SCHOOL CHILDREN ASSURED LUNCHES FOR COMING YEAR

School children throughout Jackson county are assured excellent lunch programs during the coming school year through the efforts of the community canning groups. Griffin Creek is an outstanding example of the progress that has been made toward integrating the school lunch with the educational program in the school and community according to Miss Marian Farrell, home demonstration agent.

Every Thursday at 9 a. m. mothers and friends from the Griffin Creek district meet in the new kitchen at the school to can fruit or prepare vegetables for the freezing unit. When Miss Farrell visited the group last week she found the women preparing string beans for freezing. The group included Mesdames Sarah Judy, Monte Muir, Ethel Guches, Geacil Miller and Marie Clagston. Mrs. Judy, chairman, reported that still more help was needed and urged that all women in the district contact her or come to the school Thursday mornings prepared to help.

To date the group has canned 119 quarts of cherries, 63 pints apricots, 20 quarts applesauce and prepared 65 pounds of string beans for the locker. Corn peaches, tomatoes and pears still to be done indicate the great need for extra assistance, Miss Farrell said.

Most of the food canned for the school lunch represents surplus from home and commercial gardens. In every district the plea is made for more produce. Miss Farrell urges anyone having surpluses to contact the local school group or her office and arrangements can be made for its preservation.

Miss Farrell cited the Griffin Creek school as a typical example of the progress that can be made through community cooperation. Mrs. Ethel Guches who has been working with the program for many years reports that three years ago the lunch program consisted of a hot drink and that this year children will have a complete lunch served in a new and attractive lunchroom.
