

Washington Game Behind Tigers In Big Comeback

New York, Sept. 10.—(U.P.)—Whether they win the American league pennant or not, Washington's never-quit Senators deserve recognition today as the comeback team in red hot contention again, just a game behind the leading Tigers, with six straight victories including yesterday's double win over the Chicago White Sox, 4 to 2 and 5 to 4.

The Tigers are hot, too, finishing their gruelling series with the Yankees with five victories in seven games. They won 6 to 3 at Boston and tied 3-all in a game halted in the eleventh by darkness. It was rescheduled for a double header today.

Only Six Singles

The Senators made only six singles in the first game yesterday, but put them to efficient use, coupling two with two walks for the marginal runs in the fourth inning. Mike Kreevich won the second game with a ninth inning single which scored George Myatt. Mickey Haefner's Santiago Ulrich relieved Al Carasquel to give the second game. Paul Richards gave Detroit the battle impetus it needed to win the first game, batting in five runs with three doubles, his third one coming in the ninth to break a 3-all tie. Paul (Dizzy) Trout won his second game in as many days, relieving in the seventh.

Fowler Hurls No-No

Dick Fowler, making his first 1945 start after being released from the Canadian army, pitched a no-hit, no-run game over the Browns to give the A's a double win, 6 to 2 and 1 to 0. Fowler, who had made only occasional relief appearances, gave up his four bases on balls to save his bid for a perfect game. Twice base runners were removed by double plays and he faced only 24 batters officially. He struck out six and only five balls were hit to the outfield. The A's scored on George Miller in the ninth on two singles.

Two of the class pitchers of the pre-war years, Bobby Feller and Spurgeon Chandler met at New York and the Cleveland fast baller had the better of it, holding the Yankees to five hits in a 10 to 3 victory. The Indians also won the second game, 4 to 3, in seven innings.

Cubs Whip Braves

The Cubs beat the Braves twice at Chicago, 9 to 1 and 4 to 0, to stay three and a half games ahead of the Cards. Charley Prim, backed by a five-run first inning, won the first game easily after which Claude Passeau blanked the Braves on three hits for his 16th victory.

The Cardinals topped the Giants twice at St. Louis, 5 to 4 and 3 to 2. Charley Barrett winning his 21st game in the nightcap. Al Jurisich won the first game in relief after Ken Burkhardt was bumped for three runs in the seventh.

The Reds, with Catcher Al Lakeman delivering the winning hit in each game, beat the Dodgers twice at Cincinnati, 6 to 5 and 6 to 4. He doubled to send in the winning run in the opener and hit a homer to break a 4-all deadlock in the second contest.

The Phillies with 24 hits to win the second game of a double header, 14 to 3, after the Pirates took the first, 4 to 3. Jimmy Foxx got four hits for the Phillies including a homer.

Here's to everybody's neighbor!

Fifteen times around this pot-bellied planet!

When four veteran mail carriers retired recently in Spokane someone figured out that they had walked, in aggregate, more than 375,000 miles—half again the distance to the moon.

But they didn't do their walking at the equator—or through interplanetary space. They walked all that distance among friends! Theirs was merely a majestic neighborhood stroll.

So it is with all their mates throughout the West. The postman is more than a glad sight—he's the neighbor of the whole community.

In one morning he may spot a case of mumps and tell some young mother to call the doctor... make emergency repairs to a tricycle... locate the missing spectacles of a grandfather... do a dozen neighborly acts.

Certainly none can claim to outneighbor him—unless it's his cousin in the Rural Free Delivery. If the rural postman ends his day by matching a spoon of his bread, getting a prescription refilled, or delivering a jar of piccalilli—why, that's normal.

Besides all this, the mailmen—now sometimes women—do their job so dependably it's an adage that they can't be stopped by anything in the whole bag of tricks known to Jupiter Pluvius, the rain expert; Thor, the lightning expert; or Kabilonokka, who is the blizzard-bringing North Wind.

So we offer a toast—in printer's ink. Here's to the mailmen—every one of them!

BEAVERS SPLIT; SUDS TAKE TWO

Shortstop Joe Dobbins' six consecutive hits paced the Seattle Rainiers to an impressive double victory over the Hollywood Stars Sunday by scores of 11-1 and 2-0. The twin triumphs added a half game to the Rainiers' hopes of catching first place Portland. They now are six and a half games behind.

Portland rallied in the nightcap to take the San Francisco Seals into camp and gain an even break for their afternoon's work. The Seals won their third extra-inning contest from the Beavers in the first tilt, 2-1, but Portland flashed back in the finale to win 8-6.

Sacramento regained third place from San Francisco by a half game with a double victory over Oakland, 5-2 and 4-3. Los Angeles overcame a stubborn San Diego aggregation to come out on top twice by scores of 2-1 and 7-2.

Sammy Sneed Shoots Consistent Golf To Win Dallas Open; By Nelson Third

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 10.—(U.P.)—Consistency paid off today for Sammy Sneed, the Hot Springs, Va., golfing veteran, who put together four similar sub-par rounds to win the Dallas open with a total of 274.

Sneed, finishing with a four under par 68 yesterday, shot his best round of the meet to finish four strokes ahead of Harold (Jug) McSpaden, the Sanford, Me., entry who had a 280 total.

The first prize money of $2,000 brought his earnings for the year to almost $17,000.

Third place went to Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., who tried hard to catch up with a final round of 68 but ended with an aggregate of 281. That extended his winnings for the year to more than $53,600.

The early pace setter, Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., collapsed with a six over par 42 on the front nine and couldn't make up the damage on the back round, taking a two over par 72 for the day and a 285 total for the meet.

Sneed had five birdies and a single bogey in his best round over the 6,387 yard Dallas Country club course with a gallery of approximately 4,000 persons traipsing behind him. He was on the green in two and two-putted for a birdie on the long 335-yard fourth hole. He also had birdies three on the 412 yard seventh hole, considered the toughest on the course, the 336-yard dogleg ninth, the 469-yard 10th and the 475-yard 12th.

Pioneers Born Here In Days of Death Is Taken by Death

Judge J. O. Stearns, 90, the oldest practicing attorney in the state, passed away at his home in Portland last night.

Father of seven sons and three daughters, he was born Oct. 15, 1855, on a donation land claim where the city of Medford now stands and lived there in a log cabin where the family was in constant danger of Indian attacks. On numerous occasions his mother hid the children under a pile of brush until the Indians had left. His father was a north-west Baptist circuit rider.

In 1907, after various ventures in real estate, insurance, mining and the machinist's trade, he decided to devote his full time to law, which he continued almost until the time of his death.

Judge Stearns was active in republican party affairs, in which he was deeply interested most of his life and was an ardent champion of the proposal to establish a world court.
