37th Anniversary Is Celebrated By Chapter Of Lodge

Central Point—Nevita Chapter No. 93, O.E.S., celebrated its 37th anniversary by honoring the past matrons and past patrons of the chapter at a meeting Tuesday night. Mrs. Lloyd Stinson, worthy matron, presided and was assisted by her corps of officers.

Following the usual chapter meeting all past matrons and patrons were escorted to the chapter room to places of honor and a "soothsayer," with his crystal ball, appeared and through "magic" produced a fortune and gift for each honored guest. It is rumored that C. W. Abbott was responsible for the turbaned magician.

Women honored were each presented with a red and white corsage. Following the ceremony Mrs. Edwin Andren sang "To the End of Time" accompanied by Mrs. Lloyd Morris.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor Bursell, first candidates of the chapter, made the responses. Mrs. Bursell was the fourth worthy matron of the chapter, serving in 1912 and again in 1919. Nevita chapter was instituted Oct. 27, 1908, and the Bursells were initiated in January, 1909.

Mrs. Alameda Horsley and Miss Alice Day, daughters, of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Day, were given the several degrees of the order during the evening. Miss Day came from Oregon State college at Corvallis for the event.

Special guests included Mrs. Hope Wood, grand representative of South Carolina and Junior past matron of Reames chapter, Medford, and Mrs. Disney, past matron of Concordia chapter, Madras, Ore., and a teacher in the Central Point schools.

Chapter rooms were decorated with fall flowers and the dining tables were arranged with red and white chrysanthemums flanked with red and white candles. A large birthday cake was cut by Mrs. Bursell. Numerical place cards of red proved very effective.

Next meeting of the chapter will be Nov. 13. Visiting members of the order are extended a cordial invitation to attend.

Date Announced For Production Of "Peter Pan"

November 21 has been announced as the date of the appearance here of "Peter Pan," the production to be staged by the Clare Tree Major children's theater of New York. This most celebrated of children's plays of the twentieth century will be sponsored here by the Medford branch of the American Association of University Women.

"Peter Pan," the international celebrated fantasy by Sir James Barrie, was first played by Maude Adams, who created a never-to-be-forgotten theater tradition with her performances of Peter. "Peter Pan" ran in New York for a full year and was then taken on tour. Miss Adams revived it several times thereafter and years later Eva LeGallienne again offered the play, both in New York and on tour, with herself as Peter.

Clare Tree Major's present production of the play differs from all previous ones, it is said, in that for the first time in history it will be presented not merely in great cities, but owing to the flexible and carefully-planned motorized equipment, children in the small cities, towns and villages will have an opportunity to see the great play. The production here will have all its diverse elements so enchanting to child audiences—pirates, fairies, a crocodile that ticks like a clock, the wonderful underground house where the Lost Boys live with Wendy as their little mother, and faithful Nan, the dog-nurse.
