Chicago, Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Realization of a housewife's dream—a combination clothes washer, potato peeler and dish washer with the addition of a butter churn and ice cream freezer only a step away—was near today.

Unlike man's post war dream, this one will come true by the first of 1946, unless an unexpected material shortage develops.

Edward N. Hurley, president of the Hurley Machine Division of Electric Household Utilities, Chicago, is the man responsible for the domestic miracle.

The Thor Automatic Washer, the "dream" will be called. It's planned as a kitchen unit to be operated daily as a dish washer and potato peeler.

Washing Attachment
Then, on wash day, the housewife need only install the clothes washing attachment. Light enough to be lifted and attached in less than a minute, Hurley said.

One model will be equipped with an automatic dial. The housewife sets the dial and then does her housework while the new appliance washes, rinses and dries the clothes.

Hurley said the machine uses the spinner agitator principle. He said this is more efficient than the whirl method of pre-war wringerless washers.

As a dish washer, the Thor needs only a new attachment—a metal plate for pots and pans and a wire basket with space for a complete dinner service for six.

Hot water rushes over the dishes at a 35-mile-per-hour rate. A continual stream of water is necessary, Hurley said, as the washer holds only two quarts of water, used over and over again.

Food Scraps Ground
Hurley explained that the once inescapable headache of food scraps clogging a dish washer drain has been solved by using ingenious metal fingers, which grind large particles of food to powder.

As a result, only bones and potato peelings need be scraped from plates before they are placed in the washer.

The machine both washes and dries dishes, operating on the same spinner principle as the clothes washer.

The third miracle, a potato peeler, is another attachment—a small tub coated with abrasive. The potatoes are spun rapidly, so that the abrasive literally skins the vegetable.

Hurley said both the prospective butter churn and ice cream

Poland is given "temporarily" all territory west of her pre-war borders, up to Oder and Neisse Rivers, important port of Swinemunde, also Danzig and slice of East Prussia; northern part of East Prussia, including Königsburg, will go to Russia, until peace conference. Lithuania is also claimed by Soviets. Map shows eastern Poland 1939 border and "Curzon" Line, which Yalta agreement made new eastern limit of Poland.

Siskiyou Soldier Says British Wife Soon Deserted Him

Yreka, Cal., Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—Married in England and assertedly deserted by his British wife before he left there, Homer E. Gordon, of Mount Shasta, is taking his troubles to California courts for solution.

Local court officials are wondering if this complicated case of the first of its kind in World War II.

The divorce complaint, filed by Gordon against Joan Gordon, states that while stationed in England with the army, he married the British girl at Surrey, April 29, 1944.

Less than four months later, Gordon charged, his wife deserted him "without explanation or cause."

Gordon filed his action while home for redeployment to the Pacific. The couple have no children or community property.

BIRTHS

WATERS—To Mr. and Mrs. W. M., 812 Sherman street, August 5, 1945, a girl, seven pounds, at Osteopathic Clinic.

Olive Barber's Letter

Years ago, when marriage was a hope rather than a reality, like all girls I had my dreams of what married life would be like. A favorite vision was of a still nebulous lord fondly kissing the little woman good-bye each morning before he left for work. At that stage of my emotional development, the tragic leaving-taking had a higher rating than the joyful evening reunion. There was something so sweetly sad in the thought that each day we would be torn apart. The historic possibilities of such a situation, I saw, were limitless. I pictured these touching scenes very clearly. After having struck a tragic pose of renunciation, I would watch, through tear-dimmed eyes, my love depart to do battle with the world. Thus, he would remember me through the long hours of our separation.

Also, by that time, competition for his affection would be over and done for. The wedding march would write Finis to that! There would be only me. At this point in my dreaming, I am quite sure I smirked.

Well, my dream came true to the extent that I did marry and each morning my lord leaves for work; and leaves in a welter of emotion. But it is the farm animals, not the little woman, which do the emoting. Even if I had time to dramatize our separation, I have nothing to match the frenzied heart-break of Susan, the golden spaniel. Tied in the woodshed until her idol has thoroughly left, she abandons herself to grief. Susan is not one of your silent sufferers. She feels like howling and so, with a revolting lack of restraint, she howls.

Then the cow, seeing the man go up the hill, moos in a minor key and follows his every step with woeful eyes. His absence will desolate her. Even her tail expresses sadness. And a cow with a sad tail is a cow with a headache. Then Jerry, the horse, yearns across the fence and his whickerings are tremulous with feeling. In fact when the man takes off the air all over Hillside is fairly gummed up with sighings, laments and mental suffering.

And so it is the little dog, the horse and the cow which receive the master's lingering looks of regret over the separation. This isn't the way I had planned it in the long ago, but that is how it is. Oh, well, what wife has time to moon over a man who will be gone only 10 hours or so. Besides, seems like a body gets little done, with a man always under foot.

ICE CREAM BARGE
San Diego, Aug. 7.—(U.P.)—A $1,000,000 barge equipped with a 40-quart ice cream freezer was revealed today as the only floating ice cream parlor serving sailors in the South Pacific. The 11th naval district said the barge freezes ten gallons of ice cream every seven minutes and makes about 1500 gallons in six different flavors daily. The floating freezer serves men aboard smaller ships in South Pacific waters.
