

"OKIES" FLOCK BACK TO DUST BOWL RANCHES

Farmers Believe Money Saved On War Jobs Will Last Through 'Anything'

Kingman, Ariz., Aug. 28—(AP)—The dust bowl farmers who flocked to California war plants when the weevil and drought riddled their crops are streaming home now with plenty of folding money to put themselves back in the farming business.

This time they predict triumphantly, they won't go broke. Let the bugs come; let the storms blow; let the rain refuse to rain. What they've saved from their war jobs on the west coast will see them through almost anything.

Most of them are headed back to Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, and Texas. And the border inspectors say there is an average of eight people to a car. A few are going as far as Florida, South Carolina, and Tennessee.

They've lost their jobs because of government cutbacks. But they're going back rich and rarin' to get started again.

I talked to more than three dozen overalled farmers who worked as welders and shipyard workers. They'd saved enough to pay off the mortgage on the old homestead and start growing cotton and corn for their own profit.

Two or three had bought new farms through the mail and said they have yet to lay eyes on their new homes.

"I stood a roof over my head as long as I could," declared I. M. Farnsworth, who is a Douglas welder at Long Beach. "Now me and maw are goin' back to Oklahoma and raise corn and pigs."

J. C. Arch, who was a lead man at the Kaiser Richmond yards, said he'd saved a pretty big nest egg and was going to use it to fix up his farm in Oklahoma.

"We'll even be doin' government work sorts," he declared. "Only now it'll be producing food instead of ships."

Most of them plan to get "a lot of new machinery."

C. L. Massengale another ex-Kaiser worker, was taking his wife, three children, and two dogs back to Oklahoma in a streamlined new car.

"I was a mechanic out here for four years," he explained. "I saved all my overtime pay and had a whoopin' good time on the rest. But I've still got plenty left to set myself up in farming again."

German Posed As Latin, Held a Spy
Washington, Aug. 28—(AP)—The federal bureau of investigation today announced the arrest of a German spy posing as a citizen of Argentina.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Hans Rudolf Christin Zuehlsdorff, 25, was arrested Aug. 9 by British authorities in Trinidad and was brought to Miami, Fla., by FBI agents last night.

He was apprehended, Hoover said, as a result of information obtained at the time of the arrest of the two Nazi agents who landed from a German submarine on the Maine coast last fall.

COUNTY VETERANS ELIGIBLE FOR 40 YEAR FARM LOAN

Jackson county war veterans with farm backgrounds are eligible for 40-year farm purchase loans under provisions of the Bankhead-Jones tenant act to promote ownership of family-type farms, announces Bruce E. Stewart, County Farm Security Supervisor, 211 Fluhrer Building, Medford, Oregon. Oregon has been allotted $140,000 for veterans, and $95,523 for farm tenants out of the congressional appropriation of $50,000,000 for these programs.

Farm ownership loans under the act may be made up to $12,000 in the case of qualified veterans, while farm tenants are subject to restrictions based on the value of the average farm in the county, explained Mr. Stewart. Applicants locate the farms they wish to buy and file an application with the County FSA office. Farms are appraised on the basis of their long time earning capacity and the applicant's qualifications for ownership are reviewed by the County FSA committee of three local farmers. If the farm is priced on the basis of its actual value and the applicant has the experience for successful ownership, the loan is approved. Loans are repayable up to 40 years and bear three percent interest on the unpaid balance.

As the state allotment of farm ownership funds will be used wherever suitable farms and applicants can be found, the number of loans this county receives will depend on how quickly local veterans and tenants file their applications, said Mr. Stewart.

Veterans who prefer to start by renting or leasing farms and are unable to secure necessary operating credit are also eligible for FSA loans to purchase livestock, machinery, seed, feed, household goods and minor improvements up to $2,500.
