Woman Nearly Gets Apricots Picked By Busy Fire Fighters

St. Louis (AP)—Mrs. Ralph Crowder of St. Louis almost solved the problem of getting in the fruit crop.

A large and productive tree in her backyard was laden with apricots. Unable to cope with the harvest herself, she called the fire department.

"There's an apricot tree in my backyard," she told the fireman who answered the telephone. But the connection was cut off and a few moments later Mrs. Crowder was startled by the arrival of a ladder truck, which roared to a stop in front of her home.

Where is that tree?" one of the firemen asked breathlessly.
When he was told that Mrs.
Crowder was offering to let the firemen pick fruit, he shook his head.

"We have no time to pick apricots," he explained. "There might be a fire somewhere" he pointed out "and it wouldn't look well for the fire department to up in a tree picking fruit."
