With a record of 198 points scored against their opponents, seven Medford high's undefeated team squares off against Klamath Falls tonight on Modoc Field in the first Southern Oregon Conference game for Medford. Captain Darrell Riggs is out with a broken nose and Jerry Clark, ace signal-caller, has a pulled leg muscle.

Klamath Falls, in a game which they had dubbed a "dress rehearsal", lost 13-12 to Grants Pass last week while Medford was whipping a stubborn Eureka team, 38 to 0. Ashland was idle.

Weather for the game should be fair, for skies have cleared after a brisk rain earlier this week. The rains temporarily delayed fruit harvest. Up to that point fine fall weather had aided in harvest of the record crop, which has crowded every plant in the district beyond capacity.

Fall bird hunting season brought the usual flood of complaints from farmers and other landowners about careless hunters. Birds are reported not too plentiful, this being attributed to an exceedingly wet spring.

Fire Chief Elliott made his annual check of schools last week and reported that all schools improved their previous evacuation records.

Two large plate glass windows were broken in the gas company office on Main street Wednesday when Emil Britt of Jacksonville lost control of his car after a collision and crashed into the company building.

Indicating the increased interest in horse raising being shown in the valley, John Cupp recently returned from a trip to Tennessee where he purchased 32 head of Tennessee walking horses for his Snowy Butte Ranch. Don Nichols, of Ashland, rated grand champion in sheep showmanship over 86 contestants at the Pacific International Livestock show in Portland recently. Lois Fields placed fifth in a class of 70 in Hereford showmanship.

Weddings and engagements continue to fill the pages of social columns, since many newly returned servicemen are marrying "the girl who waited." Beck and Joan Shull to Robert Burns, Portland, formerly sergeant in the army.

Engagements announced were Dorothy Jensen to Colin Gould; Dorothy Hanson to Douglas Plumley and Joan Elliott to Jack Baker, SI/c in the navy.

Tom Gerety, AOM2/c, has been awarded the air medal with gold star for duty with a carrier task force which saw duty in the Japanese campaign. Gerety, aviation gunner, was aboard the USS Monterey off Tokyo at the time of the award. Robert Hubbard, lead navigator with a C47 transport group which has been operating from a Philippine base, has been made a first lieutenant. He has been overseas about a year. George A. Codding has been made a lieutenant, junior grade, on the USS MacKenzie and other promotions are those of Allen Buckingham to third grade technician with an ordnance company on Leyte and John W. Snider to master sergeant at Camp Carson, Colo.

A story about the USS LSM 40, of which Ensign Eugene Hayes is commissary and ship's service officer, states that the LSM participated in 10 invasions in a year of rugged campaigning. Still in the Philippines is Staff Sgt. Kenneth Scripser who saw considerable service with an anti-tank company of the 129th infantry regiment of the 37th division. The sergeant holds the combat infantryman's badge.

The Huson twins, Roy and Ray, are both home again. Roy, who spent many months in New Guinea, was discharged in August and his brother who was in Hawaii, New Caledonia, the Philippines and Okinawa, was released only a few days ago. Also home are Dr. Charles L. Coyle former captain in the medical corps First Lt. Bernice Gill ANC both of whom served many months in Europe.

A visitor in Medford last week was A. Gould, who spent 17 months of his four years of army in a German prison camp. The former first lieutenant in the air corps plans to return to the university to finish his journalism studies. Here on terminal leave is Lt. C. E. Chamberlain, who made two complete trips around the world as a transportation officer. Released from service recently were Jack Bentley, who served as a sergeant in the air corps and was in the army five years altogether, and Harvey Maxson, who spent 30 months in the European theater and held the rating of technician fourth grade with an infantry regiment.

MARY SCHILDER WEISSEND EARNS RECIPE AWARD

AN EXPERT JUDGE of good bakings and good recipes is Mrs. Mary Schilder Weissend of San Francisco. Long famous for her own homemade bakings, she smiles her approval of Martha Meade's Raised Nut Gems, knowing that western homemakers will welcome this fast, new unusual hotbread. Sperry's Martha Meade cited Mrs. Weissend for her 55 years of loyalty in using Sperry Drifted Snow Flour, by dedicating this new recipe to her.

MARY SCHILDER learned much about flour from her father, a European miller. When she married in California, she chose to bake with Sperry Drifted Snow. Today, she is being cited for 55 years of loyalty to this most popular western flour.
