

ARGENTINE APES NAZI PROTOTYPE BRADEN CHARGES

Washington, Oct. 29 — (U.P.) — Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden today accused the present Argentine regime of "cruelly abusing its people, and of aping its European Nazi prototype."

He warned that the Nazis, though defeated in battle, have not been eradicated. He referred to the "state of siege" recently reimposed in Argentina, and said it was used to oppress an entire people.

"Let us not forget," Braden said, "that the European Nazis began by subjugating their own peoples before they attempted to subjugate their neighbors. History must not repeat itself."

Braden spoke at a Navy day dinner. He returned late last month to become assistant secretary after six months as ambassador to Argentina. During his stay there he was bitterly denounced by the Farrell-Peron regime for his outspoken criticism of it. He has set up a special group here to prepare evidence of Argentina's Nazi connections.

PLENTY OF MEAT SEEN NEXT YEAR

Washington, Oct. 29 — (U.P.) — The Agriculture department predicted tonight that civilians will be able to get all the meat they want—next year.

Civilian meat supplies in 1946 will reach 155 pounds per person, about equal to demand, the department said. Consumption at this rate would break the record of about 150 pounds set in 1944. This year, the average will be only about 130 pounds.

The Agriculture department in an annual survey estimated 1946 meat production at 22,600,000,000 pounds, about two billion pounds less than the record production of 1944. A huge cut in non-civilian requirements next year will permit the higher per-capita civilian consumption.

Kick that goal!

Many a football squad has found itself mighty happy at game's end because—after fighting to a touchdown—it kept on the pressure and kicked the goal. That point-after-touchdown made the difference between victory and something not so good.

The Big Team—and that's America—has scored its touchdown. It has scored two of them. Yet it still needs to chalk up that point-after-touchdown—by making a thundering success of the forthcoming Victory Loan.

The war is over. But the expenses haven't stopped. The job of winding up those global loose ends so the boys can come home is big—and expensive. To play fair with our service team mates, we must surely do everything we can to hurry that wind-up. One thing we can do is buy more bonds.

What's more, it's not enough just to speed the boys' return. If this is to be a complete victory, our service team mates must come home to a country where inflation has been licked as soundly as the Germans and Japs—not to a land where meals cost hundreds of dollars and a suit of civies costs thousands.

The Victory Bonds you buy will be a direct blow at inflation. They may be small—but so is an atom of U-235. If you want proof that bond buying is still the best weapon against inflation, let Uncle Sam's Treasury Department send you the figures. What's more, the Treasury has the information to convince you that bond buying is simple self-protection—against wild costs that include paying war bills in inflated taxes!

So let's prove ourselves both smart and worthy members of the Big Team. Let's tie a ribbon around Victory! Let's kick that 11 billion-dollar point-after-touchdown. That, sir—that's the Big Team spirit!

Over 20,000,000 members of the American Junior Red Cross through their National Children's Fund are assisting in the rehabilitation of children in war-devastated areas the world over. This enrollment poster for 1946, entitled "Our World," was painted by the well-known artist Amos Sewell.

Junior Red Cross Enrolls All Pupils At Griffin Creek

Griffin Creek school was the first grammar school in this area to enroll 100% in the Junior Red Cross membership drive being conducted by the National Red Cross Nov. 1 to 15.

"Program for the coming year includes activities for all ages from first graders through high school," said Miss Vera Humphrey, Junior Red Cross chairman. "It has been gratifying to see the long lists of membership roll in from Medford and the surrounding schools, but we do need the older students as workers as well as members."

"Our contact with children of the liberated and conquered countries," she continued, "is an important factor in organizing a world fellowship of nations. It is time to realize that children are the best ambassadors of good will this country could have."

The Junior Red Cross work shop, located in the Holly building, is open daily 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.
