

Cubs Win 8 To 7 In Sixth Game To Tie Up World Series

HANK GREENBERG IS HERO AND HEEL OF 13-INNING TILT

Detroit Fielder Hits Homer and Then Lets Secory Score on Hack's Single

Wrigley Field, Chicago, Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—The Chicago Cubs, taking advantage of an error by Hank Greenberg, evened the world series at three games apiece when they defeated the Detroit Tigers, 8 to 7 in 12 innings.

The tally which sent the richest series of all time into a seventh game—to be played here Wednesday—was scored by little Billy Schuster, a pinch runner when Greenberg let Stan Hack's single go through him. Earlier, Greenberg was the Detroit hero because he hit a home run which sent the game into extra innings.

Secory Scoots Home
Schuster, running for pinch hitter Frank Secory, who had singled, already had stopped at second. But when Big Hank failed to come up with the ball, Little Billy tore for home as a dejected Dizzy Trout stomped off the pitcher's mound to the Detroit dugout.

There wasn't even a play at the plate and Hack, too, could have scored on the error had another run been necessary.

It was a wild ball game with first one team and then the other playing like bush leaguers, letting in runs and playing like a bunch of sandlotters.

Tigers Tie Score
For a time it seemed that the Cubs, behind the veteran Claude Passeau, were going to have an easy time of it, for they knocked the Detroit starter, Virgil Trucks, out of the box in a fifth inning rally that netted four runs and gave them a 4 to 1 lead. They increased it to 6 to 1 and then 7 to 3 before Passeau, suffering from an injured finger, ran out of gas and the Tigers came from behind to tie with four runs in the eighth.

By that time there had been a steady parade of pitchers to the mound and finally it was Hank Borowy who won the decision over Trout.

Socialite Questioned by District Atty.

Mrs. Irene Mansfeldt, self-confessed killer of San Francisco nurse, is questioned at length in the presence of her attorney, Vincent Hallinan, by Pat Brown (left), district attorney of San Francisco City and County. A statewide hunt is under way for her missing husband, Dr. John H. Mansfeldt.

Doctor Takes Own Life Rather Than Face Shame of Wife's Jealous Act

San Francisco, Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—The bodies of Dr. John H. Mansfeldt, 47, and Mrs. Vada Martin, the young nurse whom his wife killed in trying to force an admission of stolen love, awaited burial today. He committed suicide, rather than face the shame of his wife's act.

Mrs. Annie Irene Mansfeldt, 45, paced the floor of her room in the psychopathic ward of the San Francisco hospital, where she was taken from the city jail. Her red hair was disheveled and her eyes were rimmed from weeping.

"I killed him," she cried. "I killed my husband."

Mrs. Mansfeldt was charged with murder for the fatal shooting last Thursday of the 36-year-old nurse who denied with her dying breath that she had a love affair with Dr. Mansfeldt.

Mansfeldt's body was found early Sunday in the front seat of his automobile beside a lonely cliff at Pedro Point in San Mateo county. He had not been seen since he dashed from a hospital Thursday after his wife told him what she had done.

Police had searched for Mansfeldt since Friday night when his wife said she feared he would take his life.

The San Mateo county coroner's office said Mansfeldt had apparently taken a poison which lulled him to sleep and allowed him to die painlessly.

Work of painting the halls and some of the offices of the courthouse has started and when completed lighting conditions will be better. A white paint is being applied to the walls of the halls in place of the mild brown coloring. Last spring the ceilings of the courthouse, from top to bottom, were covered with anti-sound blocks.

GEN. YAMASHITA DENIES GUILT IN RAPE OF MANILA

Trial Adjourned to Oct. 29 After Brief Arraignment of Accused Jap Commander

Manila, Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, last Japanese commander in the Philippines, pleaded innocent before an American military tribunal today to charges of responsibility for the rape of Manila and other brutal atrocities.

The trial was adjourned until Oct. 29 at 8 a. m., after Yamashita's brief arraignment.

Despite vigorous protests by the prosecution, the five-general court granted Yamashita's plea to have two former members of his staff, Lt. Gen. Akira Muto and a Major General Utsunomiya, aid in his defense.

Yamashita's counsel said both Japanese generals had information and records unavailable to Yamashita but vitally needed in his defense.

The Yamashita who docilely uttered his plea in the military court was a far cry from the general who boasted last October that he would dictate Philippine peace terms to Gen. Douglas MacArthur and who won the nickname "Tiger of Malaya" for his conquest of Singapore.

He wore a sort of hanging expression as he was led into the court room in the former ballroom of the American high commissioner's palace. He scurried and bowed as photographers ordered him around for different poses.

With him was his personal interpreter, Masakatsu Hammomoto, who was graduated from Harvard in 1927.

Community Chest headquarters workers today wished that all their collections came in with as little effort as that of H. R. Firstbrook, Medford contractor and builder, and his crew.

Bright and early Monday morning Mr. Firstbrook called at the Chest office in the Chamber building with a check which covered the donation of himself and all 15 members of his crew, explaining that "the boys" instructed him to bring it in early and adding that they were all proud of their 100 per cent contribution so early in the drive.

Up-state political observers are commenting on the possibility that Capt. William M. McAllister of Medford, who expects to be released from the army about Jan. 1, will be a candidate for the nomination as secretary of state in the primaries next spring. According to the political dippers if Gov. Earl Snell should decide not to seek reelection, and if Secretary Robert Farrell should then seek the governorship, McAllister would run for the office Farrell now holds.

YANKEES LOCATE LOOT GATHERED IN NIP CONQUESTS

Armed Guards Posted Over Navy Ministry — Baron Shidehara Forms Cabinet

Tokyo, Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—Armed guards of the First Cavalry division tonight surrounded the Japanese navy ministry after United States officials said evidence had been discovered leading to the belief that hoards of loot from Japan's lost empire might be stored in official government buildings.

A terse announcement said merely U. S. officials had learned that "precious metal," presumably stolen in Japan's years of military conquest, was in the navy ministry building.

It was reliably reported that more troops may be placed shortly at other Japanese buildings to guard similar hoards.

While the amount of treasure involved was not immediately disclosed, it was assumed Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command had discovered evidence of the storage places in records of Japanese financial institutions ordered seized more than a week ago.

Meanwhile, premier designate Baron Kijuro Shidehara completed his "stop gap" cabinet of liberals whose average age is 61. Members will take office tomorrow and will serve until next year's elections.

Selection of the cabinet met with mixed reaction from the Japanese. Many political observers took the point of view of the newspaper Asahi which pointed out that the 73-year-old Shidehara and his appointees "belong to the category of old-timers."

However, it was stressed in other quarters that the cabinet lineup was considerably more liberal than the outgoing cabinet of Prince Higashi-Kuni and was the "best possible" when restrictions against including government leaders of the past 10 years were considered.

Today's first witness was Gen. Paul Doyen, former head of the French armistice delegation and now military governor of Lyon. Doyen, testifying in a harsh, parade-ground voice, said that the Germans demanded the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine and made other territorial demands through the armistice commission on which he served.

"Germany's intention was to dismember France," he said. "To all Frenchmen who could use their hands, the line of duty was clear—to continue the struggle. Any man who supported a policy of collaboration was a traitor. That was the kind of a man Laval was."

Neahlem, Ore., Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—Easterly winds whipped up a smoldering blaze in the Neahkahnie mountain state forest today, carrying the blaze over several hundred acres to threaten highway U. S. 101.

Raging in one of Oregon's scenic spots, the flames were speedily stripping the area of all previous scenic beauty. Fire crews were standing by with residents of the beach communities of Neahkahnie and Marzanna to protect property from flying embers.

Forestry officials were attempting to keep the highway open for traffic, while at the same time trying to fence the blaze in.

Pierre Laval, former premier of collaborationist Vichy Government, declares "I am a patriot and I will prove it!" in opening session of treason trial accusing him of intelligence with the enemy and acts endangering safety of the state. Laval faces same high court of justice which condemned Marshal Petain to death, with sentence commuted by Gen. De Gaulle.

Laval Trial Resumes Sans Defendant, Lawyer, Witnesses

Paris, Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—The treason trial of Pierre Laval was resumed today without the defendant, defense counsel or defense witnesses.

Laval's trial, the most fantastic in French history, reopened an hour and a-half behind schedule after Judge Pierre Mongibeaux and Minister of Justice Henri Teigen tried in vain to induce the former Vichy premier to change his mind and come to court.

With Laval defiantly absent and only a few prosecution witnesses on hand, it appeared that the trial would end by mid-week.

Mongibeaux ordered the trial to proceed despite a storm of protest against the court procedure which had seen judge and jury taunting Laval and making it clear that they were bent on condemning him.

Today's first witness was Gen. Paul Doyen, former head of the French armistice delegation and now military governor of Lyon. Doyen, testifying in a harsh, parade-ground voice, said that the Germans demanded the annexation of Alsace-Lorraine and made other territorial demands through the armistice commission on which he served.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—Striking bus drivers of the Overland and Pacific Greyhound lines marked time today as union spokesmen predicted an effort would be made to get together early this week to work out a settlement in the dispute which has paralyzed bus travel throughout the west.

Harold Oathes, business agent of the drivers' union, said representatives of the company and the men have been talking with the United States conciliation service in California, and he believed it possible a similar move would be made here, although no definite steps have been taken.

W. H. Kuse, northwest regional manager for Overland Greyhound, said there were no new developments in the strike situation which is involving some 200 drivers.

FLYING WEDGE AT PICTURE STUDIO CRACKS PICKETS

Fifty Injured When Replacement Workers Storm Thru Lines; Sawmill Riot Scene

Hollywood, Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—Fifty film workers were injured today as chain, blackjack and fist-swinging Iatse replacement workers stormed through picket lines to go to work at Warner Brothers studios.

Forty deputy sheriffs and 160 police from Burbank, Glendale, San Fernando and Pasadena, wearing gas masks and tin helmets and carrying clubs and guns, broke up the battle after it lasted only five minutes.

Eight of the injured were taken by ambulance to Burbank receiving hospital, but the rest required only emergency treatment at first aid stations set up inside the studio gates.

The Iatse replacements marched six abreast through the center of the picket lines, despite attempts by strikers to keep their lines intact.

Injured, but not hospitalized was strike leader Herb Sorrell, president of the Conference of Studio Unions, who suffered a deep cut over his right eye.

Pickets assembled in front of the studios very early today after being tipped that the Iatse might try to get through the gates early.

About 900 formed a solid line in front of the gate, with an "advance" guard of some of the more husky waiting nearby.

Iatse workers assembled in a parking lot across the street and as the studio hoisted the American flag, stormed the picket lines, with about 400 getting through.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—First violence in the strike of 61,000 western AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers union occurred here today when CIO workmen tangled with AFL pickets at the Multnomah Box and Lumber company sawmill. No injuries were reported, but a banner was torn from one AFL picket.

At another sawmill, that of the Western Oregon Lumber Co., at Portland, AFL pickets left peacefully after CIO workers broke through the line, then returned outside and threatened the pickets.

"We are not going to work behind any picket line," the CIO men told their labor rivals.

The AFL pickets explained that they were not posted there to inspire any violence and withdrew.

"We are showing the operators that we were not fooling when we said we were going to close down the industry so long as it refuses to negotiate with us for wage increases," he said after Monday's disturbances.

"Our battle is not with the rank and file of the CIO but every plant has to go down to make this strike effective."

The AFL reported that picketing had closed three Portland plants where CIO workers are employed. They were the Hudson Motor Car Co., the Eastern-Western Lumber Co., and the Coast Basket and Veneer Co.

HERBERT MARSHALLS REPORTED SEPARATING
Hollywood, Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—Pretty Mrs. Herbert Marshall today had no comment on a report that she was separating from the suaxe film actor.

Mrs. Marshall was "not at home" to inquiries concerning the separation. The British actor has been appearing alone at recent social functions.

HESS RETURNS TO FACE TRIAL WITH CRIMINALS OF WAR

London, Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—Rudolf Hess, former deputy fuhrer of the Nazi party who flew to Britain on a fantastic mission in 1941, left by plane for Germany today to stand trial as a war criminal.

Hess, unkempt and thin, left Madeley air field near Abergavenny, Wales, for Frankfurt at 8:50 a. m. He was escorted by an army guard.

His departure was one of a swift series of events clearing the way for the mass trials of axis war criminals at Nuernberg. Allied officials were conferring at Berlin on plans for the trials, and the first formal indictments were expected to be returned Tuesday or Wednesday.

Sir Hartley Shawcross, chief British prosecutor of war criminals, said at a press conference yesterday that Hess would be indicted in Germany within a few days. Other ranking Nazis named in the first indictment also will be served with notice of their indictment and given opportunity and facilities to choose counsel, Shawcross said.

Francis Biddle, United States member of the war crimes commission and Judge John Parker, his alternate, arrived at Southampton yesterday aboard the Queen Mary. They flew immediately to Berlin, where the tribunal meets tomorrow.

A. P. Case Review Refused by Court

Washington, Oct. 8.—(U.P.)—The supreme court today refused to reconsider its decision of June 18 holding membership by-laws of the Associated Press in violation of the federal antitrust laws.

Unless some new step is taken, the court's refusal means that the AP soon must revise its by-laws as ordered by a lower court and approved by the supreme court.

McAllister Seen Possible State Secretary Candidate

Up-state political observers are commenting on the possibility that Capt. William M. McAllister of Medford, who expects to be released from the army about Jan. 1, will be a candidate for the nomination as secretary of state in the primaries next spring.

According to the political dippers if Gov. Earl Snell should decide not to seek reelection, and if Secretary Robert Farrell should then seek the governorship, McAllister would run for the office Farrell now holds.

McAllister who enlisted in the army soon after the closing of the last session of the legislature, during which he served as speaker of the house, has been overseas since last September with a military government unit. McAllister served as a representative from Jackson county from 1937 to 1943. In 1941 he opposed Farrell for the speakership, losing after a hot campaign, but won the race at the opening of the 1943 session.
