FISHING DAYS ARE OVER

Dr. Brady

For years we have enjoyed your articles. They are always entertaining reading, never leave a morbid or anxious after effect, and we have derived a lot of good from your teachings. You are the kind of fellow the writer would like to have as companion on a fishing trip once in awhile. (A. L. J.)

Thank you for the invitation, sir, but fishing . . . never again.

A few years before the war we stopped along the highway there one afternoon to watch the salmon climbing ladders. That is a wonder I just couldn't believe till I saw it—same as the taking off of a big airplane. One fish which must have weighed fifteen pounds, overshot and flopped out on a platform above the ladder. In a jiffy some youths waiting there clubbed the fish to death and bore it off (the laws, if any, notwithstanding).

Any one who knows the life cycle of salmon will understand why I have dreamed of that bit of cruelty many times since it happened.

I was cured of hunting on the first and last occasion I went hunting. A man who took me along was anxious that I should bring home something from my first hunting trip, so he carried a ferret (which was against the law, but quite the custom in that neck of the woods). When he found a likely looking hole he would load his shotgun, stand ten feet away, send the ferrit in, and when the rabbit appeared blaze away at the bunny. Yet that man was in all ordinary respects a kind gentle and most likeable chap.

Killing purely for sport is not my notion of recreation or pleasure. Not that I'm no conscientious—I believe I might like the job of killing a few thousand German "supermen" and Jap sub-human creatures. But I have an imagination and it makes me sick and angry when I see some sadistic moron proudly displaying the deer, the birds, the fish he has managed to kill by means of almost automatic machinery, never by his own skill.

Now if any reader should take it into his head to invite me to accompany him on a hike or a trip of any kind to study natural history, or on a walk around the block to identify birds, trees or anything of the kind I'll be delighted—just a sec. till I get my cross-country pipe loaded.

It is not abnormal if a young child catches a little bird, chicken or bunny and deliberately kills the creature—but it hardly seems normal when a grownup derives pleasure from similar killing of helpless creatures with his cruel traps, guns, lures and snares.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Geography of Goitre

Please name cities in the United States, preferably in the mid-west, where people are not inclined to have goitre. (M. R. H.)

Answer—I know of no particular mid-west area where goitre does not prevail. No matter where you live the way to avoid developing goitre is by making sure that you get an adequate intake of iodine. Send stamped self addressed envelope for pamphlet "The Iodin Ration" (this spelling is mine.)

No Hot Flashes

Is a woman having her menopause if she still menstruates regularly, has no hot flashes and such, at 48. (Mrs. F. P. W.)

Answer—Menopause is merely a name for the physiological cessation of menstruation. So the woman you describe is not having her menopause. But don't worry about it anyway. Send stamped self addressed envelope for the pamphlet "The Menopause," which will reassure you about the so-called "critical epoch or "change of life."

Piles Cured

Thank you for the information on cure of piles. I consulted the doctor you recommended and he is certainly skilled and a fine man. He cured me in four painless treatments. (W. L. C.)

Answer—I still say "It is Stupid to Suffer from Piles"—and I explain why in the pamphlet bearing that title, mailed on written request (no clipping, please) if you provide stamped envelope bearing your address.
