Ye Smudge Pot By Arthur Perry

The thirsty report some of the John Harley crows on tap tastes like Henry Dishwater, with a touch of the buzz-saw in it.

It rained twice the past week, and the honk of geese, in the air and on the air were heard going south.

Chester Kubil of Thompson Creek towned Thurs. He was caught in the federal building, while laboring to make a post-office pen work.

Two dozen high Nazis, and prize members of the German super-race, now defunct, have been indicted by the Allied War Crimes commission, and stand accused of everything but fishing without a license, and parking in front of a fire hydrant.

A rubber man performed at the Pull & Haul in the Armory Thurs. He twisted and stretched himself like a politician does the truth.

Honors were heaped on the Perli family last week. Papa was elected president of the Kiwanis, and son Billy played guard on the Junior high grid squad.

The Dick Phair boy Dick, while yawning Tues. fell down and cracked his noggin. He reports seeing stars for the first time in daylight.

Leon Offenbacher, et ux, et al., as the lawyers say, towned Fri. eve, and took in a magic lantern show.

Fritmen are still busier than ants, bees, and bird dogs.

The Black Tornado journeyed to K Falls Fri. and gave the powerful (at home) Pelicans a 51 to 0 licking, administered in a workmanlike manner. The Pelicans were the victims of no bad breaks on the playing field, but several in their home-town paper.

The Jens Jensen boy John, who was with Patton in Germany, is home on a 45-day leave. Bob Sherwood, who also tramped the sacred soil of the Hun is also back. He is remembered by many as the young man who played a cornet in the hs. band but ceased in time.

Many of the fair sex are now wearing trouser-pleated skirts, a new style they claim is a year old. The pleats are supposed to accentuate the slim silhouette, what ever that is.

Washington, D. C. reported last week rationing of meat, butter and fats would continue throughout November. Experts agree re-ignition of grub will continue until the elections next year draw nigh.

Two or three of the Verne Brophy steers were wounded last week, by C. Pheasant hunters, who hit everything but a C. Pheasant. The lone local Chinese citizen is so far unscathed.

Adolph Hitler's half-brother half believes Adolf is alive. Many believe Alois is half-right.

Mrs. J. Cochran Robin has returned from a brief trip to the south and reports a shortage of nests, worse than at home. "I couldn't find a thing—not even a last year's nest" she declared.

Oregon's Safety Week

The National Safety Council has just revealed that 36,550,000 Americans were killed or injured in home front accidents during the past war, almost 36 times the total of battle casualties suffered by U. S. armed forces. The comparison is used to show the enormity of this nation's accident toll and to awaken the public to the need of an intelligent country-wide program of accident prevention.

SUCH a program has been launched in Oregon, and October 22-28 will be "Safety Week" in this state. Secretary of State Robert Farrell, in announcing this special "week," has wisely pointed out it must be a continuing campaign to become effective. With 245 deaths in Oregon last year caused by accidents, with 6,845 injuries and loss exceeding $11,000,000, safety in Oregon homes and industries and on the state's streets and highways has become a necessity. We cannot expect to solve such a serious problem without constantly reminding the public of the common accident hazards in every day life, without making the people conscious of the appalling tragedy and economic loss brought about by carelessness.

IT must not be a flash-in-the-pan effort. Oregon's safety program must bring to the public an understanding of the cost of carelessness; it must be carried into the school and home, to the farm and factory, day by day, week by week and month by month. Simple rules of caution and basic traffic regulations—these must be known well and observed carefully by young and old alike.

SO, Oregon's safety week is not a high pressure, short-lived selling campaign. Instead, it is designed to start the ball rolling on a year 'round accident prevention program in this state. First the public must know that most accidents CAN be avoided and they must understand HOW they can be prevented. The "why" of such a campaign is apparent.

ACCIDENT prevention is, after all, a matter of self interest, just as it is a responsibility of good citizenship. And "Safety Week", which starts tomorrow, should be the beginning of "Safety Year" in Oregon.—H.G.

Your Health and It's Care

Well, here I am again. Of course it's pretty early—that talk about antiseptics has not yet had time to get to the vice-president in charge of public instruction. In the treatment of wounds one first aid application of mild tincture of iodine immediately adjacent, is the only necessary or justifiable antiseptic or germicidal treatment—aside from whatever surgical treatment the doctor gives. As for sore throat, tonsillitis, laryngitis, quinsy, rhinitis, coryza, sinusitis and other acute respiratory infections, just between ourselves if I were the patient I wouldn't give you a plugged nickel for all the antiseptic or germicidal remedies in the world—and I am not unmindful of the sulfa drugs.

You see, I know the most powerful antiseptic or germicide we have—just what it may be I don't know, but let's assume we have one that is extremely powerful—and remember, we're talking about self-treatment or home treatment—can't have the slightest influence on disease-producing germs that have invaded the tissues of the throat, the lining of the nose, the tonsils or other structures, even if one could keep a concentration of the stuff right here in the throat, the nasal passages, the larynx for five or ten minutes. To imagine that a momentary washing of the surface with any such agent can either the germs which have invaded the tissues or too childish for any one but a Wisecrack.

Frequent use of mouthwash, gargle or nasal spray of antiseptic character when you have any acute respiratory infection is not entirely useless, I suppose. It probably gives innocent bystanders more protection than they would have otherwise, by disinfecting the medium through which you spread your cri—the moisture spray given off when you cough, sneeze, laugh or talk.

I am still taking a horse-and-bugby view of the place of antiseptics in home or domestic medicine and self-treatment. If you want an opinion on the value of sulfa as a first aid disinfectant I'm not prepared to give one. Of the value of the sulfa drugs applied under medical or surgical control no one can have any doubt. But there is a great deal of doubt, at least from my viewpoint, whether the sulfa drugs are safe enough or effective enough for a layman to use in any circumstance. In the course of another year or two perhaps the hullabaloo and the stampede of subsidized or publicity-hungry doctors to publish reports of cases of whatever treated with

Red Cross Unit Chairmen Named By Corps Head

Appointment of two new chairmen for Volunteer Special Service corps of the Red Cross was announced yesterday by Mrs. Alfred S. V. Carpenter, chairman of the special service corps. Mrs. T. R. Florey will take over the leadership of the Nurses' Aide corps, replacing Mrs. Don Newbury, and Mrs. Ralph C. Bardwell will be director of the Hospital and Recreation corps, of which Mrs. Rawles Moore has been chairman. Mrs. Newbury, who has guided the nurses' aide program since its first graduating class in August, 1942, has received many letters of commendation from the National Red Cross chapter, the Camp White army hospital and the surgeon general of the United States army, for the excellent work accomplished by the corps. Mrs. Carpenter states, Mrs. Florey, her successor, has been closely associated with Mrs. Newbury as captain of the corps and vice-chairman of the committee and has had a working knowledge of the corps' problems throughout the emergency. After a meeting of the committee yesterday Mrs. Florey said, "We have been asked by both Medford hospitals to carry on and will train and supply nurses' aides as long as this need exists." Mrs. Moore, retiring chairman of the hospital and recreation corps, has also been in service since the beginning of the emergency. At the request of the navy hospital she recruited and trained the present group of 32 Gray Ladies now serving their probationary hours at the hospital. Mrs. Moore's "tireless devotion to her work has been an incentive to everyone" Mrs. Carpenter states. Mrs. Bardwell, the new chairman, has been recording secretary for the county chapter for several years. She will be assisted by two vice-chairmen, Mrs. J. P. Naumes and Mrs. Shelby M. Tuttle. When interviewed Mrs. Bardwell said "Now is the time to work for peace as we worked for war. We have an important job to do. We are equipped and ready to do it."
