

VETERANS ON WAY HOME SEND MANY MESSAGES TO KIN

Nearly half of the 200,000 or more veterans arriving from overseas each month are sending homeward bound telegrams immediately, it was announced today by the local manager of the telegraph company.

On some ships more than two-thirds of the men send messages prepared before the ship docks. By the time the last soldier has debarked from the vessel, the messages are flashing across the wires to loved ones.

Fixed-text telegrams approved by the army and navy are provided to returning veterans, telling homefolks of their safe arrival. As soon as the men reach their army redistribution points, many more telegrams are sent. At Camp Shanks, a typical port of embarkation camp in New York, the top volume is around 30,000 wires a day. Many of these self-composed telegrams sparkle with true GI originality. The dynamic spirit and ever-ready sense of humor of the men is reflected in communiques like these:

"Just shook hands with the Statue of Liberty. Set you in a few days." "Established a beach-head at New York today. Objective, home, soon. "Hi darling. Hide the milkman. I'll be home P.D.Q. Love." "Sunday, Monday, or well Tuesday! Great day in the morning. I love you." Other messages read: "Feed the fryers and straighten out the fishing tackle." "Landing accomplished. Get big buckets of red paint." "O boy, O boy—and stuff." "Coming in on a wing and a bottle."

Hospitalized veterans who are unable to walk file their telegrams with the help of Red Cross Grey Ladies, or at specially constructed telegraph desks built so a wheel chair will go under the desk top.

Meat Priority For Army Ends Sunday

Washington, Aug. 31—(U.P.)—The American public was told today that its biggest wartime competitor for the meat supply, the government, will step out of the priority market Sept. 2.

As a consequence food officials predict that civilians will get 25 per cent more meat in the last three months of 1945, still leaving 700,000,000 pounds for export. The bureau of labor statistics, meanwhile, reported that meat counters were better stocked in mid-August than at any time since last March.
