272-Foot Sign Has Mile of Neon Tubes With Huge Letters

Chicago (U.P.)—Clinging to the back of the world's tallest signboard, located in Chicago's Loop is a 12 by 20-foot control room, where an operating crew works 135 feet above the ground.

The men who take care of the giant sign find nothing remarkable in the open elevator which carries them to work, or in the control room.

They take for granted the 272-foot sign, as high as a 24-story building. The sign itself weighs only 70 tons, but it supports the 300-ton mass of steel support holding it aloft.

In the control room are the levers and buttons which operate the electric sign. The men handle a current that passes through 43.7 miles of sign wiring, enough energy to light thirty six-room houses.

From the wiring, the current passes through 6,144 incandescent lamps and into a solid mile of neon light tubing. It operates a huge clock that occupies 2,500 square feet of the sign's surface. The message panel of the sign is operated by a motograph.

Letters flashed 13 feet high in electric lights are first cut into a paper tape eight inches wide as it passes through a perforating machine controlled by a keyboard.

Around a revolving drum where the perforations light letters on the 154-foot long message board.

DUTCH SHIPS CARRY ARMS, IS DISCOVERY
San Francisco, Sept. 28 (U.P.)—Four of six Dutch ships being loaded at Australian ports for Java and which were placed under a ban by Australian war workers after the Indonesian crews refused to sail have been found to contain arms and ammunition as well as army stores, Melbourne radio said today.

The Melbourne crews refused to man the Dutch ships after alleging that the vessels carried arms to help suppress the Indonesian republic movement in Java.

Chief Mentour, a tributary of the Gulf of Mexico near New Orleans, is French for "Chief Liar." Reason for the naming probably was because water flowed in two directions at the same time in the inlet.

MEAT AND SHOES OFF RATIONING BY JAN. 1 IS PLEDGE

Washington, Sept. 28 (U.P.)—The public received its first flat guarantee today that all meat and shoe rationing will be over by the end of the year.

The promise was made by Price Chief Chester Bowles in a letter to members of OPA's industry advisory committee asking their advice on when price controls should be eliminated.

Nothing that gasoline, fuel oil, processed foods, oil stoves, tractor tires and cheese had already been removed from rationing, Bowles said.

"Shoes and meat will come off the list by the end of 1945—perhaps sooner. Tires and fats and oils will probably come off early in 1946. That will leave only sugar from a three-year rationing program affecting the lives of every American citizen."

He did not indicate when sugar could be taken off rationing.
