Sailor Loses Bag — A sailor passing through Medford Friday reported to Riverside USO officials the loss of a bag containing personal identification papers and clothes. Stating that he had hitch-hiked a ride with a Medford sergeant returning home on furlough, the sailor said he rode from Portland to Eugene Thursday night, and the Medford man stopped there overnight while the sailor came on south. In removing his bag from the Packard car which the sergeant drove, the sailor took the wrong bag. The navy man went on to Yreka Friday evening, asking that anyone knowing anything about the bag either forward it to him at the address on the papers, or contact the local USO.

Japan, Germany, and Italy, all maritime powers before the war, once boasted of a combined merchant marine of over 20 million deadweight tons, according to Ships magazine. Most of this is now at the bottom of the sea.
