PRISON BECOMES CUPID CLUB FOR THOSE WITH COIN

Lansing, Mich., July 25—(U.P.)—Jackson State Prison inmates have converted the world's largest penitentiary into a virtual "cupid club for the lovelorn" with dope, liquor and special privileges for those who could pay, Attorney General John R. Dethmers charged today.

Dethmers' findings were contained in a sensational 30-count indictment of the prison's administration, concluding a four-month investigation of activities at Jackson.

The report said that some inmates were permitted the solace of wives and sweethearts in screened hospital beds.

Others were transported by prison employes to houses of prostitution in Jackson or taken on wild week-end parties with women at resort cottages owned by prison officials, Dethmers said.

Price for admittance to the hospital "love nest" was $1, payable to the attending nurse, the report alleged.

Dethmers charged that there was no control of sex perversion and he reported finding moral degenerates placed together in sections of the prison where their passions were virtually unchecked.

The report cited Warden Harry Jackson as responsible for "hampering the investigation" by telling inmates they did not have to testify to state examiners and that "something would be done for them after this blow over" if they refused to talk.

Jackson has served as warden 15 years in three different terms since 1925. He was in Lansing as the report was issued, but refused comment.

In addition to interference with the investigation, prison officials were charged by Dethmers with entertaining privileged inmates in their own homes for dinner, weddings and "hilarious parties from which they returned to the prison at two and three o'clock in the morning in a drunken condition."

Jury Duty Shirk Brings $25 Fine

Portland, Ore., July 25—(U.P.)—Mrs. Margaret S. Myers, who sidestepped federal jury duty to attend to her work as president of the women's auxiliary of the Rural Mail Carriers' Association of America, was fined $25 today for contempt of court.

Judge James Alger Fee admonished Mrs. Myers for shirking her patriotic duty in wartime but said the fine would be refunded if she reports for duty August 6 and serves the rest of the term.

Mrs. Myers lives at St. Helens, Ore., and is a former school teacher. She explained in court she had a plane itinerary scheduled for visits to western chapters of her association, and believed she had excused herself from jury duty by swearing to a statement of unavailability before a Notary Public and mailing it to the court.

Judge Fee declared her association work "had nothing to do with winning the war" and that since executives of high and low rank, labor leaders and the general run of citizens had responded to jury summons although "inconvenienced," Mrs. Myers should have taken her jury call more seriously. He added she should have appeared before the court to be excused.

Plunge Into Pool Fails to Help Con

Salem, Ore., July 25—(U.P.)—A plunge into the prison farm swimming pool yesterday, to avoid the eyes of guards hunting him, didn't help George Earl Wood, 20, any, and he was back under lock and key today in the penitentiary after about five hours of "freedom."

The young prison inmate, who was serving two years for burglary, escaped from a prison farm flax gang yesterday. He was found not long after by Everett Kaiser, state farmer, near the pool after his unsuccessful swim.

VITAMIN D FOR GROWING CHILDREN

Rickets is a nutritional deficiency disease, to be sure, but in the popular sense of the term "disease" it is not so regarded, for the infant, school child or youth with rickets is not obviously ill or sickly but just retarded in growth and development, or more or less pigeon breasted, bow-legged, flat-footed, swayed-backed, pot-bellied, droop-shouldered, weak-ankled, fatigued-postured and, of course, constantly or constitutionally tired and soft.

Unfortunately the popular notion of rickets is that it affects the bones. This notion is probably shared by some physicians who have never learned to recognize nutritional deficiency manifestations in the early stages or mild degrees—just as many old timers never learned to recognize lung tuberculosis while it was in the incipient stage, before the patient developed cavity and actual consumption.

Rickets affects the teeth, cartilages, nerves, muscles, digestive organs, teeth, tonsils and blood as much as it affects the bones—the bone manifestations are just more obvious to the casual observer than are the other manifestations of rickets. Yes, and to some physicians, too. The 122 children out of 230 examined postmortem had rickets but none of them died of rickets—they died from various acute illness not related to or in any way due to rickets.

Except in infancy—and even in the baby rickets usually becomes evident only after the baby is from six to eighteen months old—rickets is neither recognized nor prevented or treated in most instances, simply because the child or youth does not come under medical care or, if some accident or casual illness brings the child under medical observation the physician fails to take cognizance of and offer any advice about the underlying nutritional deficiency.

Phosphylaxis or prevention of rickets and all of its serious constitutional manifestations is so simple that it seems shameful if it is denied to or withheld from so many children in their developing, formative years. It consists of these essentials:

1. Adequate daily intake of high-calcium, high-phosphorus foods—particularly milk and milk products, butter, eggs, greens, peas, beans, peanuts, other nuts.

2. Greatest possible exposure of skin to sunlight, within reasonable limitations.

3. Optimal daily intake of vitamin D—that is, two or three times as much as nutrition authorities deem necessary to prevent rachitic manifestations.

In the booklet "V-I-T-E Spells Youth"—for copy send ten cents and stamped self-addressed envelope—you will find set forth the reasons why the way in which every growing child should eat his or her daily ration of vitamin D and B-complex along with breakfast or with lunch or dinner as preferred. Not that rickets is bound to occur if the child does not so supplement the ordinary diet, but, in my opinion, this prophylaxis positively favors the development of straighter, stronger, healthier, more vigorous children, youths, adults—with finer teeth, steadier nerves, in short, vite.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS Absorbing Sunshine Our whole family is what you might call a cult of sun worshippers. Our two children have always run with a few clothes as the law will allow. The rest of us bask in the sunshine as much as the law and the neighbors' sense of propriety will allow. Some one tells my husband that after the skin becomes well tanned it will not absorb any more health giving rays as it becomes too tough. (S. J.)

Answer—Your skin is not tougher, in fact it is softer, smoother, of finer texture, healthier in every respect than skin that has not been exposed to the sun. It still absorbs plenty of ultraviolet, though perhaps not so much as it did when exposed before it had become tanned. But then, you don't need so much vitamin D that you have absorbed so much ultraviolet and stored so much vitamin. All you need now is a maintenance ration of sunshine daily.
