

NEW CHOW CHAMP EATS $28 WORTH FOR SINGLE MEAL

Camp Pendleton, Calif., July 26—(U.P.)—Buddies of Marine Pvt. Earl R. Wolfe, 18, of Ellitsville, Ind., who shelled out $28.45 in a rash attempt to see how much Wolfe could eat, today claimed for him the title of Armed Forces Chow Champion.

Army Pfc. Chester J. Salvatori of Southbridge, Mass., who army doctors described as an exhibitionist when he downed an inordinate amount of food, is just a piker, the marines said.

Wolfe, who is "really hungry," at one sitting devoured:

Twelve fish dinners each with an order of French fries, combination salad and jello; four quarts of milk, six pints of ice cream, three malts, five cherry pies, six sandwiches, five tomato salads and four glasses of orange juice.

The check: $28.45.

Under the heading "Hungry Man," Time magazine in a recent issue described the gastronomic feat of Pfc. Salvatori as follows:

"The mess sergeants at Fort McPherson, to whom hearty appetites are an old story, were openly impressed. The medium-sized (140-lb., 5-ft. 7-in.) private kept bringing his tray back and back. When he had finished breakfast he had finished 60 eggs and 76 hot cakes. At that rate, he was getting some 30,000 calories a day (a hearty male diet: 6,000).

"By the time the press discovered him last week, Pfc. Chester J. (The Stomach) Salvatori, a horn-tooter in an itinerant Army band, had landed in the Fort McPherson Post Hospital; he had been under observation there for a month. Hospital Commandant Colonel Burgh S. Burnett had an old-fashioned diagnosis: there was nothing abnormal about Salvatori's metabolism—it was really only his ego that needed nourishment. He is an exhibitionist who puts on his eating show for the benefit of fellow soldiers. The Army had him eat alone, restricted his caloric intake to 7,000 a day.

"But while the newspaper excitement was on, the hospital absent-mindedly gave Salvatori a pass. He made a beeline for an Atlanta cafeteria, where customers and the press watched him eat seven orders of fried chicken, ten orders of French fries, nine glasses of orange juice, two quarts of milk, ten combination salads, five egg salads, two orders of olives, two glasses of iced coffee, two slices of watermelon, five orders of rolls and five slices of apple pie a la mode. Cost: $9.95. He was eating light, he said, because he had already had six candy bars and a quart of ice cream."

NOVELIST DIES
Palo Alto, Calif., July 26—(U.P.) Charles Gilman Norris, 63-year-old novelist, died in a hospital here late yesterday of a chronic heart ailment. Norris was stricken last summer in New York and hospitalized there. He returned to Palo Alto last fall.

NAVY ENLISTING BOYS FOR RADAR

Additional young men from this section of Oregon continue to be enlisted in the Navy, according to W. R. Cumley, recruiter-in-charge of the Medford Navy Recruiting station.

In addition to many enlistments in the general service classification several young men from this and surrounding territory have recently been enlisted in the Navy's radio technician (radar) training program.

Among those in this general area who have qualified for this special program are:

John E. Bullock, Medford; Herbert W. Gifford, Medford; Cecil H. Hayes, Prospect; James R. Lovejoy, Medford; William S. Ore, Grants Pass; Robert D. Pactor, Medford; Arthur U. Van Elten, Ashland; Henry O. White, Grants Pass.

UNCIO GUARDED BY "RING OF STEEL"

San Francisco, July 26—(U.P.)—The Army revealed today details of the extraordinary security precautions taken to guard the delegates of 50 United Nations who met here for two months to plan a world organization.

Machine guns, anti-aircraft guns, fighter and patrol planes, radar equipment and hundreds of military and municipal police formed a ring of steel around the city of San Francisco from April 24 to June 26.

While soldiers manned strategically-located machine gun and anti-aircraft units and searchlight batteries 24 hours a day, giant Navy Patrol Planes and lighter-than-air craft patrolled hundreds of square miles around the San Francisco Bay area to warn against approach of unfamiliar planes.

PARK NOW OPERATING ON WAR-TIME BASIS

According to word received in Medford from Crater Lake National Park Superintendent E. P. Leavitt, the lake roads are now open, and the park is operating on the same basis as last summer with no hotel, restaurant, or service station facilities available.

Public camp groups are open to visitors, who must bring their own equipment and food. Weather at the lake is reported to be nice the past several days.

SOFT LAMB PLAN LITTLE RELIEF IN MEDFORD REGION

The recent point free ruling for soft lambs, widely publicized as bringing much needed relief for sheep growers and meat-hungry public falls far short of the mark here, the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce today telegraphed Clinton Anderson, secretary of Agriculture, and Senators Guy Cordon and Wayne Morse of Oregon. Out of 300 lambs just dressed by the Medford Meat company, only two animals graded point free, the chamber declared.

"Unless a more liberal effort is made to dispose of the large surplus of soft lambs, the point free ruling will be a mere gesture," the officials were informed.

"Southern Oregon sheepmen generally shear lambs before selling and ceiling prices do not enable slaughterers to come out even on lower grades if the market price is paid and the pelts sold at the shearer price," the chamber's telegram continued.

"We urge your early review and modification of the order to permit marketing of the surplus," it concluded.

FREAK ACCIDENT DETAILS RELATED BY KLINEFELTER

Bert Klinefelter, Greyhound bus driver, of Redding, declared yesterday that published stories of the accident on the highway near Ashland the morning of July 21 were incomplete in that it was not explained how the three vehicles involved came to be abreast on the road while all were going in the same direction.

According to Klinefelter, his southbound bus came up behind a light truck, being driven by Gladys McCulley, of Medford. The McCulley machine was not far behind an Oregon-Nevada-California freight truck. Klinefelter said he signaled with his horn and started to pass the light truck. Just as his machine got abreast of the rear end of the light truck, the driver pulled over to the left, apparently with the intention of passing the heavy truck. This maneuver, Klinefelter said, threw the light truck partly in his path and before he could brake down, the bus shoved the light truck ahead and alongside the freight truck. In the ensuing mixup, Klinefelter stated, the machines were nearly abreast for a moment. No one was injured in the brief tangle.

Klinefelter said he had not attempted to pass the two machines while they were abreast, as some might have construed the original published report of the accident which was obtained from the Ashland police. Such a maneuver, he pointed out, would be foolhardy for any driver, and, as their safety records show, bus drivers have the best record of all when number of miles traveled is considered.
