OPA NOTE!

Chungking, Dec. 11—Note to OPA: The city government of Nanking, which becomes the capital of China again this month, has ruled that rents there can be no more than 60 times those of 1937. However, the landlords have learned how to lick this. They practice the "key money" system under which a tenant, in addition to paying rent, must also pay a large sum for a key with which to enter his house.
