MUCH RED TAPE TO BE UNWOUND ON BASE RETURN

While there is little possibility that the city of Medford will resume operation of the air base in the near future, the city may now make application to the army to do so according to Frank Rogers, city superintendent, who yesterday and this morning gathered additional information from army and Civil Aeronautics administration officials on an announcement that the army had declared the Medford air base as surplus and that it would be returned to the city.

According to the information given Rogers, the city may now start proceedings for the return of the base to city control, but that there are many conditions and rules to be complied with and that since much "red tape" will be involved, it probably will be some time before any change is made.

The matter will be taken up at the city council meeting next Tuesday, Rogers said.

NO-STRIKE PLEDGE REVOKED BY I.W.A.

Eugene, Ore., Nov. 16—(U.P.)—A war-time no strike pledge was revoked today by delegates to the international convention of the international woodworkers of America, CIO, along with a resolution demanding the Canadian government settle the Ford strike at Windsor.

Harold J. Pritchett, representing the British Columbia delegation, introduced the two resolutions. In his proposal to remove the no-strike clause, which has been in effect since the beginning of World War II, Pritchett said action would be taken to remove the pledge from Canadian contracts.

Some 30 other resolutions were adopted by the convention, which is being attended by 300 delegates from 21 states and Canada.

The resolutions supported the six-hour day and 30-hour week, forest conservation, long time post war planning and federal expansion of education and child welfare programs.

Family of Eleven Joins Four Kin In Five-Room House

Orange, Calif., Nov. 16—(U.P.) Mrs. Lucille Vernoy and her nine children moved into a five-room cottage with four other Vernoy's today while Ex-Serviceman Stephen Vernoy hunted for a home for his brood.

The Vernoy's arrived last night after a cross-country railroad ride from Lathrop, Mo. A grandfather, grandmother and great-uncle also made the trip to help Mrs. Vernoy with the children, aged 2 to 13.

Vernoy met the clan at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. A. C. Vernoy, and her three children, where the family of 11 intends to live until Vernoy finds a home to buy. Vernoy had not seen his family since Oct. 10, 1944.

Mrs. Vernoy brought along a suitcase full of fried chicken and sandwiches which lasted until Tuesday. After that, she said, she had to pay $8.10 for breakfast and $11.25 for lunch for her brood of nine.

Oregon WHERE FISHING INNOVATIONS ADD TO RECORD CATCHES

MODERN FISHING SCENE ON THE OREGON COAST
Many blimp spotters helped Oregon fishermen weigh in 60,000,000 pounds of fish last year at Astoria, one of the nation's major fishing ports, at the mouth of the Columbia river.

"Eyes in the skies" is only one of the unusual means adapted by Oregon's enterprising commercial fishermen to assure a constant catch of tuna, salmon and other fish each season.

Crazy fishermen, alert for new aides in gathering more and more seafood, were assisted during wartime by the navy's lighter-than-air base at Tillamook. Blimps on patrol off Oregon's 400-mile shore spotted the great fish schools and radioed locations to 2500 small fishing craft.

The inconsistencies of "fishermen's luck" have been overcome further by a long list of expedients, proved advantageous by experience. As a result, Oregon deep-sea and river fishing produced an income of $30,000,000 last year.

The industry gives employment to approximately 9000 fishermen and to more than 8000 cannery workers, dealers, processors and distributors. Employment is spread to an even larger figure by purchase of supplies, boats and equipment.
