

RAW MILK PERILS COUNTY'S HEALTH SAYS SANITARIAN

Jackson Co. Health Assn.
Told Smaller Towns Have Little Milk Supervision.

If something could be done in Jackson county to decrease the amount of raw milk sold to the public there would be less likelihood of people being ill. That's the message brought to the Jackson County Public Health Association by Victor Morgan, new county sanitarian.

Mr. Morgan addressed the association at the first meeting this fall at the Girls Community club. He was introduced to the association by the president, Mrs. Elwood Hedberg, who explained that he had been invited to address the association in response to many requests for more information regarding the milk supply and restaurant conditions in this area.

Mostly Pasteurized
Nearly all certified milk today is pasteurized milk, Mr. Morgan explained, adding that the city of Eugene recently passed a compulsory pasteurization law and that the tendency in many sections is in that direction. Raw milk, he told the health workers, is a potential hazard, statistics prove, and the most careful operator cannot always protect his clients.

Eighty-two per cent of all milk borne epidemics come from towns of less than 10,000 population. This is because small towns often have no or little milk supervision, the speaker explained.

He complimented Medford upon its milk ordinance, which is of the national standard. Two thirds of the pasteurized milk now distributed in Medford, he said, wears the cover cap, which compares with the army standard.

Survey Made
A survey of the Medford milk shed was made in April and everything was found to be quite satisfactory from the physical standpoint, on the dairy farms. Of the five pasteurizing plants operating here, however, he said, three are not of the standard desired. Six dairies bottle raw milk as producers. Not all six, he lamented, have good records in respect to Bang's disease.

Recently, he told his eager listeners, the county court saw fit to rearrange the bovine testing in this county so that now all work is supervised by the Federal Bureau of Animal Industry which will be much more satisfactory.

Much Milk Used
Mr. Morgan complimented this area upon the high consumption of milk. The per capita consumption in Medford, he listed as 1.3 pints which is well above the national average of ¾ pint.

Dairies and restaurants, which do not comply with the standards he stated, have shown ready willingness to do so. The war, however, has made it difficult for milk producers to do so immediately because of the shortage of equipment and labor.

All restaurants are now being checked and many unsatisfactory conditions have been found. The operators, however, are eager to make the improvements requested and many are already complying.

Preceding Mr. Morgan's address the association enjoyed luncheon with members present from many sections of the county. Another open meeting will be held the third Thursday in November, Mrs. Hedberg announced.

Riversides are now actually stronger than our pre-war tires! Here's why:—stronger cords to begin with, are chemically-strengthened to stay strong... then liquid-dipped—"welded" together... next, cushioned in rubber! Finally, the plies are cemented before vulcanizing, to provide greater protection against bruises and blowouts!
