 10.2 percent, from 17,988,307 acres in 1940 to 19,826,691 acres in 1945, and average size of farms increased by 6 percent, from 290.9 acres in 1940 to 308.5 acres in 1945.

Greatest increase in number of farms, 897, or 20.1 percent, was shown by Lane county, but its farm acreage increased only 0.8 percent. Greatest increase in farm acreage, 614,817 acres, or 79.5 percent, was shown by Klamath county, although it lost 86, or 7.8 percent, of the 1552 farms it had in 1940.

John A. Kallak, with headquarters at Salem, Oregon, was the area supervisor in charge of the Oregon enumeration. Jackson county has 2,991 farms, according to the preliminary figures for 1945. This total compares with 2,702 farms in 1940. Farm acreage now totals 412,166 compared with 316,394 five years ago.

Josephine county figures were 2288 farms in 1945 and 1944 in 1940; farm acreage, 124,784 and 125,206.

DATA ON DIABETES

In 1940 Dr. Elliott P. Joslin, whose textbook on diabetes is famous, estimated that there were 600,000 diabetics in the United States and that the number was increasing year by year because (1) the entire population is aging—that is, a larger proportion survive long enough to get such diseases as diabetes, cancer, etc., than when the nation or country was younger (if you take this as an Hibernicism you had better have your wits sharpened); (2) physicians discover more cases; (3) people are getting more health conscious—that is, they consult the physician even before they are convinced there is no alternative; and (4) there are more people in the country.

Old timers may remember that the eminent diagnosticians, consultants played it safe, such as the racketeers in "clinics" do now by assuring the gullible customer whose ailment or complaint baffled them that it was not "organic" merely a "functional" disturbance, or soothing language to that effect.

Well, diabetes (diabetes mellitus, sugar diabetes, the real thing) is a functional deficiency or ailment. It begins so insidiously in most cases that you never dream you have it until a casual urine test reveals glucose (sugar).

It should be clearly understood that there is no clear dividing line between good health and diabetes.

Perhaps this will become more comprehensible when you consider what constitutes diabetes. As a bulletin recently broadcast by the Medical Society of the State of New York defines it, diabetes is a disease of the internal glands, especially of the pancreas, in which the ability of the body to use all the starch and sugar in food is diminished.

Now every individual whose urine contains glucose (sugar) has diabetes. Some glucose may be present in the urine of a perfectly healthy person in some circumstances. But if the urine constantly contains sugar it is reasonable to assume the individual has diabetes until further investigation proves otherwise.

If the urine contains sugar and the chemical test of the blood shows more than the normal amount of glucose (sugar) in the blood, then it is diabetes.

The blood of a healthy person contains a constant 0.10 to 0.14 per cent of sugar (glucose) and if the level of sugar in the blood falls to half that level or rises half again that level, the patient is in grave danger.

In the entire quantity of blood in the body (less than a gallon in a woman, more than a gallon in a man) there is approximately a teaspoonful of sugar. If your blood contains that much sugar everything's jake. But if for any reason (to be discussed later) your blood sugar gets down to only one-third or one-half teaspoonful, then you are in a bad way.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Orange Juice I have always insisted on at least a half glass of orange juice every morning for our seven year old son, and yet he seems to have one thing after another, requiring constant care. (C. E.)

Answer—Better for the child if he could eat an orange when he likes, instead of having to take the sugary substitute. But even the whole orange supplies only vitamin C, plus a little calcium and a little vitamin A. Growing children should have plenty of vitamin C, of course, but don't imagine it is protective against all the ailments that can happen to children. Stupid to Have Piles Friend told me you ran an article in the paper recently about piles and the office treatment which doesn't keep the patient away from his regular job. Answer—Send stamped envelope bearing your address, for the pamphlet "It is Stupid to Suffer from Piles"—Ask for the pamphlet—do not send clipping. Bladder Trouble Please send pamphlet on Bladder Trouble. (B. E. H.) Answer—Gladly, if you will provide a stamped envelope bearing your address. The pamphlet is about Prostatic Obstruction—a common cause of bladder trouble in men beyond middle age. (Copyright 1945 by John F. Dille Co.)

Higher Education Enrollment Bulge Outlook For Fall

University of Oregon, Eugene, July 16—A forecast of the enrollment increases that may be expected when Oregon's institutions of higher education open for the regular session this fall can probably be found in the report of increases shown throughout the system on the University of Oregon campus, shows that an all-over increase of 9.5 per cent has been made over enrollment of summer session of 1944, with 2,772 students registered in the various schools of the state system.

Greatest increase is shown at Eastern Oregon College of Education at La Grande where 143 students are registered for an enrollment increase of 32.4 over last year.

The Southern Oregon College of Education at Ashland has increased 13 per cent with 95 students in attendance for the summer.

GOOD LISTENING, HOAGY? It must be—judging from composer Hoagy ("Stardust") Carmichael's cocked ear and happy grin! He's listening to the "Teen-Agers" (those amazing school-age musicians) rehearsal for his NBC airshow, "Something New," tonight. As usual, Hoagy himself will do new tunes, present new talent—so tune in tonight! (The show's sponsor is Nu Made fresh Mayonnaise, sold at Safeway Stores.)
