NED BARRACLOUGH SPENDS FURLOUGH IN RIVIERA AREA

Nice, France—Cpl. Ned W. Barracough, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Barracough, 1115 West 10th street, Medford, Ore., a supply man with 240th Field Artillery battalion recently spent a seven-day furlough in the U. S. Riviera recreation area here.

This Mediterranean resort center, established by the army to give soldiers in Europe an opportunity for relaxation and entertainment, is known for the exceptional facilities available to resting veterans. Guests of the army, GIs live in requisitioned hotels, eat American food prepared by French chefs and receive the service accorded the Riviera's pre-war clientele. Almost no military restrictions exist, with large posters everywhere proclaiming "No Saluting Required."

Cpl. Barracough has been overseas for 16 months and wears the European theater ribbon with four battle participation stars for campaigns in England, France, Belgium, Luxembourg, Germany, Austria and Czechoslovakia.

He has served in Townsville, Australia, Oro Bay, Finschhafen and Hollandia, New Guinea, Leyte, Cebu, Macan and Mindanao islands in the Philippines.

FRANCIS WIDMER
Aboard the USS Louisville, Okinawa—News of V-J Day bleared over a loud speaker to Francis X. Widmer, quartermaster, third class, USNR, of Medford, Ore., as he balanced himself between bulkheads of this heavy cruiser, then riding out a storm off this island.

Widmer joined the Louisville in November, 1943, taking part in nearly two years of the Fleet's drives against the Japanese.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Xavier Widmer, Route 4, Medford.

NON INTERVENTION YANKEE POLICY IN CHINA'S CONFLICT

San Francisco, Oct. 30—(U.P.)—Lt. Gen Albert C. Wedemeyer, commander of U. S. army forces in China, said today American troops will not intervene directly in the undeclared Chinese civil war but warned that the turn of event there eventually may affect the United States "economically," psychologically, and perhaps militarily.

Wedemeyer arrived in the United States five weeks ago to confer with military and diplomatic officials in Washington, D. C. He will leave by plane for Chungking from Hamilton Field tomorrow to resume his command.

He said he thought the American press and public should not make up their minds yet about possible U. S. intervention in China's affairs.

"I note a certain lack of objectivity," Wedemeyer said. "Reports should be weighed carefully in terms of the reporters' own ideology. There is no doubt that the turn of events in an area embracing half the world's population must inevitably affect our country—economically, psychologically, and perhaps militarily."

Silver Pin Found In Paper Salvage

Washington, Del. (U.P.)—A sterling silver brooch, contributed unwittingly with newspapers and magazines during a scrap paper drive, was found by workmen who searched through 90 tons of waste paper to return the jewelry to Mrs. J. S. Beekley.

Mrs. Beekley notified the Container Corp. of America, which collected the paper, when she discovered the brooch was missing. Workmen sorted through the paper and returned the brooch eight days after the paper drive ended.

'Damyankes' Can Come Too!

"Rebel Hut," American Red Cross center at Antwerp, Belgium, was named by—you guessed it—those south of the Mason-Dixon line beauties whose southern hospitality found its way far from the land of cotton. At the door to greet their visitors are (left to right) Ann Perry Sollar, Bainbridge, Ga.; Sally Stolte, Baltimore, Md.; and Dorothy Lindsay, Portsmouth, Va., who will even welcome "Damyankes"—the sign says so.

MOST STRIKERS IN LUMBER INDUSTRY TAKE OTHER JOBS

Portland, Ore., Oct. 30—(U.P.)—Reports from AFL district councils today indicated that most of the 60,000 strikers in Pacific northwest operations have gone to work in other industries, AFL spokesmen revealed.

More than 250 district representatives went into a second day of conference on the five-week-old strike, vowing to step up their battle against "hot" lumber until the tieup is settled.

Strike chairman, John Christenson said the overall survey of conditions in Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana and northern California shows that a high percentage of the AFL lumber workers have gone into other work for higher wages. He said that executive boards report the "frank and file" of workers have no desire to return to work under the poor working conditions in the lumber industry until operators meet our wage demands.

The AFL is seeking $1.10 minimum per hour on an industry-wide basis. There has been little attempt to meet on a common ground and building industry reports showed a dwindling supply of labor and the nearing of a halt on major construction projects.

These was no apparent progress in CIO negotiations with operators for a 25 cent wage increase, with CIO unionists staying on their jobs.

VICTIM'S WIDOW CLAIMS CURRENCY

Rockport, Ind., Oct. 30—(U.P.)—A slain man's widow today claimed the $3,200 which was found tucked into the brasserie of her husband's murdered companion.

Mrs. Alley Tyson said she would file a legal claim for the money found on Ethel Sparks, 18. The girl and Mrs. Tyson's husband, George, 38, were found buried in a shallow grave in a clover field late Sunday. Both had been murdered.

Mrs. Tyson said at her home at East St. Louis, Ill., that her husband always carried large sums of money. She said she believed he had $6,000 with him when he left home hurriedly July 15. That was the last time she saw him alive.

Police, meanwhile, suggested that revenge may have been the motive for the slayings.

KAISER SHIPYARDS TO 40-HOUR WEEK

Portland, Ore., Oct. 30—(U.P.)—Kaiser shipyards in the Portland area today prepared to comply with a U. S. maritime commission request to revert to an eight-hour five-day week effective Nov. 1.

Edgar F. Kaiser, general manager of the three Kaiser yards in this area—Vancouver, Swan Island and Oregon—said his yards would comply.

The yards have been working 48 hours a week.

The request for a 40 hour week on commission work came in a telegram from L. R. Sanford and R. P. Strough, of the maritime commission in Oakland.

Occupation Effects Future of Greece

Athens (U.P.)—German, Italian and Bulgarian occupation of Greece will have its effects on future Greek education.

Not one of the 8,500 school buildings which existed in Greece in 1940 has been left intact, with 2,000 of the buildings either destroyed or in need of such repairs that they are abandoned or being pulled down.

Another 2,000 are damaged to such an extent that major repairs will have to be made before they can be used.

STRIKE PENALTIES ARE FAVORED BY HOUSE COMMITTEE

Washington, Oct. 30—(U.P.)—The House Military Affairs committee today approved legislation to penalize labor unions for striking in violation of contract.

The bill also would repeal strike-vote and federal plant-seizure provisions of the Smith-Connally anti-strike law. In approving the legislation, the committee in effect rewrote the Smith-Connally act.

In addition to proposing penalties for striking in violation of contract, the bill would extend the current ban against political contributions by corporations and labor unions to cover primaries as well as elections involving candidates for federal office.

The new provisions were offered by Rep. Leslie C. Arends, R., Ill., who told reporters they did not constitute "labor baiting."

Arends said he thought the new political contributions ban would apply to the CIO political action committee. Under the provision, he said, such an organization could not "make any contributions, expend any sums, aid in solicitation of funds or levy any assessments" on members of affiliates for any primary or general election or political convention. In the last campaign, the CIO-PAC suspended funds solicitation after the primaries. Another organization, the National Citizens' Pcc, carried on, however.

Eleanor Roosevelt Cancels Address Following Protest

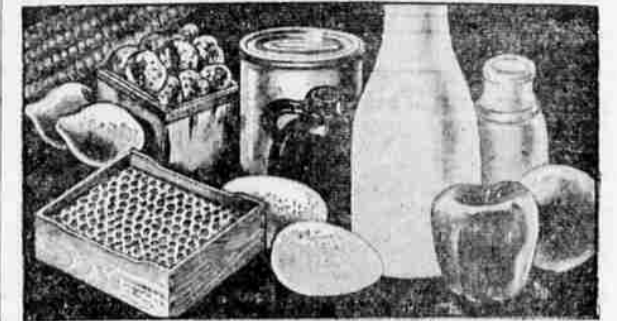

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 30—(U.P.)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today cancelled an address before the Young Democrats of Georgia because of the resignation of two executive committee members of the group in protest of her appearance.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who was to have spoken before the organization December 3-4, wired Gov. Ellis Arnall that she would not come to Atlanta, when notified that Earl Wingo, chairman of the membership committee, and Robert N. Fellows, its treasurer, had withdrawn because of their objection to Mrs. Roosevelt's views "of racial social equality."

Robert Livermore, first settler in the California valley which bears his name, was born in England in 1799.
