

FIND SKELETON OF MISSING WOMAN

Coos Bay, Ore., Nov. 23—(U.P.)—State police today identified a skeleton found in southwestern Oregon as that of Mrs. Kathleen W. Tomlin of San Antonio, Tex., who disappeared a year ago.

Capt. Paul Parsons of the state police at Medford said a watch, a ring and fragments of women's slacks found with the skeleton left no question that the remains were those of the Texas woman. The skeleton, its dentured skull pierced by two bullets, was found 18 miles south of Gold Beach in remote Curry county. District Attorney Herbert T. Dewart of Curry county said nothing had been heard from Mrs. Tomlin since the day a year ago she telephoned her husband in San Antonio from Portland that she was leaving that day for home. Her locked car was found at Drain, Ore., where a highway veers toward Gold Beach.

State police have been unable so far to reach the missing woman's husband at his Texas home. Tomlin came to Oregon earlier to assist state police in their search for his wife.
