

ACTRESS WEDS
Hollywood, Sept. 7—(U.P.)—Blond Actress Kay Williams, who last year was reported engaged to Clark Gable, today was honeymooning with Sugar Heir

Adolph Speckels Jr., of San Francisco. The wedding took place late yesterday in Arizona. The marriage is the fourth for Speckels and the second for Miss Williams.

FEDERAL HOUSING APPLICATIONS TO GO TO PORTLAND

Applications for priorities to secure materials for construction of privately financed family dwelling units in the Medford district under the National Housing Administration are to be filed with Folger Johnson, state director of the Federal Housing Administration, 515 Platt building, Portland 5, according to a release from Portland. Earlier this week it was announced that approval had been given for construction of 50 of the family units in the Medford area to relieve the housing shortage here.

It was announced that the units will be constructed under the H-2 housing program which permits building of larger and better quality houses for sale at any price up to $7,000 and rent up to $55 per month. Anyone may occupy the houses when they are completed. Medford "locality" has been defined as Medford, Ashland and Central Point, the release states.

According to Mark Goldy of the Jackson County Housing authority, Medford members of the authority and of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce had been working for the past three months to have the project approved for Medford.

Mr. and Mrs. Merlyn Hornbuckle and daughters moved from Herman Bros. camp to one of Mrs. Mary Grievie's cottages at Prospect.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Horn, of Keno, visited briefly with friends here while en route to Diamond Lake.

Mrs. A. Garroute of Cottage Grove, who has been visiting at Klamath Falls, returned here Sept. 1, and is spending a few days with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. Ceford Garroute.

Mrs. Elizabeth Flannery, local high school instructor who spent the summer at Racine, Wis., returned here Aug. 30, and is living in one of the Pearson cottages.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd K. Kelley spent the Labor day week-end as guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Frances Kelley, in Roseburg. They also visited an aunt, Mrs. Maude Gallop at Myrtle Creek.

Among local people attending the rodeo at Klamath Falls Sept. 2, were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clemens and daughter, Dorothy, Miss Calleen Moore, Miss Dorothy Fairchild, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. B. Broomfield and son, Robert.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Neece, Miss Donna Shadley, and Mr. and Mrs. Dana F. Cushing spent Sept. 2 visiting at Gilchrist. On Sept. 3 Mr. and Mrs. Cushing were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall of Medford, at their cottage at Diamond Lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kelley and children of Grass Valley visited over Labor Day with Mrs. Kelley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Fairchild, Sr., and other relatives here.

Word was received here this week from two local soldiers, Robert Conger and Stanford Pearson, that they have been transferred from Okinawa back to the Philippines.

Mr. and Mrs. McKillop returned to their home at Redding, Calif., Sept. 3, after spending several days visiting their son, Archie McKillop, who is a patient at the Community hospital at Medford. The latter is improving, and expects to be home the last of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Toner and little son, of Rogue River, moved in the Pearson cottage that was formerly occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Maurice E. Scheel, the first of this week. Mr. Toner is the new school superintendent here.

Miss Bonita Lockhart returned to her home here Sept. 2 from Redding, Calif., where she visited her sister, Miss Joan Lockhart, and Mrs. Rudy Hariza.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Moore and daughter, Miss Calleen, and Miss Rummel, motored to Selma Aug. 30 and visited with Mr. and Mrs. Al Beddingfield.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Sutcliffe, Sr., who have been living in one of the Pearson cottages during the summer months, moved to one of the houses in the Mattson camp, the former Goetz camp, Sept. 4.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ross over the week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest DeVoe of Medford.

Miss Dorothy Clemens of Portland visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer M. Clemens, over the Labor day week-end.

Eighty-six years ago today a woman, no longer young, felt she had at long last fulfilled her destiny. For unto her a son had been born. Her complacency in this would have been a little dimmed had she known this "destiny" was to have three encores, for she was nearing forty. Too, she had married a widower who already had 10 children. And while to father 14 children may gratify a man's biologic ego, it is a gratification the average wife would gladly deny her lord.

I do not know why my curly-haired, vivacious granddaughter remained single until in her late thirties, but she did. I am glad she waited no longer; otherwise we might have been denied our father.

Now there are those who say to live without sinning is impossible. But having known our father, we, his children, know better. Yet it is not his present perfection which I love best to think about. Rather is it the years of his imperfection; the years when he fought so valiantly for control of a temper ever ready to leap out of control at the slightest provocation. Because we, his children, witnessed that struggle, and his final victory, we know his growth in grace came the hard way.

Mother, on the other hand, had always a cool control. I never knew her to raise her voice in anger. This control was native to her, rather than a matter of development. This was a fine thing but like all good gifts, it had its price. Which has been a lack of understanding of those with hotter blood. And a certain complacency with her own spiritual state. Looking on God's handiwork, herself, and finding it good, she has known a puzzled grief that her children were not of the same faultless mold.

Perhaps it is this knowledge of our errors which has given us appreciation for the struggle our father put up to conquer his. And so today, as our father starts on his 87th year, our memory of his imperfections is a bright backdrop for his present perfection. Maybe if we, his children, try hard enough, pray with his humility and sincerity, maybe when we are 86—but I doubt it.

Helicopters Soon In Mass Production

Los Angeles, Sept. 7—(U.P.)—Gilbert Magill, president of Rotorcraft Corp., said today that mass production of helicopters would soon be launched by his company, largest builders in the southwest.

A two-place plane is being built at the present under military contract, he said.

Blueprints are being completed for four, 12 and 24-passenger helicopters, Magill said.
