SCHOOL CHILDREN WELL TRAINED IN DRILLS FOR FIRE

Medford school children are well trained in fire drill and any school in the city can be cleared of pupils, teachers and other personnel in approximately one minute according to Fire Chief Roy Elliott, who this week inspected all the schools and held drills in observance of fire prevention week. He was assisted by Earl Harrison, fireman.

Elliott stated that he found no major hazards at any of the seven schools inspected. He stressed the fact that during the fire drills, held once a month as stipulated by state law, every person leaves the building, including cooks, janitors and other staff members. Handicapped children are assisted in leaving the buildings, he said.

The fire chief timed the drill at each school and reports that St. Mary's academy, with 234 pupils, was cleared in 35 seconds, quickest of any school. Last year the school was slower, taking 74 seconds to evacuate the building.

Jackson Next
Jackson grade school, with 436 pupils, was next quickest with 44 seconds, this also showing much improvement over last year's time of 78 seconds. Lincoln school, with 271 pupils, evacuated the building in 46 seconds, as compared to 47 seconds last year while Washington school, with 484 pupils, was cleared in 56 seconds as compared to 64 seconds when the check was made last year. Roosevelt school, with 405 pupils, was evacuated in 57 seconds, an improvement over the 65 seconds clocked last year.

Senior and junior high school with their larger enrollment were somewhat slower in leaving the buildings, the chief reported. At junior high school, 731 pupils were evacuated in 84 seconds, compared to 82 last year, while the 625 senior high school pupils were cleared from the building in 78 seconds, considerably faster than the time of 90 seconds last year.

Parents Reassured
Chief Elliott stated that with this excellent record on fire drill, parents could be relieved of worry about school fires.

Another project of fire prevention week is the razing of two old buildings termed fire hazards, according to Elliott. One is the house on North Central and Fourth street belonging to Charles A. Wing which is being torn down through the cooperation of Mr. Wing, he said.

This was built prior to 1908, Elliott said.

Second of the buildings razed is the structure on North Grape street which formerly housed the Weeks and Orr furniture store and undertaking establishment. This was sold in 1908 to a tinner, named Smith, and is owned by Dr. G. A. Gitzen, who cooperated with firemen in the project, the chief said.

FARMERS WARNED ON CEILING PRICE

Numerous complaints have been received by price clerks of the local war price and ration board concerning overcharges on used implements and farm machinery, it was stated today, and farmers were urged to find out correct ceiling prices ahead of time and pay no more. From the district office in Portland it was also stated by C. R. Vaughn, machinery price specialist, that farmers often wait until the machinery has broken down before they complain to OPA authorities.

Covered by price ceilings are used combines, corn binders and pickers, farm tractors and garden tractors (except truck type), hay balers, hay loaders, manure spreaders, side delivery rakes, tractor mounted and semi-mounted mowers and combinations of the foregoing. If sold within a year after bought new, the price is 85 per cent of new list price; after a year the price is 70 per cent, regardless of age, Vaughn explained.

TRAGEDY STRIKES CAMP WHITE PAIR

Camp White, Oct. 12—Tragedy last night struck at the family of Sgt. Michael Scirrotto of Camp White when his car became involved in an accident at Gothenburg, Neb., killing the Scirrotto's baby and critically injuring Mrs. Scirrotto.

The couple had just completed a 15-day furlough on the east coast where Sgt. Scirrotto's parents had seen their grandson for the first time, and were returning to Camp White. Another Camp White soldier, Cpl. Paul Frock, was in the car at the time. Frock was also returning from furlough after visiting his parents at Hanover, Penn. Both Sgt. Scirrotto and Cpl. Frock are members of the Camp White SCU band.

Exact extent of the injuries is unknown.

FAMED TENNESSEE WALKING HORSES BOUGHT BY CUPP

Mr. and Mrs. John Cupp, owners of Snowy Butte Ranch at Central Point, recently returned from a 30-day trip to Tennessee where they purchased two carloads of registered Tennessee walking horses. The 32-head consists of 17 head of brood mares and 15 head of young fillies and geldings, Cupp reports.

According to Cupp, the brood mares are in foal to the finest stallion in Tennessee and will be kept on Snowy Butte Ranch, the home of "Chocolate Soldier," Cupp's fine registered Tennessee walking stallion. The ranch owner reports increased interest in Tennessee walking horses and the demand is far greater than the supply of good, registered horses.

The Cupps find it increasingly hard to keep Chocolate Soldier in the west, he reports, increasing offers for him by breeders in Tennessee tempting the couple to sell the horse back where he came from, but at present the Cupps are determined to keep Chocolate Soldier, along with the band of brood mares, in Oregon and at Snowy Butte Ranch.

Mr. Cupp reports the sale of Chocolate Major, a five-months old stud colt, sired by Chocolate Soldier, for a top price of $1000, and he believes that the fine colts sired by Chocolate Soldier prove his worth as fine breeding stallion.
