EVERYBODY PUTS WORDS IN MY MOUTH
I'll never get over being irked at the frequent pirating on this column by quacks, nostrum mongers and food merchants who seize upon something I have said here, strip it carefully of its context, and use it along with my name, without my knowledge or consent, in their advertising. Such piracy of a physician's name is illegal in some states. But I do warn all readers that no one is authorized to use my name in that way, not even if the merchant calls me an "eminent medical authority" or a "noted physician." Nor is any one authorized to tell you he uses the methods I recommend—for that matter, you should remember that if a doctor is good, his satisfied patients see to it that their friends employ him, but if he is no good he has to resort to other ways of luring customers to his shop.

Another complaint I desire to file (you are right, I couldn't get into the bowling green today) is about the way readers have of putting words in my mouth. For instance, I stated here recently why I should not be willing to receive Pasteur treatment in any conceivable circumstance—because I fear ill effects of the virus more than I fear possible development of rabies following a bite or wound by an animal presumed to be rabid. A woman hailed this with some satisfaction. She wrote: "I see by yesterday's paper that you haven't much use for virus, vaccine, serum and the like. Also I see that the health department is conducting a campaign to immunize all school children against diphtheria. . . . It is a crime to submit innocent children to such treatment. . . ."

If anybody asks me I say the immunization of every child against diphtheria is a great boon to the present welfare and happiness and the future security of America. Every good parent should see to it that his or her children are Schick tested, for susceptibility and, if found susceptible, immunized against diphtheria before the children enter nursery school.

Another reader writes: "I was amazed and saddened when I read your advice that people over 50 should drink a glass of beer or wine daily—amazed because I thought you were opposed to liquor as a matter of conviction and saddened because the son of a W. C. T. U. mother had departed from her principles and teachings. . . ."

If the reader will show me where I said beer or wine—30 should take beer or wine—that is, send me a clipping of the item—I'll send her a complete set of Little Lessons in the Ways of Health.

Always B Complex
I am diabetic. Which is better to take, vitamin B1, or vitamin B-complex? What strength B1? They come in many different strengths. How many times a day? (Mrs. A. S. L.)
Answer—As long as one can still swallow the vitamin B-complex is always preferable to vitamin B1 (thiamine) alone, in my opinion. For in-

Says Many People Can't Help Getting Rich
"Many rich and successful men and women," declares the author of a sensational new book, "have no more brains or energy than average. They are usually driven to success. Frequently they are so helpless they can't quit even when they want to. Their money is made in spite of themselves."
The author gives a most astonishing formula for wealth and success, different from anything ever before published, a formula which he developed while making four fortunes—two for other people and two for himself. Even while the formula was still incomplete, he made and lost fortunes. Now the formula is completed, he declares success can be won again by the average person, and made permanent.
The formula can be followed by rich or poor, in any job or profession, in any honest trade or business. And it is so simple that the entire book can be read in three hours. Its title is: "Get Rich in Spite of Yourself, and that is exactly what it tells how to do. Many readers wonder why they did not discover the formula for themselves, it is so amazingly right, so plainly practical and workable.

The entire book, containing the complete formula, is offered for only one dollar. The publishers say "Read it for three weeks, and if you are not delighted to return the book and get your dollar back." The publishers, Graf & Graf, Dept. 20, 434 N. Vista St., Los Angeles 36, Calif., will be pleased to send the book C.O.D. to any reader of this article—$1.00 on delivery plus the usual postage and C.O.D. charges. Or the reader may remit $1.00 with order and save all postage charges. In either case, the dollar will be promptly returned if the book is sent back within three weeks. This liberal introductory offer may later be withdrawn; so order today. Get rich in spite of yourself.—Adv.
