Pre-Harvest Fruit Drop Inhibitor

Keeps Pears and Apples on the Trees for Maximum Size, Color and Quality

Give your pears and apples those extra "days of grace"—and quality ripening—that come just before harvest. Du Pont "Parmone" liquid concentrate reduces pre-harvest drop from one to three weeks.

"Parmone" delays the weakening of the joint between the fruit stem and spur—lets the fruit hang on for full normal ripening. However, "Parmone" does not prevent the normal ripening of fruit, and the fruit must be picked at the proper stage of maturity. This applies particularly to Bartlett pears and certain apples.

For best results application should be delayed until the beginning of fruit drop—but not too long. "Timing" is important. For advice on "Parmone" liquid concentrate, see your Du Pont dealer and local fruit authorities.
