

PACKING PLANTS WILL BE IN FULL SWING BY FRIDAY

Most packing plants of the city were operating today and all will be by tomorrow. Most of the workers reported with a few still observing the second of the V-J day holidays. German prisoners of war and Mexican Nationals were busy in the orchards.

Reter Fruit company, American Fruit company, Myron F. Root, Pinnacle plant No. 1 and the S.O.S. plants were among those underway.

Grocery stores, many restaurants, service stations and a number of other businesses were open today. Some eating places closed for both holidays. Yesterday, three places were serving meals and were crowded with lines forming at some restaurants. End of gasoline rationing saw many people make trips to country spots for meals.

Banks, the court house and barber shops were closed. Raymond R. Reter of Reter Fruit company said the local labor situation "was not too bad," though prisoners of war and Mexican agricultural help saved the day. He described local labor "as most generous." He said no transient labor was coming into the valley now.

GAITY TOUCHES PAROLE VIOLATOR

Los Angeles, Aug. 16—(U.P.)—A 20-year-old parole violator from Boston turned himself in to police today because "something about the celebration last night with everyone so friendly, seemed to get me where it hurts."

Joseph Burns, sought by Boston police since 1943 when he left that city for Honolulu, told how he had mixed with the "wrong crowd" soon after his medical discharge from the marines three years ago.

"I got to thinking about my girl, and how I couldn't ever get married if I was scared of being arrested. I had been lucky getting around the cops before but it couldn't last.

"When the sun came up this morning, I was all alone. I can't stand it," Burns told police.

He is being held in jail for Boston authorities.

Blind Mechanic Is Whiz on Motors Of Intricate Planes

San Bernardino, Cal.—(U.P.)—Airplane mechanic Ernest T. Villalovoz has never seen the huge engines upon which he works at the Air Technical Service command. Yet his foreman, C. K. Eversole, names him as one of his best men.

Villalovoz is blind. His nimble fingers, however, know every part of the great power plants and quickly find proper tools as he works on the disassembly line.

Back in 1919 Villalovoz was an auto mechanic, when a spark destroyed the sight in his right eye. After an operation failed to restore his vision, he gradually lost sight in the other eye. But Villalovoz refused to recognize a handicap and adjusted himself to a new life.

Villalovoz needed only a few days to learn the intricate aircraft work.

Help Prevent FOREST FIRES
9 Out of 10 Are Man-Caused

FOREST FIRES still burn over 40 times as many acres as there are in Yosemite National park. They still destroy 3 billion board feet of timber—enough to build 215,000 five-room homes. They still consume grass and stubble—food for cattle and sheep—from millions of acres of range and farm land. They still drain almost 1 million man-days of fire fighting labor from industry and agriculture.
