Interest has been divided in recent days between the news that shoe rationing has ended, showing the first new Ford cars, the report that for the fourth time a smoke or gas cloud has been seen hovering above Crater Lake and last, but not least, Medford's super-colossal football team.

While the end of shoe rationing was welcome to most people, it meant little locally because of extremely low stocks. Report of the fourth gas cloud, or whatever it is, from Crater Lake, set scientists guessing again as to the origin and cause of the manifestations, some believing that the gas or smoke rises from a vent in the lake floor and might be the forerunner of coming volcanic action.

State engineers have arrived to survey land along the Rogue River now within Camp White boundaries which local groups are working to have designated as a state park. The victory loan drive has started and a county queen will be named to enter a state contest. The army has closed out the ordnance shop at the fairgrounds, operated since April of 1942, and the employees, once numbering 230 civilians, have been released or transferred.

Ashland's American Legion post has decided to build a memorial hall in which will be displayed the names of heroic dead of both world wars.

With Darrell Riggs the only casualty of Medford's 73-0 victory over Grants Pass last Friday, the black tornado is all set to face Bend Lava Bears here tonight. Riggs suffered a badly sprained ankle in the Caveman tilt and will probably be out for another week.

The traditional Armistice Day game with Ashland has been shifted to Nov. 9 since it appears likely that Medford and North Bend will play for the district title Nov. 16 and Coach Al Simpson didn't want two games in one week.

October was the busiest month in more than a year for Dan Cupid, with 65 marriage licenses issued by the county clerk's office. Seven marriages were announced Sunday, including those of Elsie Pratt to Keith

W. Van Meter of Portland; Ruth Rouse, Ashland to Blaine Iverson of Idaho; Joyce Morgan to James George; Sallie Shaver to Earl Hanscom; Leila Carlton of Ashland to Staff Sgt. John R. Lentz of Santa Ana, Calif.; Ida Mae Mlynar of Ellsworth, Kansas, to Pfc. George Bryant of Ft. Riley; Theresa Sanders of Salem to B. Frank Owens. Many of the grooms have just returned home from overseas duty.

Hearquarters of the 100th Infantry division in Germany has announced award of the bronze star to Pfc. Robert Kyle for heroic action during the European campaign. He was recently appointed assistant to the editor in charge of compiling a history of his regiment, the 399th. Including in a light moment, Kyle listed his various medals and citations and at the bottom of the list added "two Hershey bars."

From Nice, France, comes word that Cpl. Ned W. Barracough recently spent a furlough at a Riviera resort and from the other side of the world Roger Card, CM3/c in the Sea-Bees, wrote to describe the typhoon which struck Okinawa shortly after he landed on the island. In another letter John E. Wilkinson, T 4, also described the terrific storm and its damage. Card enclosed some Jap money and added that "it takes a bale to buy anything."

Sgt. Charles E. McCormick is now serving as a heavy equipment operator with an engineer's unit on Mindanao, Philippine Islands, Ned A. Coverdale, S2/c, is serving on the USS Mobile in the Pacific and Francis X. Widmer, QM3/c, is aboard the USS Louisville. Philip E. Robinson, GM1/c, on the USS Concord, took part in the initial occupation of northern Japan and Fred M. Lee, who has been stationed near Fuchino in Japan with the American division, has been promoted to the rank of technical sergeant.

Some of the dozens of men discharged in the last week and now home are Donald E. Gray, former first lieutenant, who served first in the Aleutians and later in Europe; Melvin Greene, who served with the 7th air force; Marmie E. Olson, chief warrant officer who served two tours of duty in the Pacific and Herbert L. Edwards, former lieutenant and bombardier in the air corps two years.

Molotov Rejects Plea To Abandon News Censorship

Moscow, Oct. 31—(Delayed)—(U.P.)—Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov tonight rejected a request by the Anglo-American Press association in Moscow that Russia abandon censorship of press dispatches to the United States and Great Britain.

Molotov's reply was delivered verbally through a press department attache. He quoted Molotov as saying that the letter in which the request was made was not "solid, and therefore it was not found necessary to consider it."

The letter, dated Oct. 20, said: "The Anglo-American Press association wishes to put on record its attitude toward censorship of press dispatches for Great Britain and the United States."

"Now that the war is over, the Soviet Union is the only one of the great Allied powers that retains strict wartime censorship of news written by foreign correspondents."

"Throughout the war the foreign correspondents never objected to censorship for purposes of military security. But censorship in peacetime of all dispatches relating not only to military affairs but politics, economics, cultural affairs and every aspect of life in the Soviet Union destroys the value of foreign correspondents in a free world and has created a general distrust abroad of all news emanating from the Soviet Union."

Censorship Protested
 "We wish to go on record against censorship in principle. We wish also to protest against the operation of the Soviet censorship. It is dictatorial and arbitrary. Censors frequently tamper with wording and distort the meaning of messages. Censorship is vacillating and capricious. It varies from day to day and from censor to censor. Some censors are insufficiently acquainted with the English language to understand material submitted to them."
 "Censors are often uninforming regarding current events. Frequently messages are delayed so long that they lose their value. Sometimes they are actually lost in the process of censorship. Hesitating to make decisions, the censors delay messages sometimes for days, and this destroys the tempo of news reporting."
Outside News Censored
 "Censors extend their authority to topics that do not come within the province of Soviet censorship. They arbitrarily cenper with wording and distort the meaning of messages. Censorship is vacillating and capricious. It varies from day to day and from censor to censor. Some censors are insufficiently acquainted with the English language to understand material submitted to them.

 "Censors are often uninforming regarding current events. Frequently messages are delayed so long that they lose their value. Sometimes they are actually lost in the process of censorship. Hesitating to make decisions, the censors delay messages sometimes for days, and this destroys the tempo of news reporting."
Outside News Censored
 "Censors extend their authority to topics that do not come within the province of Soviet censorship. They arbitrarily cen-information that comes from non-Soviet sources and deals with non-Soviet affairs.

 "Apart from its effects upon modern journalism, Soviet censorship prevents the development of understanding and promotion of good relations between the Soviet Union and the rest of the world."
 "Now that the war is over we respectfully request that you establish the same conditions for free reporting that Soviet journalists have in Great Britain and the United States."
