

Medford News of 1892 Given In Clipping From Old "Mail"

Items from the Medford Mail, fore-runner of the Mail Tribune, printed Nov. 11, 1892, appear in a newspaper clipping of 1911 which was brought to the Tribune office Tuesday by Mrs. Mary B. Griffin of Sacramento, Calif. Train service 53 years ago was better than that of today, according to the clipping which states that one train ran each way daily.

Mrs. Griffin made her home in Medford at 113 Laurel street for 38 years before leaving for California a year and a half ago. Her late husband was in business here for some years.

Included in the 1892 news columns were the following items: "Miss Bernice Cameron of Unlontown is attending the Jacksonville public school this winter."

"Puttenger vinegar at Davis & Poirer's."

"Wm. Hanley and wife have moved to Central Point."

"Z. Cameron and John Devlin have been down from Applegate lately looking after their large apple shipments."

"Geo. L. Webb has moved the Racket store into the new quarters back of Slover's drug store."

"Welborn Beeson came over from Talent Wednesday on business."

"W. E. Darling and son were in town from Gold Hill Wednesday."

"We are pleased to mention that the little son of Chas. Strang is recovering from his serious illness."

CHEAPER CLOTHING WILL BE REALITY BY EARLY AUTUMN

Washington, July 18—(U.P.)—The OPA and the WPB contended today that the long-promised cheaper clothing really will be on the market in noticeable quantities before long.

Both agencies began a series of actions in January to combat the shortages of low and medium-priced clothing which still plague consumers in many cities. The WPB and OPA said that the orders were beginning to have an effect and that by September the shortage of such clothing items should be substantially alleviated.

Hard to Find
A United Press survey of leading cities indicated that such things as low or medium-priced shirts, shorts and undershirts for men, and pants, slips, brassieres, and dresses for women still are either "very hard to find," as in Atlanta, or only "moderately available," as in San Francisco.

They were also pretty hard to find in New York and Washington. High-priced items were more plentiful, with a store in Washington for instance showing a window full of $2.08 shorts.

The OPA-WPB orders, affecting both makers and sellers of clothing, were designed to:

1. Increase the amount of fabric going into low and medium-priced "essential garments."
2. Improve the quality of such clothing.
3. Reduce inflated clothing prices by about six or seven per cent.

Encouraging Signs
Saul B. Sells, assistant director of OPA's consumer goods price division, said "There are encouraging signs in the apparel market that the joint WPB-OPA clothing program is already having an important effect on production and price."

Government surveys and information from manufacturers and buyers, Sells said, show that the first of the popular-priced apparel of good quality produced under the program is beginning to reach retail stores.

"Many buyers have reported to us that manufacturers are offering them better value for their fall lines than they have seen in months," Sells said.

Terms Nearly Ready For Japanese; Loss of War Implements First Step

Washington, July 18—(U.P.)—The military and diplomatic high command has nearly completed its outline of the terms to be handed to Japan once the Japanese government decides to surrender unconditionally, it was understood today.

The terms, which still require some filling of details as well as consultation with the major Pacific allies, prescribe the first steps toward stripping Japan of her conquested territory and eradicating her war-making capacity.

It was likely that they would be discussed at the Big Three Potsdam meeting if Russia's role in the Pacific war is determined. The U. S. terms as now outlined—much the same as those slapped at Germany last May—would give the allies immediate control of Japan's fleet, army, air force, heavy industry and shipbuilding and import facilities.

These provisions would pave the way for allied enforcement of the following objectives mapped by U. S. policy makers:

1. Destruction of the Japanese fleet and air force.
2. Elimination of heavy industries capable of turning out aircraft and munitions.
3. The surrender by Japan of her conquests including Manchuria, Korea and Formosa.
4. Dismantling of her shipbuilding facilities.
5. Strict control over Japanese imports.
6. Provisions for an allied occupation force in Japan.

There has been considerable agitation here, especially on Capitol Hill, for official publication of specific terms which the allies would expect the Japanese to meet under unconditional surrender.

As things stand now, it was believed, there will be no formal advance announcement of the surrender terms, on the grounds that this might be construed as an invitation to Japanese to try to make a bargain.

Home Folks First Is Food Promise

Washington, July 18—(U.P.)—American civilians are going to get a just share of the nation's food supply—and not simply what is left in the cupboard after other demands have been met.

Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson made that clear today with his pledge that the needs of the American people must and will be given "due recognition" when food is being allocated for military and foreign use.

BUS IN CREEK
Richmond, Va., July 18—(U.P.)—A Greyhound bus carrying from 43 to 45 passengers plunged into Gillies creek here today when a bridge across the rain-swollen stream collapsed as the bus was crossing. Forty-two of the occupants were accounted for. They were removed to local hospitals for treatment of shock and exposure. None was seriously injured.

Academy on Coast Is Proposed Again
Washington, July 18—(U.P.)—A bill proposing establishment of a military academy on the Pacific coast was introduced today for Rep. Leroy Johnson, R., Calif.

Johnson is the fourth congressman to suggest the need of a western West Point during the 79th session. His bill would authorize the secretary of war to start investigating and report back to the House Military Affairs committee with recommended locations if he finds a need exists for a second academy.

Californians Fear "Refers" Shortage
Berkeley, Cal., July 18—(U.P.)—The California Farm Bureau Federation today told Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson that a shortage of refrigerator cars threatens California farmers with a probable food loss equal to one-third of the tonnage shipped to Europe last year.

The bureau requested immediate action to save all of the state's bumper crops, which it said are needed for the Pacific war, domestic use and for Europe's civilians.

Soap Shipment To Europe Denounced
Washington, July 18—(U.P.)—Rep. Raymond S. Springer, R., Ind., today denounced the shipment of soap to European countries in the face of what he called a "critical" shortage at home. The Department of Agriculture said that the shipments scheduled for the rest of the year would amount to about one-half of one per cent of U. S. annual production.

"It is time that lend-lease (which means giving soap away) ceased taking from our good people the essentials of life—and soap is certainly one of those essentials—and giving it away to others in the civilian group in foreign countries," Springer said in a speech prepared for house delivery.

LABOR SECRETARY ASKS FOR THREE ASSISTANTS
Washington, July 18—(U.P.)—Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellenbach disclosed today that he has asked Congress to create an undersecretary and two assistant secretaries of labor to do administrative work "which I just can't do if I'm ever to have a chance to think."

Schwellenbach said he would seek the endorsement of labor organizations for appointees to the proposed two new assistant secretaryships. He did not, however, indicate whether he would pick them from the congress of industrial organizations and the Railway Brotherhoods.

FIGHTERS FIRST!

Millions of battle-weary veterans must get home for furloughs, then move back to camps for pre-Pacific training.

For them these trips ARE necessary. And, just as necessary to the country for which they are fighting!

No. 1 job of Great Northern's passenger service is moving fighting men first. On the Empire Builder and the railway's many other trains, space for civilian travel now is at a minimum.

The Office of Defense Transportation order that over-night sleeping car service on runs of 450 miles or less be discontinued on July 15 will mean considerably less space for civilian travelers.

Great Northern is confident that it can continue to successfully meet its obligation to the men in uniform if everyone will think, "Fighters First!"
