

U. S. MUST HELP REST OF WORLD, JENKINS WARNS

Klamath Publisher Tells C-C Forum Prosperous Isolation Dangerous Attitude

America can't continue as an island of plenty and prosperity in a sea of starvation and need, and unless we make an honest effort to raise the rest of the world to a better standard of living, we inevitably will be dragged down to the world level, declared Frank Jenkins, publisher of the Klamath Falls Herald and News, speaking at a forum meeting of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce Friday noon at the Holland hotel.

Admitting that before the war he had been a "rabid isolationist," Jenkins said he now believed that "the day is gone when this nation can live with itself" and added that unless we provide the honest world leadership which this country alone is in a position to provide, we'll have to face the consequences.

Terrible Need Seen
Dwelling on the "terrible need" for food, fuel and clothing in the European countries devastated by the war he said "if people living in this country could see Europe today, could see what happens to a nation when production is stopped, we would quit trying to 'get ours now' and buckle down to the problem of reconversion and start producing for a needy and starving world." The newspaper publisher said we should "tighten our belts if need be" and make every effort to feed the starving nations since "the hatreds brought on by starvation last a long time."

Jenkins declared that a new definition for inflation was necessary to impress the people of this country, adding that he believed it was more nearly correct to say inflation is too little production, rather than too much money. "Everywhere in Europe people, with their pockets stuffed full of money, are dying of starvation," Jenkins said. "This type of disastrous inflation inevitably follows war."

Incentive Lost
The speaker said it would be a full year, and probably two, before Europe could feed itself since the people have lost the incentive to work, have no machinery left with which to operate and since highways and transportation systems are useless.

Urging his listeners not to be misled by the "isms" of Europe, Jenkins said "Nazism was nothing more than a racket. Everything of value in Europe was in the hands of individual Nazi party leaders of power." He added that during all his weeks in Germany he did not meet a single German who had any regret for having started the war, but regret only for the fact that the war had been lost. "You could literally feel their hatred as they passed you in the streets," he declared.

Legion, Auxiliary Asked to March In Parade Monday

All members of the American Legion and auxiliary are asked to march in the parade on Monday, Nov. 12, in observance of Armistice Day, officers announced yesterday. Children of the veterans are also invited to attend as there will be a special spot for them. Gold star mothers are particularly invited and all groups are requested to meet at the city park at 10:45 a. m.

Following the parade a luncheon will be held at the Armory for all auxiliary members while veterans will meet at the Elks Club basement for lunch.

Closing time for Sunday Too Late to Classify 4:00 Saturday afternoon. Please remember

CHEST DRIVE LAGS FAR BEHIND QUOTA CHAIRMAN SHOWS

With but $34,500 contributed to date in the 1945 Community Chest and national victory fund drive, workers face a shortage of $4,500 in the $40,000 quota. The figures were presented at a meeting of Community Chest board members and drive workers held Friday noon at the Holland Hotel.

"A close survey of contribution figures shows that the deficit results from contributions in the smaller brackets, as compared with previous years," Otto Frohnmayer, chairman of the chest, stated following the meeting. "Records show that firms and individuals who contributed large sums in past years have equalled or exceeded their contributions, while smaller contributions are on the whole below the last few years." Frohnmayer said the board believed that this was due to the fact that fewer solicitors had been available, resulting in incomplete coverage. "Unless individuals who have not been contacted volunteer their contributions, such worthwhile organizations as the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Y.M.C.A., Jackson County Public Health association, Girls' Community club and Salvation Army will be forced to operate on curtailed budgets next year," the chairman said. He pointed out that these organizations depend solely upon the Chest for their funds and that they are not permitted to solicit except through special arrangement with the Chest board.

Present at the meeting were Frohnmayer, Mrs. William McAllister, Mrs. Elwood Hedberg, Mrs. Harry Holmes, Allen Perry, Mrs. John Moffat, Robert Norris, all board members, Mrs. V. W. Hammond, who has been keeping office records during the present campaign, and Anthony Manno, in charge of down-town solicitation.

IRRIGATION BOARD ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR IMPROVEMENT

The board of directors of the Medford Irrigation District, composed of Dr. George B. Dean, Jean Cameron, and David Holmes, together with J. M. Spencer, manager, has announced extensive plans for the betterment of the district's irrigation system. For the past two years, the director's announcement said, the board has pointed towards a program of extensive improvements and changes in the system, and during this period the necessary money has been accumulated with which to accomplish the work.

Dealing the plans, the announcement continues: "The program of improving the higher mountain portion of the system, consisting of the canal between Four Mile Lake, the upper reservoir, and Fish Lake, was partially accomplished during the past year. A road along the entire length of the canal has been constructed, preparatory to lining with concrete a large section of this canal. The season during which this work can be carried out is limited to the interval between the completion of irrigation and the oncoming of winter, with a similar limited period in the spring of the year.

"The Medford Irrigation District in conjunction with the Rogue River Irrigation District is also carrying out extensive improvements, which will substantially increase the capacity of the main canal between the intake and Bradshaw Drop, by reconstruction of flumes and lining of extensive portions of the canal. The siphon on the main canal at Yankee Creek is also being reconstructed. This work also was partially accomplished during the past year and will be completed during the coming year.

"The plans also include extensive lining and bank improvements in the main canal below Phoenix. The district has just completed some 600 feet of lining on this portion of the canal and contemplates an additional 200 feet during the coming year.

"The board is confident that these improvements in the system will result in large saving of water and in much more satisfactory service to the landowners of the district. The work has been planned by Mr. Spencer in such a manner as to coordinate with the federal authorities in case the Rogue River project is carried out."

Women's Skirts To Be Longer in 1946

New York, Nov. 10 (U.P.)—Skirts are getting longer. A preview of 1946 styles showed today that long skirts are coming back. Long skirts are bad news for men who like to look at legs—and bad news for men who pay for women's clothes. A new skirt length makes last year's clothes look old.
