ATOMIC MAKERS ARE FORBIDDEN TO DISCUSS JOB

Security Lid On Until Specific Release From Pledge Is Given, Says Chief

By Willard D. Eberhart
 United Press Staff Correspondent

Richland, Wash., Aug. 10—(UPI)—Employees of the Hanford atomic bomb project still are forbidden to discuss their individual jobs even with each other, despite revelation of the destruction they have helped pour on Japan.

Walter O. Simon, plant manager of the project for the Du Pont Co., said today the security lid still was on for the workers until they are specifically released from their pledge by the company.

Seven Plants Seen
 Meanwhile newsmen completed a carefully conducted tour of the ghost town of Hanford and saw from a respectable distance the seven principal plants in three production areas, which are separated by miles of fenced in and guarded sage brush and sand.

There was no sign of human life in the plant areas except for a few guards at the gates. Workers inside toiled by remote control on unseen materials scheduled to bring almost unbelievable devastation to Japan.

Simon explained that each worker still is "supposed to know only his own job." They were told yesterday in a telegram from Under-Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson that "the need for security and for continued effort is fully as great as it ever was."

"The warlords of Japan now know its effects better even than we ourselves," Patterson said.

Secrecy Problem
 Simon, the No. 1 civilian in the project where civilians outnumber army men 10 to 1, said the need for secrecy posed delicate problems early in the work when DuPont had to summon scientists and technicians from many of its plants and send them to Hanford without explanation.

Once here they were asked to warn their families in hometowns across the nation to avoid mentioning their new addresses.

The plants themselves, despite their apparent isolation, impressed newsmen as not unlike other industrial plants they had seen.

The buildings are long, low and gray with high water tanks and smokestacks. There is a tower 450 feet high standing by itself. Its purpose was not explained.

In the town of Hanford which cost $17,000,000 to build, humans are outnumbered by goats left behind by some of the original Hanford residents. Quonset and Pacific huts that quartered 17,000 residents as well as all furniture and strategic equipment have been salvaged, officials explained.

Young King Peter To Fight Ousting

London, Aug. 10—(UPI)—Young King Peter prepared to fight Marshal Tito's plan to oust him from the throne of Yugoslavia.

Peter issued a proclamation, from exile in London last night which said:

"From this moment the duty of defending the constitutional rights of my people reverts to me."

He charged Tito with establishing a "totalitarian dictatorship" in Yugoslavia.

Yamashita Invited To Commit Suicide For Good of All

With the 14th Corps on Northern Luzon, Aug. 10—(UPI)—An American lieutenant-general today formally invited his Japanese opponent to commit suicide.

Lt. Gen. O. W. Griswold, commander of the 14th air corps, demanded that Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita release all Japanese civilians who are being forced to retreat with enemy troops into the mountains of northern Luzon. At the same time, he suggested that Yamashita might kill himself so that his followers could surrender honorably.

More than 100,000 leaflets containing Griswold's demands were dropped in the Kiangnan-Banau-Hungdwan area where Yamashita, the "Butcher of Bataan," is making his death stand.

Richard Jewett Tells of Trips in Europe Area

T/3 Richard D. Jewett, son of School Superintendent and Mrs. H. P. Jewett of Central Point and a former employee of the Mail Tribune, has written local friends that he is now in Naples, Italy, and expects to begin a one week tour of Switzerland the middle of August. Sponsored by the army, the tour will begin at Milan.

Jewett reports that five of his company had a five day outing at a mountain lake 60 to 70 miles north of Naples during the latter part of June. The trip to the lake was made through the Volturno valley, and Jewett states that the scenery was beautiful. Hemp is an important native crop, and irrigation is carried on in primitive forms, according to Jewett.

The army man also comments on the trip to England aboard the Queen Mary, and the disaster involving the cruiser Curacao. Men on board the transport did not fully realize the danger and near-disaster to themselves when the escort vessel was struck by enemy craft.

Competitive Exams Open Channels For Marine Enlistment

San Francisco—Hundreds of young men will now be given the opportunity of enlisting in the U. S. Merchant Marine Cadet Corps through a new system of competitive entrance examinations. It was announced today by Lt. Comdr. E. G. McDonald, USNR, district cadet-midshipmen supervisor for this area.

"Instead of enlisting men according to the quota system, which eliminated the chances of many applicants, every young man between the ages of 17 and 23 will not be eligible to take a competitive examination," Lt. Comdr. McDonald stated.

Next examination is September 29. Examinations will be conducted by the U. S. Civil Service Commission in principal cities.

Application forms and information booklets relative to admission to the examination may be obtained by writing to the Supervisor, U. S. Merchant Marine Cadet Corps, National Theater Building, Washington 25, D. C. In order to be eligible for the September 29 examination, inquiries must be addressed to the Supervisor before August 31, 1945.
