RED CROSS GIVES LECTURE SERIES ON SOLDIER AID

At the request of interested community groups in different parts of the county the home service department of the Jackson county Red Cross has scheduled several lectures on the benefits and services of the Red Cross and how they affect the returning servicemen.

On Nov. 5 Mrs. Althea Lofland, case worker, spoke to an interested Health association unit at Gold Hill; Nov. 6, Miss Lillian Roberts, director of home service addressed a representative group at Rogue River; Dec. 14, Mrs. Harry Holmes, chairman of the home service committee will speak to the P.-T.A of Howard school.

The home service office is equipped to give information and advice to returning veterans concerning legislation active at the present time, and the best means of benefiting from the various governmental bills and directives. Lists of the resources and associations set up in various communities to help service men adjust themselves to civilian life are available. The Red Cross also assists veterans and their families in presenting claims for pensions and other government benefits. Questions concerning life insurance and its conversion into 20 year pay policy; disability programs for disabled men, and other factual aids are a part of the service.

It was brought to the attention of the board that over 25 per cent of the 497 current cases handled at the home service office during October were ex-service men. Of the 186 applicants in October 130 were families who had never enlisted the facilities of the Medford home service department. In solving their problem over 204 interviews were given; 164 telegrams were handled; 70 home visits made and countless collateral investigations accomplished by the professional staff and volunteer assistants.

Armistice Dance Tickets Go Fast

Advance sale of tickets for the annual American Legion Armistice Day dance is the largest in the history of the post, according to Walter Reinking, chairman of the dance committee. The dance will be held in Merrick's ballroom Monday night, November 12, and an eight piece orchestra will play from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Fluorescent lighting apparatus for subway trains, street cars, trolley buses and other public transit vehicles is being developed.

AAA ELECTIONS SET FOR COUNTY

The farmers of Jackson county will hold meetings this month to elect AAA committeemen to administer the county's 1946 agricultural conservation program, it is announced by Frank Roe of the local office. Notice of the time and place of the several community elections are being mailed to farmers by the county AAA office.

Changes in procedure in the 1946 AAA program have placed additional responsibilities on the committeemen in the allocation of payments, in the approval of farm conservation programs and in the administration of government price support programs, Roe states.

The county AAA office urges all farm operators in the county to attend their community election meetings so proper representation of the varied farm interests of the county may be assured.

STATE GUARDS TO PARADE MONDAY

Company A, 1st regiment, and battalion headquarters section of the same regiment, both local units of the Oregon State Guard, will parade on Armistice day, according to Capt. Oscar E. Sabin, commanding officer of company A.

Men of the units will report at the armory by 9 a. m., Monday. After the parade, a chicken dinner will be served officers and men in the armory mess hall. Captain Sabin has extended an invitation to all 41st division men who may be in Medford, either discharged or on terminal leave, to be guests of company A at the dinner.

Red Cross Honors Seth Bullis For Personal Service

At the monthly meeting of the Board of the Jackson County Red Cross at the Holland Hotel yesterday, Chairman Seth Bullis was presented with a Certificate of Merit from the national Red Cross headquarters in Washington and signed by President Truman. The award read in part: "In recognition of meritorious personal service performed in behalf of the nation, her armed forces, and suffering humanity in the 2nd World War." The commemoration was also signed by Basil O'Connor, national chairman of the Red Cross.

Mr. Bullis was enthusiastic over the accomplishments of the many new volunteers in special services and expressed the hope that more recruits would be added to the corps membership rolls so that the work could go forward without delay.

Enlistments Open To Men 17-25 For Coast Guard Work

Men between the ages of 17 and 25 may now enlist in the Coast Guard for a period of either two or three years, it was announced today by Alfred Switzer, traveling recruiter.

The Coast Guard offers a wide variety of interesting assignments in its versatile peacetime military and law enforcement program, Switzer said, and recruits have the opportunity for training and advancement in many fields.

Persons desiring further information concerning the Coast Guard are urged to see Switzer at Medford Post Office building Nov. 13 and 14 from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.
