Glory be! Here come the Busses!

If it looks like a scene from "This is the Army"... If you see uniforms everywhere... If the place is jam-packed with soldiers, sailors, marines, flyers—and their womenfolk... Then, fellow citizens, you are in a bus terminal.

As we all know, travel of any kind is not too simple these days. But have you ever stopped to think where the nation would be—without busses? It would be in a super-colossal pickle—that's what.

As thick as boyhood freckles upon the face of the country have mushroomed cantonnments... airfields... war plants. Not always have these centers of activity been within walking distance.

But busses get the people back and forth. They get them forth and back. By bus, a uniformed lad may stretch his furlough from Pensacola to Reno... or from Santa Ana to Bangor. Back and forth... up and down... the bus lines make a gridwork of the map.

They have their troubles, of course. They have their grief about manpower... repairs... replacements. But—like the marines in a tight spot—it's always a case of here come the busses. They always arrive! And usually they arrive on time!

We'd like to remind you that, back in 1917, father was lucky if he got from camp to the nearest town by bus. All this development has come about since his fighting days. Without it, we might have lacked the ability to fight a war so much bigger than the last.

So we'd like to salute an achievement that is super-duper. But the best testimonial to the bus lines is a glance inside a terminal. Try it some day.

JAPAN URGED TO REPENT IN DARK HOUR OF DEFEAT

San Francisco, Aug. 27—(U.P.)—Shuzo Toyama, son of the late Mitsuru Toyama, chief of the Eijingoistic Black Dragon society, exhorted the Japanese people today to reconstruct a new Japan and "complete what has been so completely lacking in the past."

In a Tokyo radio broadcast recorded by United Press, San Francisco, Toyama said that Japan, except for a "small number of truly sincere and earnest men," was made up of those who were "destined for defeat."

"The defeat eloquently bespeaks how incomplete, superficial and crude modern Japan has been. It is a strange wonder how she managed to fight for this length of time. It was fully attributable to the august virtue of his gracious imperial majesty, the emperor."

"Whatever plight we may face in the future, we should not be dishonest. Now, we must bring peace into the bitterness of defeat for that is the only alternative to revive once again that quiet and precise learning of ourselves."

"Inasmuch as we could not attain victory, let us take our defeat in the best of grace and make a new start in order to complete what has been so completely lacking in the past."

Toyama's father frequently was called the "unofficial emperor of Japan." A fanatical patriot, his political gunmen assassinated statesmen who hindered Japanese aggression. Under his leadership, the Black Dragon society used terror and murder to spur Japanese conquest by war.

The Coalsdale Victory docks with 1,983 troops, and the John Pillsbury with 719, including the 811th Tank Destroyer Battalion; 572nd QM Battalion; 112th Financial Disbursing Section, and the 122nd and 123rd Mobile Training units.

Six transports brought 4,696 troops into New York port yesterday, including 1,982 diverted troops aboard the Sea Cat which sailed for the Pacific from Leghorn, Italy, Aug. 15.

The men, who had heard the surrender news, were glum faced until orders to change course came three days later.

TRUK AND OTHER BY-PASSED ISLES WILLING TO QUIT

Cam, Aug. 27—(U.P.)—Japan's still formidable "Pearl Harbor" bastion of Truk and most other by-passed enemy islands in the Pacific are ready to surrender without a fight. The by-passed garrisons probably total 240,000 troops.

Admiral Chester W. Nimitz announced today that Rota, Yap, the Palaus and Jaluit were among the Japanese islands for whose surrender negotiations already had begun or would soon.

Japanese forces on Wake, Ponape, Jusaia and Nauru have not yet shown a surrender signal, but Nimitz said they were not firing on low-flying navy reconnaissance planes nor taking cover when the planes appeared.

Two navy patrol bombers reported that the Japanese had painted white crosses signifying their willingness to surrender Truk atoll on the runways at Moen Island yesterday—only 24 hours after planes from Guam had dropped surrender instructions.

In the early days of the Pacific war, Truk was considered an almost impassable barrier on the trans-Pacific road to Tokyo. The atoll subsequently was neutralized by American carrier and land-based planes, however, and no attempt ever was made to invade it.

Negotiations for the surrender of Rota, only 50 miles north of Guam and largest of the Marianas islands still in Japanese hands, began today aboard an American warship off that island.

Week-end Rains Ease Northwest Fire Situation

Portland, Ore., Aug. 27—(U.P.)—Rain and high humidity today eased the forest fire situation in the Pacific northwest as state foresters reported all major fires under control due to continuous week-end rains.

On the Oregon coast, the Tillamook burn was quiet due to overcast skies and slight rain-falls, enabling crews to work along the edges of the blaze and halt its spread. About 800 men were still working on the fire-lines, but it was reported that most of the 175,000 acre burn was trailed except for spots near the northernmost fork of the Trask river, near Clear Creek, and near Foss.

In Linn county, a blaze started by logging operations Friday, was smoldering under two inches of rain and was reported two-thirds trailed.

Forestry officials in Washington state said every blaze in that state was under control. The most troublesome fire had been in the Riderwood area of Colville county where flames spread over some 3,000 acres of forested land.
