JAPANESE COMING
Los Angeles, July 30 — (U.P.)—A special evacuee train bearing 417 Japanese-Americans is enroute westward, from the Rohwer, Ark., relocation center, southern WRA Head Paul G. Robertson announced today.

DOUBLE TROUBLE
San Francisco, July 30 — (U.P.)—An expectant mother suspected of having infantile paralysis was rushed to a hospital today where she gave birth to a set of twins, one of which was a boy who was dead at birth.

L. A. LIMITED WRECKED
Farrier, Nev., July 30 — (U.P.)—Three cars of the Union Pacific railroad's Los Angeles Limited overturned late last night as its track gave way to the onslaught of a flash flood. There were no serious injuries, railroad officials said.

The main postoffice in San Francisco is finished inside with Italian marble, mosaics, and verd antique trimming.

PRIZE-WINNER — Frank Menendez of San Juan, Puerto Rico, received the Columbia University School of Architecture's ninth annual Henry Wright Memorial Prize. Winning design was War Veteran's Rehabilitation Center.

Readers should inquire to Dr. William Brady, 265 El Camino Beverly Hills, Calif.

GREEN SCALES AND RED SCALES AGAIN
You should have stopped after you said "I am not chemist enough" to tell why the "U. S. P. uses meaningless and confusing terms" for such preparations as iron and ammonium citrates.

Dr. Brady about red scales and green scales or granules. It says Iron and Ammonium Citrates consists of "thin, transparent, garnet red scales or granules, very soluble in water." The Pharmacopoeia further says Green Iron and Ammonium Citrates consists of "thin, transparent, green scales or granules, readily soluble in water." The red scales or granules contain more iron than the green scales or granules. The red scales or granules are preferable for administration by mouth, the green scales or granules (in solution) preferable (less irritating) for injection. (Lancet, (L. (g) USNR).

Thank you, Lieutenant. Generally, when I refer to the preparation at all, I quote the Pharmacopoeia description, as you do. Incidentally it is the druggists who are to blame for most of the confusion regarding this preparation. When a customer asks for "iron and ammonium citrates" or when a physician prescribes "Ferri et Ammonii Citrates" the druggist has no excuse for bringing green scales or granules into the discussion. The U. S. P. (legal standard) name for the garnet red transparent scales or granules is Iron and Ammonium Citrates. If the customer asks for, or the physician prescribes green iron and ammonium citrates the name for it, according to the Pharmacopoeia, is Green Iron and Ammonium Citrates.

Until the U. S. Pharmacopoeia quietly drops Iron and Ammonium Citrates, as it does a few old standby medicines at each decennial revision, there is no good reason why the druggist should be in doubt what a customer wants when the customer asks for, say, one ounce of Iron and Ammonium Citrates. Once you have it, it is easy to prepare your Iron "tonic"—just put the ounce of garnet-red scales or granules in a four-ounce vial and fill the vial up with boiled water after the water has cooled a bit. It makes a clear red solution. Not as bad tasting as you may think. Harmless to the teeth. Ordinarily one with anemia should take a teaspoonful of it in a little water sweetened with sugar if you like and flavored with any fruit juice, after food, once, twice or three times a day, for a month or more.

BEHIND THOSE TEETH (you can just see him peeking around them) is young Jimmy Higson, director-arranger of the "Teen-Agers"—the band of school-age musicians in composer Hoagy Carmichael's NBC airshow, "Something New." They'll be on hand tonight, making music while Hoagy does some of that Carmichael-type vocalizing. There'll be guest stars, too. Better listen!
