HOSPITALS ARE SITTING TIGHT

I note (writes Capt. ...) in your booklet that you advocate the presence of the father in the delivery room at the time of birth. My wife has strongly indicated her desire to have me at her side at that time. Do hospitals permit the husband to remain with his wife? (Signed) I'm afraid,

Dr. Brady, Captain, that you are out of luck if your wife must go to a hospital to have her baby. In his own home, in her own home, a man or a woman will have the right to decide whether the husband shall remain at his wife's side or be ordered out by the hospital nurse or doctor.

That children's specialist who made the weekly newsmagazine recently by proclaiming that there are too many operations on children, too many tonsillectomies, too many children hospitalized without just cause or provocation, etc., and that a hospital is a poor place for a child to be born in, that there is little evidence that hospital delivery has reduced maternal or infant deaths, and that it exposes the baby to hospital diseases and to the scientific inhumanity of doctors and nurses (italics mine), may not realize it, but he is being described in the editorial columns of the Jour. of the American Fishbone Association as a liar or worse—I know because I was so described when I told some truths about the shameful part American Medicine has played in the monopolies that keep insulin and vitamin D prices up for so many years.

These doctors who run the rackets don't like to be exposed to the public, and they have ways of punishing any one who ventures to expose them. Here let me inform readers that I have no data on hospitals
