Digitized Margaret O'Brien, 8-year-old movie star, seems downcast as Los Angeles, Calif., court declined to approve recording contract until the judge could have time to approve financial resources of the company. If contract is approved, Margaret will receive 5 per cent royalty on every record, $1000 advance per record and guarantee of $10,000 before Dec. 31.

Diamond Lake Film Colony Is Found Bundled for Cold

By William Moyes
(In The Oregonian)

It makes a pretty picture there at Diamond lake where the Universals are shooting Ernie Haycox's "Canyon Passage"—movie actors and actresses lolling in lush comfort in warm Oregon sunshine. Male flicker folk in loud Hollywood tweeds with collars open down to the breastbone. Females in light sheer dresses made out of silk mosquito netting, or wearing next to nothing, mincing around to find shade so as not to get sunburned.

But it just isn't true. KGW's chief announcer, Frank Coffin, just back from the scene has got the real lowdown. Also he has got what he went for—a batch of prime movie autographs on those pledge cards KGW is sponsoring to provide professional entertainment for hospitalized veterans in peacetime.

Cheery Chemist
Frank himself had that phony picture in mind when he left Portland the other day with a bunch of blank cards, a fountain pen and a thin business suit. But he began to have misgivings when he lowered his bulk from the train at Chemult at 6 in the morning. A freezing blast hit his torso and he ran for the two-room oil lamp lighted station and huddled for two hours shivering until the film company sent a car down from the lake, Saint Bernard fashion, to rescue him. It was 8 a. m., the thermometer stood just at freezing.

At the resort which Universal has taken over lock stock and barrel, Frank found nothing that looked like the corner of Hollywood and Vine. No summer tweeds, no filmy dresses. Just a bunch of guys and gals swaddled in mackinaws and high boots. He looked at them and said he had hit a loggers' convention. One of them, Susan

Hayward, looked at him in his business suit and yelled, "Hey, pipe the foreigner!"

How They Sleep
Not everybody was up yet and Frank found that while the high-priced boys and babes were staying at the lodge, the hot poliois who do all the work were sleeping on porches, in bags here and there, under trees and in tents. Or, rather they were staying awake shivering. It had snowed a few nights before, and the climate was hard on warm Hollywood tempers.

Nobody was mad at Frank, however, for they signed his KGW "Remember Our Men" cards. Miss Hayward signed. Also Andy Devine, Dana Andrews, Ward Bond, Lloyd Bridges and Dorothy Peterson.

All Over the Place
The Universal crowd occupies not only the lodge, it's all over the place. Frank had to drive 47 miles to find one guy he wanted to sign. Brian Donlevy he missed. The great Donlevy was off by himself somewhere trying to get warm in front of a fire, and after chasing around in the cold, Frank finally said the hell with Donlevy, let him mail his card when he thaws out his fingers.

Going back to Chemult Frank rode in a bus full of Indian boys who are working in the picture as extras. The Universals didn't bring any extras along, and about everybody in and around Chemult will appear in the film. Back in Chemult Frank found the only sleeping space available was a trailer somebody was renting for $5 per night per person. So he went over to the depot and huddled under the oil lamps until 2 a. m. when, teeth chattering, he hauled his 275 pounds onto the train headed for Portland.

LECTURE COURSE FOR GRAY LADIES

Arrangements have been made with officials of the naval hospital at Camp White and Miss Dorothy Fruit, Red Cross hospital worker, for a Gray Ladies' lecture course to start Wednesday, Oct. 3. It was announced today. Final interviews for applicants will be held at the hospital Red Cross headquarters Monday and Tuesday from 1 to 4 p. m. and physical examinations will be given the same afternoon by the medical staff, it is stated.

Successful applicants will attend the 10 required lectures, to be given by the medical staff at the hospital, and in addition to the new class, all members of the present Gray Lady corps are also required to attend. An enlarged corps is needed because of the arrival of navy patients at the hospital, and any woman between the ages of 21 and 55 interested is asked to call at the Red Cross office in the courthouse between 10 a. m. and 12 noon.

A New Motor Oil That Resists Oxidation

Like oxidized cloth—
Oxidized Oil is no good

You've seen the faded tatters worn by a scarecrow. Oxidation has had its destructive way with the cloth... making a drab "nothing" of colors that were once worn with pride. Oxidation has a destructive way with your motor oil, too... unless you've protected yourself by using new Golden Shell with oxidation inhibitor.

JUST IN TIME to serve the new cars of peacetime production, as well as those highway veterans which must survive a few more thousand miles, comes this good news: Wartime research found how to make motor oil resist oxidation.

Oxidation is the chemical change which destroys nearly everything under certain conditions of air, heat and moisture. It causes iron to rust, rubber to become brittle, butter to go rancid. In your motor oil it's the cause of sludge. And sludgy oil is no good. It's not only a poor lubricant, but it gums up vital engine parts so even good oil can't get in where it's needed.
